CALLS PURGE 'DICTATOR ACT'

JAIL HINES AID FOR SWITCHING HIS TESTIMONY

Denies Linking Boss to Policy Racket.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

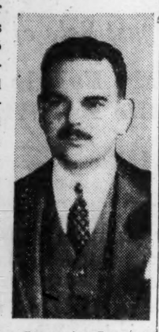
New York, Aug. 18.—[Special.]—A Democratic district captain under Tammany Leader James J. Hines was clapped into Tombs prison tonight. He had caused a sensation in the trial of the political boss by repudiating the story he told a month ago to the New York county grand jury.



Prosecutor Dewey.

The witness was Julius Williams, a Negro bartender and one time policy runner. At the end of today's session of the trial, Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand Pecora increased Williams' bail from $500 to $10,000.

Justice Pecora acted on request of District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey. Dewey then took Williams into custody as a material witness.

Switches His Testimony.

Williams told the grand jury Hines had sent him to the policy gang headquarters for a job. Today he denied all that would have been damaging to Hines. The Tammany boss is charged with being the political fixer for the policy gang racketeers.

Surprised and angered, Dewey tore into Williams in an attempt to learn why he changed his story.

Before this episode a succession of witnesses laid the foundation to support the charge that Hines bribed, intimidated, and influenced judges and other officials so the gang could operate New York's policy racket with immunity from the law. The gang was headed by Arthur [Dutch Schultz] Flegenheimer, gang chief, who later was slain.

3 Tell of Discharge.

These witnesses, Camille Monsanto, Leon Gomez, and William Edwards, told how they had been caught in a raid on Dec. 22, 1932. They testified they had been discharged in short order when taken before the late Magistrate Francis J. Erwin.

Police caught thirty-seven persons in the headquarters working over policy slips—pieces of paper bearing the names and bets of persons who wager on the odds that come up daily at the horse track pari-mutuel machines.

The judge ruled that none of the prisoners actually had the policy slips in his hands and dismissed every case. Dewey has charged that Erwin was one of the judges controled by Hines.

Grand Jury Told of Job.

Then Williams was called. He was expected to testify, as he had before the grand jury, that in 1932 he asked Hines for a job and was sent to the headquarters for the policy racket at 351 Lenox avenue in Harlem. This is in the Negro section, where the numbers game is most popular. Hines, according to the grand jury minutes, told him to look up George Weinberg, a Schultz gangster who has pleaded guilty to the policy racket charges.

Instead, Williams denied ever having been sent to Weinberg. He said he did not know Hines well until 1936, which is beyond the scope of the indictment.

Handed an affidavit he had signed in Dewey's office, Williams said he could neither read nor write. Therefore, he said, he did not know what the paper contained.

Threatened, Says Witness.

Lloyd Paul Stryker, chief of counsel for the Tammany boss, was jubilant. Williams became a star witness for the defense. He said he had been threatened with jail at the district attorney's office unless he would agree to testify against Hines.

It developed that Williams had taken a civil service examination in 1909 to get a job hauling ashes for the sanitation department.

"You took a civil service examination and yet you say you can't read?" shouted Dewey.

Williams said it wasn't necessary to read. "We lifted weights for the examination," he explained.

Then Dewey led the witness into an admission that he had collected policy game slips.

"How could you handle bets for

RAIDERS SMASH GAMBLING DIVE ON NORTH SIDE

Seized Records Show It Ran at a Loss.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

State's Attorney Courtney's axmen smashed ahead yesterday in their boss' drive to bleed the Capone vice and gambling syndicate to death. Forcing their way into a tastefully furnished handbook at 122 East Superior street, raiders drove out 225 patrons and reduced the place to a shambles.

It was the second such raid in two days. The first occurred Wednesday at 29 West Randolph street, where furnishings valued at $10,000 were destroyed.

Gambling, particularly horse betting, is furnishing the war chest of the revived Capone mob, Courtney charges. He tried some months ago to convict the gamblers in court. Juries turned them loose. Now he is destroying their property, thousands of dollars' worth at a clip.

Property of Syndicate.

Records seized in the Superior street handbook indicated that it was a syndicate property. They also showed that the raid was the climax of two weeks of bad luck for the owners of the gambling joint.

Lieut. Tom Kelly, leader of the raiders, found a series of daily cash statements, from Aug. 2 to Wednesday. The records, assuming that the employés of the place were not holding out on their bosses, showed that overhead and a series of longshot winners at Washington Park had kept the handbook in the red during the month.

In 14 days the book handled about $20,000 in bets. On five of the 14 days the house showed a net loss. On the other nine it was a winner, enough to put its gross profit from the horse players at $724. This, however, was insufficient to cover expenses of operating the place. These amounted to $1,035 for the period, leaving a deficit of $311.

Report for Gang Bookkeeper.

Most of the cash statements found were carbon copies. This, with the fact that they bore the notation "112 E. S.," abbreviating the address, was taken by Lieut. Kelly as evidence that he had found a syndicate book. The address would be necessary, he commented, only if the report was being forwarded to a gang bookkeeper who was consolidating daily reports from a chain of handbooks.

Daily expense statements showed that five employés, "Hy," "Sam," "Dan," "Wes," and "Farley," were drawing only $4 or $5 a day. The manager, cashier, and sheet writers apparently, were carried on a separate pay roll from headquarters, since there were eight employés present at the time of the raid and the manager was missing.

Racing service describing the race by wire from the track as it is run cost this book only $30 a week, a low rate for Chicago, perhaps as a concession to its poor business. Loud speakers were turned off the moment raiders entered yesterday, but an hour later, a private telephone was still open to the switchboard in the racing service headquarters south of the loop.

Other Items of Expense.

Another considerable item of expense was the racing forms and scratch sheets purchased by the book for the convenience of its patrons. These delivered cost about $50 a week. Rent for the place was $120 a month, one entry showed. Run-down sheets, on which sheetwriters enter bets as they take them, receipt books and tickets for betters cost $26.20 one week, an entry showed.

Other headaches for the management were reflected in two entries on Aug. 6. They were: "Bad checks, $111," and "Shortage, $19.80."

Another of the vicissitudes of the gambling trade was reflected in the statement for Aug. 8. Unlike the other statements, it did not list the daily betting and the players' winnings, but only the net loss for the day. Beneath it was the entry "Arrested."

On that day state's attorney's police raided the place, arresting the man-

MOHAMMED INSULTED BY H. G. WELLS, 400 SHOUT IN A PARADE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 18.—Four hundred turbaned Mohammedans today paraded through the streets of London in protest against H. G. Wells' "A Short History of the World." They demanded that the book be suppressed because they said it insulted Mohammed and the Koran, holy book of the Moslem faith. The Moslems shouted "Down with the ignorant Wells!"

Starting at the Bank of England, the dusky protestors marched up Fleet street to the offices of the high commissioner for India, Sir Firoz Khan Noon. There they lodged a formal complaint against Wells' book.

Wells wrote that the prophet "married a number of wives in his declining years and his life on the whole was, by modern standards, unedifying. He seems to have been a man compounded of considerable vanity, greed, cunning, self-deception, and quite sincere religious passion. . . . Regarded as literature or philosophy, the Koran certainly is unworthy of its alleged divine authorship."

"HELP YOURSELF" DRAWS ARMY OF BERRY PICKERS

South Sterling, Pa., Aug. 18.—(AP)—"Help yourself" signs today drew hundreds of berry pickers to E. D. Dunning's 40 acre blackberry patch near this northern Pennsylvania town.

Lugging containers ranging in size from a pint to 10 gallons, the pickers came from as far as 50 miles to take advantage of Dunning's offer of "All you want—for nothing, and no strings attached."

This is the second year Dunning has thrown open his patch to the public. "I am opposed to waste," he explained. To make his offer widely known, he asked newspapers to print an announcement.

Shoots Niece, Kills Herself While in Park

For the second time in six days tragedy struck last night at the home of John F. Hahn, prominent Evanston real estate man. His daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Cooke, was shot and seriously wounded by her aunt. The aunt, Miss Martha McGuire, then killed herself.

The shooting occurred in Bird park at Kankakee. Mrs. Cooke, a patient at the Manteno State Hospital for the Insane, had been taken out for a drive by Miss McGuire. Four hours later they were found lying side by side on the banks of the Kankakee river in a secluded section of the park.

Mr. Hahn was not in his home at 702 Ridge avenue last night to be notified of the tragedy. He was en route to Philadelphia, Pa., to bury his son, John F. Jr. The son died last Saturday. Mr. Hahn's wife died April 5.

Little Known of Shooting.

Little was known of the actual shooting. Several persons were in the park, but were screened from the river bank by a grove of trees.

Miss McGuire, who lives at 3852 Calumet avenue, called at the Manteno hospital early in the afternoon. A woman in her early 60s, Miss McGuire often had visited her niece. On the social service report at the hospital is Miss McGuire's statement:

"I promised my sister I would always look after Elizabeth."

Treated in Several Institutions.

Mrs. Cooke, a widow, 42 years old, had been treated for dementia precox in several institutions since 1934. She entered the Manteno asylum on April 16, ten days after the death of her mother.

"She was responding very well to treatment," declared Dr. Ralph Hinton, the managing director. "Mrs. Cooke was well behaved, a nonviolent patient. Her aunt seemed perfectly normal when she called in the afternoon."

After being given permission to take her niece for an airing, Miss McGuire called a taxicab. She told the driver, Frank Bigger, that she and Mrs. Cooke wanted to do some water color painting.

Bigger left them in Bird park, where they set up their easels. He returned at 7:30, but Miss McGuire told him they were not yet ready and asked him to wait in his cab. Seated some distance from the river he heard three shots a half an hour later. Then a pause and a fourth shot.

Bigger rushed to the river edge. There he found Miss McGuire dead. Mrs. Cooke had been shot in the abdomen and hand. She was taken to the Kankakee state hospital. Before losing consciousness, she said that Miss McGuire had become "irritable and ugly in the taxi."

Mr. Hahn was city clerk of Evanston from 1899 to 1925. In 1931 he was an unsuccessful candidate for mayor. For several years he has been deputy county assessor of the suburb.

COURT ENJOINS FATHER FROM TEACHING SONS DOCTRINS OF NAZIS

An injunction to restrain Harry Doherty from teaching Nazi doctrins to his two young sons was issued yesterday by Judge Peter M. Schwaba. The children, Harry Jr., 10 years old, and Jackie, 8, testified that their father forced them to greet him with Nazi salutes and shouts of "Heil, Hitler."

Doherty lives at 1321 North Dearborn street. He is a bell captain in a loop hotel. The boys live with their mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Doherty, at 4600 Drexel avenue.

Doherty is suing his wife for divorce, charging cruelty. In a cross bill she charges him with misconduct. Doherty was not present when his wife brought the children to court yesterday. The injunction also restrains him from seeing them until the next court hearing on Wednesday. Doherty is paying $50 a month for the children's support.

Urges Donkey Parliament; Hungarian Nazi Imprisoned

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Aug. 18.—(AP)—The Superior court today sentenced Imre Kemer Inagy, a Hungarian Nazi leader, to three months in prison for insulting parliament. Kemer Inagy was accused of suggesting in a campaign speech that the government seat 247 donkeys in the Hungarian parliament in place of the present deputies. The donkeys, he said, "for much less money would nod their heads for yes on any government proposal."

LIKE JIMMY, OUR POLITICIANS FIND INSURANCE PAYS

BY PARKE BROWN.

James Roosevelt's second answer to the charge that he has combined politics and insurance came out yesterday.

[Young Mr. Roosevelt's statement will be found on page 2. It contains the admission that he once asked his father to be nice to a couple of customers.]

The Roosevelt insurance business and its relation to political pull developed an inquiry into a similar state of affairs in Chicago and Illinois.

At least some twenty Chicago politicians are in the insurance business. Not only this, they are politicians and they sell insurance to the city, state, county, and other governments which they depend on for jobs.

Some of these salesmen were insurance men before they went into politics. But most of them are politicians who found insurance an easy source of revenue. Their activity blankets all offices.

Spoils System Recognized.

Long ago nonpolitical brokers and agents gave up all thought of getting any of that kind of business. They say it is part of the spoils system.

The reply of the politico-insurance men is that they don't see how it is skin off anybody's nose if they represent first class companies, sell the same policies and bonds as other brokers and charge exactly the same rates charged by everybody else. They argue that neither the taxpayer nor the governmental contractor is hurt one penny.

The same sort of reply is made to complaints that—in much less degree than has been alleged in the Roosevelt case—political pressure is used to get insurance business outside the governmental field. And to it is added a universal denial that political heat is turned on when a business man turns his insurance over to a political friend. Now and then the business man is rescued from inspectors or is granted a favor. But either is merely an act of friendship.

Decline to Name Abuses.

Insurance men, including representatives of the Insurance Brokers' Association of Illinois, Inc., decline requests to name specific abuses of official power involving anything other than what they called petty neighborhood politics. Their contention is, however, that the total amount of business garnered politically is large and they insist that it rightfully belongs to the men who follow the insurance business as their only occupation.

Only half jesting, a politician not involved in the controversy contended that many office holders whose official salaries are drained by constant campaigning must increase their incomes by some means and that there are far worse routes than the insurance method. He said the insurance business appeals because it can be made a part time occupation.

Completely serious, he asserted

REP. O'CONNOR ASKS FOR FIGHT ON ROOSEVELT

Freedom at Stake, Nation Told.

New York, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Representative John O'Connor [D., N. Y.] tonight asked the nation to back him in his fight on the Roosevelt administration. In a radio address he said that "the President's attack on me and other members of congress is an escalator to a dictatorship."

Rep. O'Connor.

"If the people of the United States desire to extend an invitation to a dictatorship," he said, "we should know about it just as speedily as possible.

Accepts Roosevelt Challenge.

"If the purge is going to work in America, the sooner we know it the better. I for one have no hesitancy in snatching up the gage which the President has thrown down."

O'Connor, placed by the President on the administration's purge list, said the issue was: "Which shall it be—democracy or monocracy?"

He said the President had read at his press conference a New York newspaper editorial containing "a brief but viciously untrue reference to me," and had added, "You can interpret that as coming from me."

[He referred to a part of a New York Post editorial, which said O'Connor is "one of the most effective obstructionists in the lower house" and "labors to tear down New Deal strength . . . and pickle New Deal legislation."]

Insult, Says O'Connor.

"Nearly every man in public life has been insulted by that newspaper," said O'Connor. "But it is quite different to be insulted by the President of the United States. One naturally feels it very keenly and naturally is at a disadvantage to reply in kind.

"I would be derelict, however, in my duty as a representative elected by the people and as an American citizen if I did not express myself as to what I believe to be the issue now definitly raised in this country.

"Will the purge work in America? If we are to revert to a one-man government the people should be made conscious of the issue at once. If they submit to the change they should do it with their eyes open."

Cites Dictator Bill Fight.

The veteran representative of Manhattan's 16th congressional district said his opposition to the President's reorganization bill was "the one unabsolvable sin which has placed me high on the purge list."

"Other names are inscribed on that roll of ex-communicants," he added, "because they honestly feared there was a desire on the part of the executive to control the court branch of our government.

"Some of us, still unchastened, still maintaining the same views, feel that the indictment may yet constitute an honor roll.

First Fight on Independence.

"The independence of thought and action by our representatives has never heretofore been challenged.

"One hundred per cent this, or 100 per cent that, is a very recent innovation in our national ideology.

"The dictator demands the 100 per cent—and, of course, will last only as long as he has it.

"The repetitious disavowal of any desire to become a dictator cannot be taken at full faith when actions evidence the contrary.

"No dictator in Europe would for one moment admit he is a dictator. They all palaver and prate noneyed words about democracy and justify their every act—no matter how drastic—as for the best interest of their free people. They all claim to be supported by a mandate from the people.

Legislature First Target.

"Current history records that the first step of the dictator is to abolish, or make impotent, the legislative branch of the government. That step is indispensable to the fulfilment of his program and the attainment of his 100 per cent.

"What the American people are seriously concerned about, at this very moment, is this demand of the President for only yes-men in our parliament. They are asking each other: 'Well, what is the difference between that and having no legislative branch of the government at all?'

"Does it not, either way, lead inevitably to the same end—one-man government?

Recalls American Revolution.

"There are still some of us left who recall that our forefathers established the American system of government after a revolution against one-man government; that they set up a tripartite system, an executive, a legislature, and a court, to remain forever independent of each other's encroachments.

"Are they still independent, or do we now stand at Thermopolae?"

Representative O'Connor said that "the editorial which the President accepted as his own text used an expression, only recently current, that the President is the responsible head of the government."

New Conception in America.

"That is an entirely new conception in America," O'Connor continued.

"It is true that he is called the chief executive, the head of one of the three independent branches of the government, but each and every member of the other two branches have their own responsibility direct and separate and apart from any responsibility to the President.

"A representative has no responsibility to the President.

"How the opposite of that axiom grew is difficult to understand.

"The responsibility of a representative is to the people whom he represents and his country. He is elected directly by the people—to them only is he accountable—and that is so, whether or not the chief executive is a member of the same political party."

OUST GEORGE SUPPORTER

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—Edgar B. Dunlap announced late today he had been forced by Washington authorities to resign as Georgia counsel of the Reconstruction Finance corporation because of his political activity on behalf of Senator Walter F. George.

Edgar B. Dunlap.

President Roosevelt has demanded that George, veteran Democratic senator of Georgia, be purged from the party by defeat in the Sept. 14 primary. In an address in Barnesville a week ago the President indorsed the candidacy of Lawrence S. Camp, federal district attorney, who is campaigning on a Roosevelt platform for George's seat.

Protests Ouster of Another.

Senator George recently protested to the senate campaign expenditures committee that another federal employé was discharged for supporting him. He said Earle Cocke was dismissed as Georgia director of the National Emergency council for aiding his campaign.

A telegram to Dunlap requesting his resignation was signed by Claude E. Hamilton Jr., general counsel of the RFC. It stated his resignation would take effect Aug. 20. Dunlap had been state counsel for the RFC since July, 1933.

In his telegram of resignation, Dunlap asserted he had as much right to be active in the primary campaign as District Attorney Camp and his assistants. He declared he was resigning to "preserve my independence and integrity as a citizen of the sovereign state of Georgia."

Holds Directors Helpless.

Dunlap said his resignation followed a conversation he had in Washington recently with Hamilton and Emil Schram, a director of the RFC, in which they demanded he cease his activities in behalf of George. He told Hamilton in his reply: "I realize that you personally and the directors of the RFC are helpless in this matter.

"You made no complaint of my work and expressly stated that if I ceased my activity for Senator George everything would be all right," Dunlap reminded Hamilton.

"Dunlap's action proves the ballot of the people of Georgia cannot be controled from Washington," said Senator George. "The federal officials of Georgia, like Mr. Dunlap, are determined to see this battle through to the finish."

In Washington, Chairman Morris Sheppard [D., Tex.] of the senate campaign expenditures committee, said it would look into the situation.

Score of Officials Sell to City, State, County.

that financial pressure exercised largely through banks is far more effective and far more frequently employed than is political heat in determining where corporations and other large business enterprises place their insurance.

Horner's Plumpest Plum.

These days the most widely known instance of politico-insurance is that represented by the firm of Horan & O'Brien, which consists of A. J. Horan, chief bailif of the Municipal court, and Martin J. O'Brien, former chairman of the Democratic county committee and now public administrator of Cook county by appointment of Gov. Horner. The latter post is considered the plumpest plum at the governor's disposal.

When A. J. Cermak was elected mayor in 1931 Horan & O'Brien stepped into a monopoly on the bonding and insurance business of the city hall, school board, sanitary district, and county building. When Henry Horner was elected governor in 1932 they added the state business. State contractors were—and still are—forced into line.

Two years ago when Horner was opposed by the Cook county organization, both Horan and O'Brien joined in the fight against Chairman P. A. Nash and Mayor Kelly. Thereupon the city hall, school board, and sanitary district business was taken away from them. The present plan is to divide the city hall bonds among more loyal members of the organization, chiefly into three parts.

Three Major Participants.

The three participants are Joseph L. Gill, chief clerk of the Municipal court and secretary of the county committee, who sold insurance long before he entered politics; Sanitary Trustee James M. Whalen, who only recently has become an insurance man, and the firm of Touhy & Sain consisting of Sanitary Trustee John J. Touhy and Ald. Henry L. Sain, who represents Touhy's ward in the city council. Whalen has not yet come into his full share.

Neither Touhy nor Whalen has had anything to do with insurance business connected with the sanitary district which pays their annual salaries. Neither has Ross A. Woodhull, president of the district, who personally handles a small insurance business of his own through Robert H. Beard & Co.

Beard married a cousin of Woodhull and is said to benefit from most of the district's insurance business. Woodhull says most emphatically, however, that he never has steered any of the district's business to his distant relative. He says competition always is invited.

Auditor's Business to Collins.

Nonpolitical brokers who talk about the firm of Horan & O'Brien also mention Philip W. Collins, almost the only Republican named in such discussions. Collins is more widely known for his part in American Legion elections than in party affairs, and when Edward J. Barrett gave all the extensive insurance business of the state auditor's office to Collins the fact was explained at first as due to the Legion association of Collins and the auditor.

Under Barrett's predecessor, Oscar Nelson, an individual was named receiver for each state bank that closed its doors. Each receiver gave his own bond. Some cost more than $1,000. Barrett concentrated hundreds of receiverships in the hands of the late William L. O'Connell. At the same time, Collins, who did not meet Barrett until after the latter's election, was urging concentration of the insurance business of the office. Eventually his plan was accepted.

As a result the receiver's bond for each bank was reduced so that the cost in each instance was $50. Over-insurance against fire losses was eliminated by appraisals. The cost of employés' bonds was cut. A big saving resulted and continuation of the old extravagance was avoided.

Aldermen, Legislators Active.

The Chicago Title & Trust company, because of the hundreds of properties placed in its hands through receiverships and otherwise, faced a problem similar to that in the state auditor's office. Largely because he could show the benefits of organizing such as he had done for Barrett, Collins obtaind the business of the Title & Trust company. The company says his plan operated with complete satisfaction. Politics played no part in this business but criticism of Collins is based on his having this business as well as the business of the auditor's office. Collins throws his books open to newspaper investigators.

All told there are a large number of aldermen and legislators selling insurance these days. In the last legislative handbook four state senators and ten state representatives described themselves as insurance operators. Most of them were from Chicago. None of them has attained such success that he has attracted adverse comment from the non-political brokers, since they confine themselves almost entirely to small policies in their own political territories. But one of the councilmen has attracted much comment to himself because his bailiwick is an important one.

A Little Here, a Little There.

John J. [Bath House] Coughlin is the alderman of the First ward, sometimes called the richest ward in the world because it includes all the loop district. Coughlin has been selling all kinds of insurance for many years. Right now his office is on LaSalle street across from the city hall.

Throughout those many years he has been picking up a little insurance here and a little there until some brokers say that he now handles about one-tenth of the fire, burglary and plate glass insurance that is carried in the loop. When a downtown property owner has a matter of city hall business, whether it is a complaint or a permit, his problem is taken to the alderman. Affably the alderman does what he can.

For more than a year, Ald. Coughlin has been hospitalized or kept in his home by illness. Although deprived of his direct supervision, his employés have carried on. They still acquire new business, the brokers say, although the alderman is not able to visit the city hall. His power is still recognized in the ward and downtown business still wants to be on good terms with him.

Slap Gets Divorce

Last Christmas was not a happy occasion for Mrs. Yvonne Marie Newton. Her only gift from her husband, Andrew, was a slap on the nose, she told Judge Peter M. Schwaba yesterday. The judge granted her a divorce. Mrs. Newton is 21 years old and lives at 559 Roscoe street. Her mother, Mrs. Patricia De Corso, who says she is only 33 years old, corroborated charges of cruelty. She lives at 3478 Broadway.

ROOSEVELT SON ADMITS ASKING FAVOR FOR TWO

Writes Second Article in His Defense.

New York, Aug. 18.—[Special.]—James Roosevelt admits in a second and last explanatory article to appear in Collier's for Aug. 27, that he asked "especially good care" for two of his important insurance customers who called on his father after the presidential election of 1932.

They were George Washington Hill, president of the American Tobacco company, and Paul Hahn, his vice president, both of whom went to Warm Springs, Ga. They discussed with the President elect on Dec. 1, 1932, Mr. Roosevelt's declared belief that the price of tobacco to the growers should be raised by appropriate legislation. The visit and its purpose were recorded in newspaper reports at the time.

Reveals Timing of Appeal.

Young Roosevelt now reveals the timing of his private appeal on behalf of Hill for the express purpose of contradicting Alva Johnston's article last June in the Saturday Evening Post, which said the son asked the father to be "nice to Mr. Hill" on a Warm Springs visit at a time when the son was attempting to sell Mr. Hill a $2,500,000 life insurance policy.

The Warm Springs visit did not occur, according to young Roosevelt until months after the $2,500,000 policy had been sold. He said his intervention on behalf of the tobacco magnate visiting his father, president elect, was telegraphed in view of more insurance business with Hill.

Quotes Telegram.

"On Nov. 29, 1932, I learned that Mr. Hill was to visit father at Warm Springs," James Roosevelt writes. "He was the possible source of more business [which we never got]. Therefore I wired Miss Marguerite Lehand—you know, Missy, father's secretary. Here's the telegram: 'George W. Hill, president American Tobacco company and Vice President Paul Hahn as you know arrive at Warm Springs Thursday morning. I am trying not to ask many favors but will greatly appreciate it if you would take especially good care of both them because it is important in a business way to me. He has interesting plan, part of which directly concerns his own company and therefore somewhat confidential. Thanks ever so much. Jim Roosevelt.'"

Young Roosevelt, then 25 years old and with two years of experience as an insurance broker, according to his earlier Collier's article, reveals now that the National Distillers Products corporation sought him out early in 1933 to cover liquor stocks ranging in value from $60,000,000 to $100,000,000. He said Seton Porter, president of the Distillers corporation, said he "had had some difference of opinion with the brokers who already handled his insurance."

Says Hustling Won Account.

Jimmy declares "we did a bit of hustling and we got that account—the only whisky account we have—by writing a new form of whisky insurance policy and having it accepted by the underwriters' association.

"Before we go any further," he repeated, as in his earlier article, "I'm saying that never have I been asked by a prospect or a client to do anything except write insurance contracts. It has never been suggested to me in any form, directly or indirectly, that I intercede for a client or a prospect in any government branch, commission, bureau, or department.

"And this has surprised me. I quite expected some sort of overtures. I would have turned down such requests, had they been made. And naturally I have never suggested to any client, prospective or actual, that I might exert political influence in his behalf."

LEANDER J. M'CORMICK SEEKS TO ADOPT 2ND WIFE'S TWO CHILDREN

Leander J. McCormick of the harvester family, filed a petition before County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki yesterday to adopt the two children of his wife by a former marriage. She is Renee de Fleurieu Fontarce McCormick, formerly the Countess de Fleurieu.

Mrs. Leander McCormick.

The children are Marie Blanche de Brotonne, 17 years old, and Thierry de Brotonne, 16. They are in England, where the son is in school. Their father is Guy de Brotonne, who was divorced by their mother May 15, 1923.

Mr. McCormick, who has been living in England and Germany recently with Mrs. McCormick, is now in Chicago, but was not in court. He was represented by Attorney John P. Wilson Jr. Mrs. McCormick is abroad, Mr. Wilson said.

Mr. McCormick married the countess in London in July, 1933. His first wife was the former Alice Cudany, daughter of Edward A. Cudahy Sr. She was granted a divorce in Reno, Nev., in 1929.

Chief Sullivan Proud as Night Bloomer Flowers

Chief of Detectives John L. Sullivan was a proud man last night—not for his prowess as thief catcher or sleuth, but as a horticulturist. Blooming on his front porch at 5856 Forest Glen avenue for the first time in a year was his night blooming cereus. The delicate white waxy petals began unfolding at 9 p. m., sending out a heavy lily-like perfume. This tropical plant of the cactus family seldom blooms more than once a year in a home, and then only for a few hours before midnight.

AX MEN WRECK SECOND JOINT IN GAMBLING WAR

A repercussion of the arrest was reflected on Aug. 12 by the entry, "Court, $25." This apparently was a lawyer's fee, since Drew was not fined.

During the two week period the book handled a daily average of $1,400 in bets from 50 cents up. It made less than 4 per cent on this amount, or about $52 a day, against expenses averaging $74 daily. Gamblers contend a book must clear 10 per cent on money handled to show much profit.

Betters' Best Day Aug. 9.

The horse players had their best day on Aug. 9, when the house lost $179 to them. The house's best day was Aug. 12, when it won $364. That, significantly, was a day on which favorites won six of the eight races at Washington Park. Days on which the house lost were those on which long shots predominated at that track.

A ledger seized by Lieut. Kelly, while kept in rudimentary form, indicated that the Superior street book had seen better days. It was apparently opened in March, and $400 in working capital was put in. With the horse players trying to pick winners on southern tracks by remote control the end of March saw expenses for the month paid, the $400 advance repaid, and $700 left in the till.

The book was operated in a converted garage, with a betting room about 50 by 125 feet. One door opened from an apartment lobby at the Superior street address. There was a rear entrance on Armstrong court, Chicago's shortest street, which runs west from Michigan avenue just south of Chicago avenue.

Lieut. Kelly and his squad forced the rear door. The patrons were told to leave. Three of the employés, Frank Ferro, Daniel Waller, and Edward Murphy, were instructed to put the cash on hand in an express safe behind the betting counter and were then hustled off to the state's attorney's office. Questioned there, they were indefinite as to the owner of the place. Drew the manager was absent.

While a hundred or more onlookers craned their necks in vain outside, Lieut. Kelly and his squad went to work with their axes. Counters were slashed to kindling A hundred chromium armchairs were reduced to junk. Even the paneling on the walls was shattered.

When the wrecking had been going on for an hour, the telephone rang.

"Who won the fourth at Washington Park?" inquired the caller of the policeman who answered.

100,000 GATHER TOMORROW FOR MUSIC FESTIVAL

8,000 Will Participate in Mammoth Spectacle.

Festival Tickets!

Reserved seats for the Chicagoland Music Festival are now on sale at 50 cents and $1 each. Call at the Chicago Tribune public service bureaus, 1 South Dearborn street and in Tribune Tower lobby.

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

Throughout Chicagoland and beyond its borders there began yesterday a movement toward this city. In twenty-five of the United States and in several provinces of Canada thousands of persons were bestirring themselves.

All are heading for the ninth Chicagoland Music festival which will be held tomorrow night in Soldiers' field. Some of them will be among the 8,000 who will participate in the vast spectacle.

Others, outnumbering these, will be part of the audience of nearly 100,000 which will view the colorful festival from the terraced benches of the great stone horseshoe.

On Threshold of Careers.

Among those who will participate are choruses, bands, orchestras, and individual instrumentalists and vocalists. For these people, old and young, this journey to Chicago may mean much.

If they are successful in the final competitions that will be held tomorrow they see the doors swing wide to musical careers. Many are the ambitious musicians of past years who have established themselves through their success in the Chicagoland Music festivals.

Audience Will Be Huge.

For many of the contestants, now on their way to Chicago, their appearance in Soldiers' field tomorrow night will be a real triumph. They will be playing and singing before more people probably than they have ever seen in one audience, more people than make up the populations of their home towns.

And while great success is still just over the horizon for them, there will be great stars at the festival who have already won their places in the sun. Among these is Alec Templeton, Great Britain's famous blind pianist, who will arrive at 9:45 a. m. today aboard a United Airlines sleeper plane which left Los Angeles last night.

He will be met at the airport by a committee which will escort him to the Stevens hotel where he will be a guest at the festival luncheon at 1 p. m. This luncheon officially ushers in the festival week-end, which will be crowded with events and contests that will make music history in Chicagoland.

Corrigan Arrives Tomorrow.

Also winging his way toward Chicago is Douglas Corrigan, the heroic young aviator whose celebrated wrong way flight from New York to Ireland won him the acclaim of the world. He is flying the $900 plane that carried him across the ocean and will arrive tomorrow morning after several stops between here and New York. His appearance in Soldiers' field at the music festival tomorrow night will climax Chicago's welcome to him.

But not all the stars who will be there are from out of town. There are many famous choral organizations that Chicago can call her own. One of the most stirring phases of the great show throughout the years has been the work of its massed choruses. Their singing adds a touch of solemn grandeur that nothing else could.

And one of the most noted of these is the festival chorus of 2,500 voices under the direction of Noble Cain.

In Continuous Demand.

About fourteen years ago Noble Cain was a musical instructor at the Senn High school. A few years later he was the conductor of the Chicago a cappella choir. He constantly is being called to stage great choral events.

Another noted band of singers on the festival program are the 1,000 men of the United German Male chorus of Chicago.

Reherse for Weeks.

In Soldiers' field tomorrow night the German chorus will be under the direction of Ludwig Lohmiller and H. A. Rehberg, who have drilled and rehersed the singers for weeks in preparation. They will sing "Deutscher Saengergruss," "Der Tag des Herrn," and "America."

One of the great out of town organizations to be heard during the evening will be the University of Illinois chorus of 400 voices, under the direction of Lanson F. Demming. These young people come from twenty-five Illinois counties. Their chorus has grown swiftly since its organization in 1934. The 400 who will sing here have been chosen from a larger group of 1,500.

In Soldiers' field they will present a 10 minute cut from the cantata, "Harvest Caravan," which was written especially for them by Prof. Russell Hancock Miles of the university.

Musical Thrill in Store.

But back to the homefolks who will appear tomorrow night. One of the greatest musical thrills of the evening will be the singing by the Festival Negro chorus of 1,000 voices. They will do "Sewanee River" and the celebrated spiritual, "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot."

This famous chorus is composed of the choirs of forty-eight Negro churches in Chicago and two in Indiana. Several choral groups also are represented. The members were organized and welded together by J. Wesley Jones, musical director of the Metropolitan Community church, 41st street and South Park way.

5,000 Voices to Blend.

Near the close of the great outdoor entertainment tomorrow night all these choruses will sing as one, under the direction of Mr. Cain. Nearly 5,000 voices will blend in the majestic "Hallelujah Chorus," from Handel's "Messiah." This chorus has been the one link among all the Chicagoland Music festivals. Of it Mr. Cain says:

"It is a classic, but unlike some classics it has a tremendous human appeal. It is known to people everywhere and has been accepted as the one really great song of praise."

The Hallelujah chorus has been sung at all the festivals.

The official program will begin at 7:25 p. m. with the entrance of drum and bugle corps. They will be followed closely by winning and guest bands from all Chicagoland.

This year's show will end with the most thrilling fireworks display in the history of any of the festivals. Frank Duffield of the Thearle-Duffield Fireworks company, said last night that the company's finest technicians have been working on this part of the show for many weeks.

Candy Candidate

GENEVIEVE WRIGHT.

Who is the sweetest girl in Candydom? She will be chosen next Wednesday when the Chicago candy show opens at the Hotel Sherman for three days. Miss Genevieve Wright, 1016 Loyola avenue, is one of the entrants among 5,000 girls employed in Chicago's candy factories who will compete for the title.

CORRIGAN TO GET HERO WELCOME IN CITY TOMORROW

Cheers Will Ring Out from Loop Throngs.

Arrangements were completed last night for the appearance in Chicago and at the Chicagoland Music festival tomorrow night of Douglas Corrigan, the daring young aviator whose wrong way flight to Ireland won him the acclaim of the world a few weeks ago.

Corrigan will land his $900 trans-Atlantic crate at the Chicago airport at about 11 a. m. tomorrow. Whether he would fly in from Detroit or Indianapolis was not known here last night. This was not because he is likely to lose his way but because he hadn't yet made up his mind.

Police to Hold Back Crowds.

But the instant Corrigan's famous plane touches the flying field he—and it—will be surrounded by 500 uniformed police who will keep back the welcoming crowds. Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes, who is head of the committee handling Corrigan day arrangements, urged yesterday that the greeting be orderly, but all precautions were being taken against the possibility of the crowd becoming overenthusiastic.

Escorted by Mayor Kelly and members of the mayor's New Century committee, the flyer will be taken to the Congress street plaza, back of which the downtown parade will assemble. After Corrigan has been paraded through the loop Mayor Kelly will extend Chicago's official greeting at the city hall.

Tours City in Afternoon.

Then will come a luncheon at the Blackstone hotel. This will be attended by the mayor, members of the New Century committee, and other city leaders.

After a tour of the city during the afternoon Corrigan will dine at the Chicago Athletic club with community chairmen of the new century committee. Then will come the climax of his Chicago visit.

He will be escorted into Soldiers' field to receive the acclaim of nearly 100,000 persons who will be gathered there for the Music Festival. Corrigan will be taken around the arena so the crowd may have a close view of him. Then he will be greeted by Mayor Kelly in behalf of the thousands seated in the field and will remain for the show.

GIVE DESPERADO 45½ YEAR TERM AS BANK ROBBER

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—Charles Bird, notorious bank robbery gang leader and once on the federal agents' list of public enemies, today was sentenced to serve 45½ years in prison. The young gunman pleaded guilty to seven robbery charges under which he might have been sentenced to 140 years.

Judge Samuel K. Dennis said it was his duty to impose such a sentence that would require the desperado to spend the rest of his active life in confinement.

Bird's wife, Barbara, an expectant mother, was convicted by a jury of being an accessory in the robbery of a liquor truck. Judge Dennis said he would sentence her tomorrow.

14 DIE IN CRASH; ITALY'S 4TH AIR TRAGEDY OF YEAR

VARESE, Italy, Aug. 18.—(AP)—All Fourteen persons aboard an Italian seaplane were killed today when the twin-motored ship fell shortly after taking off. The plane was on a sightseeing flight over this Italian town near the Swiss border. It was Italy's fourth civil air disaster of the year, in which a total of 67 persons were killed.

The plane, owned by the Macchi Aircraft Construction company, was piloted by Giuseppe Purei, who held a number of seaplane flying records. The prefect of Varese, Mario Chiesa, and members of his family were among the victims.

Festival Notes

Helen Searles Westbrook.

Each year there are many early arrivals for the Chicagoland Music festival in Soldiers' field and always there is some entertainment provided for them. This year Helen Searles Westbrook will play before the festival opens. She is widely known for her distinctive playing of the Hammond electric organ, on which she will accompany the community singing.

There will be a happy reunion tomorrow night when Mr. and Mrs. James A. Melichar of Cedar Falls, Ia., and their son Edwin, 9 years old, meet at the festival. Edwin has been going to school in Czechoslovakia during the last year and a half. His father, director of the Cedar Falls band, will lead his men down the field early in the show and Edwin will be there to see him, having just arrived.

Jessica Dragonette, who has been voted the most popular radio soprano in the country, arrived last evening to sing at the Music Festival luncheon today at the Stevens hotel.

The Chicago fire department still has horse drawn steam fire engines, but it hasn't a horse. The two old pumpers that will appear in the historical pageant tomorrow night will be pulled by borrowed steeds. The covered wagons in the pageant will be drawn by horses from the stockyards.

St. Louis Couple's Kidnaper Is Dead of Bullet Wounds

Grand Rapids, Minn., Aug. 19 [Friday].—[Special.]—Otis J. Meredith, 21 years old, shot Monday near Effie by officers seeking him in connection with the kidnaping of a St. Louis couple, died in a hospital here early today. Meredith and John Couch, both former convicts, confessed having kidnaped Miss Peggy Gross, 23, prominent in St. Louis society, and her escort, Daniel Cox Fahey Jr., an architect, last Saturday. The ex-convicts kidnaped the couple in order to flee in Fahey's automobile.

PASTOR ADMITS POISONING GIRL, FIRING HIS HOME

Stanton, N. D., Aug. 18.—(AP)—The Rev. Helo Janssen, Evangelical Lutheran minister, confessed tonight that he had poisoned Alma Kruckenberg, 16, a maid in his home, and burned the parsonage, State's Attorney Floyd Sperry revealed. The girl's charred body was found in the basement.

The Rev. Mr. Janssen, who is 51 years old, is quoted as saying that he put poison crystals in a glass of wine and gave it to the girl and then set fire to the parsonage Monday night while his wife had gone to Bismarck for medical treatment.

Examination revealed Miss Kruckenberg was pregnant and the minister admitted that he had been intimate with her. Threats by the girl to tell Mrs. Janssen of her condition led the minister to kill her and to burn the house to hide the crime, according to the prosecutor. Sperry said Janssen confessed he could not bear the thought of his wife and sons learning of his intimacy with the girl.

The minister told the authorities the fire was caused by sparks from the chimney, but they learned there had been no fire in the furnace. After lengthy questioning Janssen confessed.

BOY, 12, DELIVERS EXTORTION NOTE; SEIZED BY POLICE

A boy who was paid a quarter yesterday afternoon to deliver a note to Isadore Lasko, owner of a butcher shop at 404 North avenue, was held for questioning by Hudson avenue police when the note turned out to be a demand for $1,500.

The boy, Milton Zuda, 12 years old, was walking in North avenue near Lasko's shop, he said, when a car drew up. The driver gave him the note and the quarter and told him to give the note to the butcher, he said.

The note, which was typewritten, directed Lasko to bring the money in $5 and $10 bills to 12th street and the Des Plaines river at 11:15 a. m. Saturday. It warned him he or his children would be in trouble if he told police.

The Zuda boy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Zuda, 1750 Clybourne avenue, gypsies, who came here from Gary a month ago.

ILL TWO YEARS; DIES OF POISON.

Mrs. Mary Jankowiak, 54 years old, died in her home at 5615 Waveland avenue yesterday after swallowing poison. She had been in ill health for two years.

HINES' POLITICAL WORKER SHIFTS STORY; JAILED

Denies Testimony Linking Boss to Racket.

people when you say you can't read?" demanded Dewey.

Williams thought that one over and then said he could read numbers but not letters.

In order to carry out his campaign duties for the Hines' organization, Williams said he had others read the names of voters to him. When he went canvassing, somebody who could read accompanied him, he said.

After Dewey had finished Judge Pecora sent the jury from the courtroom and called the lawyers to the bench. A few minutes later he asked the newspaper reporters to step up. Then he announced that Williams' bail had been increased and that he would be held as a material witness. Judge Pecora told the reporters he did not want the jury to learn of what had happened.

Williams then was taken to his prison cell. Whether he had visitors from the district attorney's office could not be ascertained tonight.

KIDNAPERS BEAT FIANCE OF GIRL; DELAY WEDDING

Fred Brown, 21 years old, 3820 North avenue, was going to meet Miss Margaret Price, 20, yesterday. They intended applying for a marriage license for their wedding Saturday.

But at Sedgewick street and North avenue, three young men hailed Brown. He thought he recognized them. He got into their car when they offered him a lift. But instead the trio drew revolvers and drove south.

Two miles north of Kankakee, one of the gunmen said: "If you ever come back in the neighborhood, we'll kill you." Then they kicked Brown unconscious, broke three ribs, and stole $35. After medical treatment he returned to Chicago and reported to the Hudson avenue police.

Miss Price said she thought the sluggers might be friends of a rejected suitor. She and Brown will not be able to wed Saturday. The state law requires a three day notice of intention to marry.

STABBED NEAR HEART, ATHLETE ROUTS ROBBER

Although a knife was imbedded just above his heart, Joseph Sacco, 21 years old, a north shore athlete and playground instructor, managed late last night to rout a colored robber.

Sacco, son of Antonio Sacco, well known estate gardener, was walking to his home at 411 Randolph street, Glencoe, when the bandit stopped him in Madison street near Lake street in the suburb. The robber pointed a gun at Sacco.

Sacco with a quick kick sent the gun flying. Then he leaped upon the robber. In the struggle the latter plunged a fish knife, with a three inch blade, into Sacco's breast above the heart. Sacco tore the knife out and gave chase until he fainted from loss of blood. He was taken to the Highland Park hospital.

"Assistant Judge" Fails

MARITAL BREAK FORECAST FOR MISS VAN GORDON

A three line notice in New York newspapers yesterday indicated that Cyrena Van Gordon, famous opera singer, well known in Chicago, is scheduled for a second marital breakup. The note announced that her husband, Howard D. Smith, of New York and San Francisco, would no longer be responsible for her debts. Miss Van Gordon's first husband was a Chicagoan.

Cyrena Van Gordon.

Her New York attorney admitted that the notice told of a domestic split. "The Smiths are having marital difficulties," he said. "They have been living apart, she in New York and he in San Francisco. Miss Van Gordon will probably bring action against her husband on the grounds of cruelty. She believes that her husband's continued absence in the west for the past several weeks is for the purpose of evading service of process in New York."

Smith, a millionaire copper magnate, is 56 years old. He married the opera star on Feb. 27, 1932, in New York. She gave her age then as 36. On July 31, 1931, she had obtained a divorce from Dr. Shirley B. Munns, Chicago eye and ear specialist. They were married in 1913, and had been childhood sweethearts.

Ordered to Pay

Jennie Jablonski reported sadly yesterday that she couldn't reconcile her estranged parents, Albert and Mary Jablonski. Last week the girl, 19 years old, was appointed "assistant judge" by Judge Joseph Sabath to act as peacemaker.

"It's no go," Jennie told Judge Peter M. Schwaba yesterday. "When I get them together, they begin to argue. When they part, they're mad at each other again."

Jablonski then was ordered to pay his wife $10 by tomorrow for the support of two other children. He must also pay $6 a week in the future. He is a janitor living at 2129 South Homan avenue. Mrs. Jablonski lives at 2247 South Whipple street. She has a divorce bill pending, charging cruelty.

CHIMNEY STONES FALL; 2 CHILDREN INJURED AT PLAY

A boy and a girl, both 9 years old, were painfully injured yesterday when part of a chimney fell on them as they played on a roof at 2004 North California avenue. They are Jerry Rapisarda, 2000 North California avenue, and Joan Wilson, 2810 Armitage avenue.

The roof may be reached from the porch of the Rapisarda home, which is on the second floor. Eight stones, each weighing about 40 pounds, fell as the two were near the chimney. One knocked Jerry down. He was cut on the face and neck. Joan was cut on both legs.

100 BURGLARIES CONFESSED BY 7 YOUNG PROWLERS

Seven young men who aimed to be tough and who wanted enough money for gay times, had different ideas last night as they sat in police cells. The seven confessed more than 100 burglaries, police said.

The roundup of the gang, which took several days, was due to Policeman Michael Shannon. He was called from his home at 8554 St. Lawrence avenue to that of a neighbor, Cecil Ball, 8549 Rhodes avenue, on a report of burglars. He found three prowlers there. The three named their pals in other burglaries.

The seven in custody are Zigmund Siuba, 21 years old, 8543 Marquette avenue; Edward Wychocki, 19, of 8510 Marquette avenue, and Theodore Nicpon, 17, of 8523 Marquette avenue, who were found in the Ball home; John Siuba, 18, brother of Zigmund; Edward Perz, 17, of 8518 Marquette avenue; Stanley Szklarski, 16, of 8512 Saginaw avenue, and Stanley Janicka, 17, of 8548 Marquette avenue. Police said all the youths have juvenile records. Perz and Szklarski once served a perlod in the parental school.

U. S. WILL FIGHT TO AID CANADA, ROOSEVELT SAYS

President Asserts Power Interests in Plot.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

International Thousand Islands Bridge, Aug. 18. — [Special.] — President Roosevelt aroused great enthusiasm among the Canadian people today by pledging the United States to defend the Dominion from foreign aggression.

Premier King.

The President also warned Canadians against what he indicated was a plot by American interests to obtain control of power development in the Canadian area of the St. Lawrence waterway.

Mr. Roosevelt thus indulged in his favorite pastime—the breaking of precedents.

Extends Monroe Doctrin.

It was the first time a President of the United States extended the Monroe doctrin to Canada; the first time a President has guaranteed protection to a British possession.

And it was probably the first time in recorded history that the head of a nation has told a neighboring people that some of his own countrymen were engaged in activities inimical to the neighbor's interests.

President Roosevelt spoke twice. Once at Queens university at Kingston, Ont., where he received the honorary degree of doctor of laws, and later at the dedication of a bridge at Thousand Islands. The bridge, 8½ miles long, links Ivy Lea, Ont., and Clayton, N. Y. At the dedication of the bridge he was assisted by Premier MacKenzie King. His pledge that the United States would defend Canada from aggression was made at Kingston. It was at the bridge dedication that the President indicated there was a plot by American interests to control power development in the Canadian area.

The President used the charge that a group of American interests are attempting to obtain a monopoly of St. Lawrence power as an argument in favor of early approval of a waterway treaty between the two nations. He said private interests might otherwise gain control of power development, indicating this was a deplorable prospect.

But to Canadians the pledge of American intervention in the case of a threat to Canada was the high light of the day. A sedate throng in the stadium at the university responded with whoops and cheers to the pronouncement by the President.

"The Dominion of Canada is part of the sisterhood of the British empire," he told his audience at Queens university.

"I give to you assurance that the people of the United States will not stand by idly if domination of Canadian soil is threatened by any other empire."

He went on, in thinly veiled reference to the dictatorship countries of Europe, to say that public indignation against practices in such countries must ultimately control a government's policy. Friendly relations between Canadians and Americans are more important than ever before in view of dangers from overseas, he declared.

"A few days ago a whisper, fortunately untrue, raced around the world that armies standing over against each other in unhappy array were to be set in motion," he said. "In a few short hours the effect of that whisper had been registered in Montreal and New York, in Ottawa and in Washington, in Toronto and in Chicago, in Vancouver and in San Francisco. Your business men and ours felt it alike; your farmers and ours heard alike; your young men and ours wondered what effect this might have on their lives.

Sees America's Vital Factors.

"We in the Americas are no longer a far away continent to which the eddies of controversies beyond the seas could bring no interest or no harm. Instead, we in the Americas have become a consideration to every propaganda office and to every general staf beyond the seas. The vast amount of our resources, the vigor of our commerce and the strength of our men have made us vital factors in world peace whether we choose or not."

The President then uttered his pledge of assistance to Canada in case of threatened invasion by a foreign foe. He added that the two countries were "good neighbors" and "true friends."

"But there is one process which we certainly cannot change," he continued, "and probably ought not to change. This is the feeling which ordinary men and women have about events which they can understand.

Wants Facts Fairly Stated.

"We cannot prevent our people from having an opinion in regard to wanton brutality, in regard to undemocratic regimentation, in regard to misery inflicted on helpless peoples, or in regard to violations of accepted individual rights. All that any government, constituted as is yours and mine, can possibly undertake is to help make sure that the facts are known and fairly stated.

"No country where thought is free can prevent every fireside and home within its borders from considering the evidence for itself and rendering its own verdict; and the sum total of these conclusions of educated men and women will, in the long run, become the national verdict. That is what we mean when we say that public opinion ultimately governs policy. It is right and just that this should be the case."

In the afternoon speech at the Thousand Islands bridge dedication the President asserted that his remarks concerning the aims of American power interests to control power in the Canadian area was an unusual one.

"Let me make now an unusual statement," he said. "I am sure you will not misunderstand. I consider that I have, myself, a particular duty in connection with St. Lawrence power.

Professes Fear of Monopoly.

"The almost unparalleled opportunity which the river affords has not gone unnoticed by some of my friends on our side of the boundary," the President continued, lending ironic emphasis to the "my friends" allusion. "A conception has been emerging in the United States which is not without a certain magnificence.

"This is no less than the conviction that if a private group could control the outlet of the Great Lakes basin, that group would have a monopoly in the development of a territory larger than many of the greatest empires in history."

With the exception of the provincially owned Ontario-Hydro company, said the President, every development of electric power in the Canadian area is allied to, if not controled by, a single American group. This was normal and usual in the earlier stages of development of natural resources on the continent, he remarked, but more recently the development of such resources has come to be a major problem of government.

"To put it bluntly," he told his audience, "a group of American interests is here gradually putting itself into a position where, unless caution is exercised, they may in time be able to determine the economic fate of a large area, both in Canada and the United States.

Favors Frank Discussion.

"Now it is axiomatic in Canadian-American relations that both of us scrupulously respect the right of each to determine its own affairs. For that reason, when I know that the operation of uncontroled American economic forces is slowly producing a result on the Canadian side of the border, which I know very well must eventually give American groups a great influence over Canadian development, I consider it the part of a good neighbor to discuss the question frankly. The least I can do is to call attention to the situation as I see it."

Mr. Roosevelt ended by saying that he looked forward to the day when a Canadian prime minister and an American President would meet to dedicate, not a bridge, but the very river itself "to the lasting and productive use of their respective peoples." He said he hoped this day might be soon.

Canadian Premier Speaks.

Premier King at the bridge dedication exercises spoke of present day challenges to international order in a speech which preceded the President's.

"No one who looks at the distracted and disordered state of the world today," he said, "can fail to be impressed by the extent to which the forces of international anarchy are seeking to prevail, and to subvert those standards of human conduct which we have come to regard as essential attributes of our civilization."

DAIRYMEN VOTE ON PRICE FIXING IN SEVEN STATES

Affected Producers Supply N. Y. Market.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 18.—[Special.]—About 60,000 dairymen in the seven state area which supplies the New York market started voting today on the vital question of whether they desire to join in the newest move of the Roosevelt forces to widen the field of governmental control over prices and production.

The issue is approval or rejection of the plan of Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace—the country's milk dictator—for federal and state regulation and price fixing control of milk production in the nation's largest market. The balloting will continue tomorrow and Saturday with 22 coöperatives voting as units in behalf of member dairymen, and nonmembers voting as individuals in some 300 polling places throughout the seven state milk shed.

Consumers Without Vote.

Under the 1937 federal marketing agreement, Secretary Wallace has the authority to set the minimum price to be paid by distributors to producers if the farmers approve the plan by a two-thirds vote. Consumers have no vote.

The proposed "agreement," drafted by Wallace, sets minimum prices on a sliding scale ranging from $2.20 a hundredweight in the so-called "flush" season to $2.65 in the short season. To become effective it must be approved by two-thirds of the eligible dairy men in New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Connecticut, and Vermont; and by three-fourths of those in New York state, who must pass on a state as well as the federal price pegging proposal.

Predict Producers Will Vote Yes.

Since the present price of class 1 milk is $2 a hundredweight under free competition, it was being freely predicted today that producers would heartily approve Wallace's restrictive program which would assure an average price of about $2.45.

There was little cheer, however, on prospects of the eventual result of such economic tinkering. The fear was expressed by authorities long familiar with complexities of the milk price structure that dictated higher prices would only tend to stimulate production, reduce demand still further and bring an increasing surplus on the market. Prices have been depressed recently because of overproduction.

Opponents of the Wallace plan have emphasized the breakdown of recent milk price fixing efforts by the state and by Mayor La Guardia. These pegging experiments failed through inability to enforce fixed price levels and now are viewed as casting considerable doubt on the chance of success for joint federal-state regulation.

EIGHT RESCUED FROM BOAT AFTER GAS EXPLOSION

Eight persons were imperiled last night by an explosion aboard the Alone, in Chicago harbor about 200 yards off Balbo drive. The boat is a 39 foot auxiliary yawl.

The explosion, apparently caused by a gasoline fume pocket, was seen by hundreds of persons in Grant park. Several boats went to the Alone's aid. The Cordy, with Owner Jack Shiers and Park Policeman James Kennealy aboard, took off the eight persons aboard. None was injured. About $500 damage was done to the boat.

Those rescued were Miss Eileen Durin, of Steward, Ill.; Miss Margaret Hutchins, of Rockford, Ill., Miss Winifred Diamond and Mrs. R. K. Johnson, both of 4863 Sheridan road; Robert Durin, 7130 Cyril parkway, Miss Durin's brother; George Bressler, 724 Foster avenue, Evanston; Keith Johnson, 2082 Estes avenue, and Edwin K. Vaughn, manager of the Plaza hotel, 1553 North Clark street.

TEACHERS URGE LABOR GROUPS TO END QUARREL

Cedar Point, O., Aug. 18.—(AP)—The American Federation of Teachers in a resolution today urged the American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization to end the breach in the labor movement.

The resolution indorsed the principals of industrial unionism and called upon the A. F. of L. executive council to reopen negotiations with the C. I. O. to mend differences between the two organizations, and to coöperate on issues designed to further economic, cultural, and political advancement of labor.

JUDGE REFUSES TO LET A KNIFE CUT LOVE IN TWO

Childhood Romance to Be Sealed by Couple.

Lawrence Snodgrass Jr., who is 19 years old, stood before the bench in Boys' court yesterday biting his lip to restrain his tears.

Lawrence Snodgrass Jr.

"It was a silly, dramatic thing for you to do," lectured Judge Lambert K. Hayes. "The young lady's father had the best interests of his daughter at heart, and then you go brandishing a knife at him."

"But Mary and I have been sweethearts since we were in the fifth grade," the young man said miserably. "We've been planning to get married for a whole year. We had taken our physical examinations, applied for a marriage license, and paid a month's rent on a furnished apartment at 6616 Yale avenue."

Boy Chokes with Emotion.

The young man gulped and hesitated. His father, Lawrence Snodgrass Sr., a yardmaster for the New York Central railway, shifted his weight restlessly from one foot to the other and watched his son. The younger Snodgrass works at the Belair hotel, 420 Diversey parkway, and resides at 1422 East 68th street.

"Go on," said the judge, looking a little uncomfortable himself.

"We tried to keep our plans secret," said Lawrence, "but I learned yesterday that Mary's mother had found out and was all upset. I wanted to get married anyway."

The girl's father, Carl Gross of 1428 East 67th place, broke in.

"He came in last night," he said, mildly belligerent, "and said to Mary, my 18 year old daughter: 'Pack up your clothes and come on. We're going to get married.'

Returns, Brandishing Knife.

"She didn't, and he left. Soon afterward he appeared at the back door. He waved a 6 inch hunting knife in the air. 'Any one who tries to stop us is going to be killed,' he said. Then Mary pleaded with him. 'Lawrence, don't do that,' she said. 'You might go to the electric chair.'"

Judge Hayes asked the two fathers to step into his chambers. Behind closed doors he reminded them weightily that Snodgrass was young.

"I've no objection to him as a son-in-law," Gross told the judge. "Before he came over Wednesday night Mrs. Gross and myself had decided to give our consent. But in the excitement we forgot that."

They'll be married Saturday and disorderly conduct charges dropped.

U. S. JURY ENTERS SECOND MONTH OF MILK PROBE

The federal grand jury investigating an alleged milk monopoly in the Chicago area began its second month of activity yesterday. New subpenas, which were suppressed, were issued by Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan. They call upon various concerns and individuals to produce their records. The jury thus far has heard 60 witnesses and has examined 3,000 exhibits.

Judge Sullivan set for Sept. 28 a hearing on a report by Master in Chancery Charles A. McDonald recommending dismissal of an injunction suit against the Milk Wagon Drivers' union, local 753, an American Federation of Labor affiliate.

The suit, which charges strong-arm methods in restrain of trade, was brought by Attorney Arthur Seelig for the Amalgamated Dairy Workers' union, local 819, and three cut rate dairies.

HEAR LILIENTHAL DEFENSE OF TVA IN MARBLE CASE

Conciliation Called Effort to Avoid Litigation.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Knoxville, Tenn., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—Director David E. Lilienthal of TVA took the stand today before the congressional committee investigating TVA and gave his side of the picture in the famous Berry marble claims case.

David E. Lilienthal.

Lilienthal defended the authority's handling of the case. He accused Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, deposed TVA chairman, of vindictiveness in urging in June, 1936, that President Roosevelt be told of the marble situation. He also charged that a distorted picture of the Berry case had been given in the committee's hearings thus far.

The Berry marble claims were based on leases held by Senator George L. Berry [D., Tenn.] and associates on marble lands on the Tennessee river. These lands were flooded by the Norris dam and the leaseholders sought to collect damages.

Issue in TVA Feud.

A conciliation agreement with the claimants was made by TVA in July, 1936, over the strenuous objections of Dr. Morgan. This agreement became the focal point in the feud between Dr. Morgan and his TVA associates, Lilienthal and Harcourt A. Morgan. The controversy culminated in Dr. Morgan's ouster by President Roosevelt last March 22.

Under the terms of the conciliation agreement, Dr. John Finch, director of the United States bureau of mines, was to act as mediator in the Berry claims. Conciliation efforts, however, were abondoned in May, 1937, and condemnation proceedings were started. This resulted in a finding by a federal court commission that the Berry deposits were worthless. The case is now pending in the United States Supreme court.

Argues Economy Angle.

In his testimony today, Lilienthal argued that if Dr. Finch had become conciliator, Berry and his associates might have dropped their marble claims or settled with TVA for twenty or twenty-five thousand dollars.

The witness declared that the move to conciliate was an effort to minimize the risk of litigation over the claims. As it was, he said, the condemnation proceedings cost TVA $35,000.

Dr. Morgan had attacked the conciliation agreement on the ground it would give the air of good faith to an effort to hold up the government. His protests were credited with causing the abandonment of conciliation. Senator Berry, on the stand earlier this week, took the view that the agreement was an acknowledgement of good faith on the part of the marble claimants.

Assails Dr. Morgan.

In his testimony Lilienthal referred to a note sent to the TVA board by Dr. Morgan on June 17, 1936. In that note, Dr. Morgan pointed out that TVA geologists had reported the disputed deposits had no commercial value. Dr. Morgan said a close adviser of President Roosevelt [Berry] was chief promoter of the marble claims, that this was indefensible, and that the President should be informed.

Lilienthal declared this was the first message from Dr. Morgan to the board since he [Lilienthal] had been reappointed as TVA director by the President on May 18, 1936. The reappointment was over Dr. Morgan's protests.

"I felt this attempt to drag in the President was an exhibition of vindictiveness because I was reappointed," the witness said, "and because he [Dr. Morgan] didn't get the veto power he asked for."

Replies to Criticism.

Lilienthal attacked Dr. Morgan's criticism that the conciliation move was made during his absence and without notice. The witness declared Dr. Morgan had been absent for eight weeks and that in a speech on his return he referred to his absence as "virtual retirement."

"But," interrupted Francis Biddle, counsel for the committee, "Dr. Morgan testified he did not use that word."

Lilienthal testified that he received his first knowledge of the Berry marble claims on March 25, 1935. They were then known as the Ford and Harris claims. At that time Carl A. Bock, TVA assistant engineer, reported in a memorandum it had been decided that if a settlement could be had for two or three thousand dollars it should be accepted. John I. Snyder, head of TVA land acquisition, was proceeding on that basis, Bock said.

Denies Seeing 1934 Memo.

The Nov. 30, 1934, memo of E. C. Eckel, TVA chief geologist, to Bock was not distributed to board members, Lilienthal asserted.

In that memo Eckel said the matter of the marble leases had the earmarks of a subtle attempt to hold up the government. He urged that investigation be made in Washington as to whether Berry, then NRA coördinator and high in President Roosevelt's councils, had an interest in the Ford and Harris project. He also asked inquiry into the use of Berry marble in a federal warehouse at Washington.

Eckel urged that the matter be taken up with the President and Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes. The TVA geologist renewed his suggestion in another note to Bock on Feb. 27, 1935. He said then that stone from the Berry quarry was shipped to Washington for a federal building and the effect would be to build up a false value for the Berry marble.

Criticizes Quiz Tactics.

These two Eckel memorandums were first made public at the committee's hearing last week. Lilienthal said today that a distorted picture has been given because of the manner in which the TVA hearings have been conducted. He complained of headlines and an editorial in a New York newspaper for speaking of a "hidden" memorandum—Eckel's Nov. 30, 1934, note.

"I have been criticized for hiding that memorandum," Lilienthal said. "It is unfair. This memorandum of Eckel to Bock was not distributed to members of the board, but it was given to Arthur Morgan by Bock."

The first time Lilienthal met Berry on the subject of marble claims was on March 18, 1936, the witness said. Out of this came the conference which resulted in the conciliation agreement of July 10, 1936.

"Berry came to my office," Lilienthal related. "He brought up the subject of the claims. He was quite bitter. He said he had claims in which he had invested $25,000. Berry was belligerent and said it was intolerable to let the matter drag and that there ought to be a conference toward an adjustment.

"He did not mention a specific value, and he dwelt on the marbles as beautiful. It sounded like an excellent sales talk for marble. [Counsel for the Berry interests mentioned a value of $5,000,000 for the claims at the condemnation trial.]

"I said I'd call our people in and see what they think of it and what the status is.

Litigation Foreseen.

"Berry said if the matter was not taken up soon he was going to take some action, by which I judge he meant litigation. He did not say he was going to litigate—but that our organization ought to decide what it was going to do so he could decide what to do."

Lilienthal said he called in Snyder, the land acquisition chief, and handed him a memo Berry had submitted on the marble leases.

"I said to Snyder," Lilienthal continued, "I know nothing of this, it's in your department. I wanted to make it clear it was his worry, not mine."

Snyder replied he did not think the properties would be worked and that they did not have commercial value, Lilienthal testified.

Earlier in today's hearing the committee sidetracked its marble investigation to hear charges that Negro workers on TVA's Chickamauga dam near Chattanooga had been beaten, cursed and discriminated against by their foremen and bosses. The charges were presented by Charles H. Houston, Negro attorney for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

The committee ordered an immediate investigation. Gordon R. Clapp, TVA personnel director, was instructed to make a report.

BRANDS BRIDGES, C. I. O. LEADER, AS COMMUNIST

Woman Testifies She Saw Membership Card.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—Harry Bridges, west coast C. I. O. organizer and longshoremen's union leader, today was branded a communist before the special house committee investigating un-American activities.

Margaret A. Kerr.
A. P. Wirephoto.

Miss Margaret A. Kerr, representing the Los Angeles Better America Federation, testified she had seen a communist party membership card which attested Bridges' loyalty to the Red party. She said the card was signed "Harry Dorgan"—Bridges' party alias.

Miss Kerr produced an affidavit of one Irvin A. Markheim, a member of the communist party, who, she said, showed her Bridges' membership card. The affidavit volunteered further information concerning Bridges' affiliation with the communist party.

Labor Department Accused.

Indirectly, Miss Kerr accused the department of labor of warning Bridges of Markheim's affidavit. The warning brought Markheim threats of harm and an offer to pay his expenses to get out of the country.

The testimony of Miss Kerr was given after the labor department surrendered what purported to be its complete file on Bridges with the warning that revelation of its contents might result in violence to persons named in the correspondence. The same warning was given when the senate commerce committee, headed by the late Senator Royal S. Copeland [D., N. Y.] pried into Bridges' affairs.

Representative Martin Dies [D., Texas], chairman of the committee, obtained the file in order to investigate charges that government officials in the labor department gave advice and protection to Bridges when he was fighting deportation as a communist last spring.

Contains All Information.

The file was given to the committee by Thomas B. Shoemaker, deputy commissioner of immigration and naturalization. He said it contained all the labor department's information on the labor leader.

"We ask," Shoemaker said, "that the committee keep confidential the names of deponents whose statements are in the file, because many of these people fear the results of their statements and we do not wish to break faith with them."

Dies said that persons scheduled to appear before the committee in connection with the Bridges phase of its investigation have been threatened.

SEIZE ACCUSED CRIME 'TEACHER'; 'PUPIL' REBELS

Emil Katt, 6035 Drexel avenue, who has a police record as a bomb maker, was held by Woodlawn police last night for investigation of charges that he was trying to lead a young man into crime. The latter is Roy Sreboth, 18 years old, of 6348 Drexel avenue. He also is in custody.

Police found both fighting yesterday at 64th street and Cottage Grove avenue. Sreboth said Katt, who is 56, had tried to influence him to be a robber. He said Katt tried to beat him when he refused to have anything more to do with him.

Katt, police said, has spent more than six years in jails since 1902 on charges of manufacturing explosives, of burglary, and of larceny.

Damage estimated at $30,000 was caused early yesterday by a fire in the six story brick building of the National Tea company commissary at 310 North Peoria street.

U. S. OPENS DRIVE ON FAKE LOTTERY RING IN CHICAGO

Link 100 in 26 States with 20 Million Racket.

Postal inspectors announced yesterday that a drive has been started to smash a nation-wide fake lottery ring which has netted its operators 20 million dollars annually from suckers in twenty-six states. For several years the gang has used Chicago as its headquarters.

Within three or four weeks, the federal agents said, nearly 100 of the higher-ups in the racket will be under indictment. They include the ring leader, a Chicagoan, whose yearly income from the lottery is said to be more than $250,000.

Zimmerman Reputed Leader.

Agents withheld the leader's identity. From other sources it was reported he is Abraham F. Zimmerman, who rose in six years from newsboy to boss of the lottery ring. He is now at liberty on bond awaiting trial here on charges of evading taxes of $65,760 on an income of $411,916 for 1929-'30-'31. Zimmerman is also under indictment in Trenton, N. J., for transporting lottery tickets in interstate commerce.

Announcement of the drive was made in Boston, Mass., by Jackson J. Holtz, assistant United States attorney, and Tenneyson Jefferson, assistant chief postal inspector. It was confirmed here by Postal Inspector J. J. McCarthy.

McCarthy said that the investigation is nearly completed in most of the larger cities outside Chicago. Here there are still several loose ends to tie up, he said.

One phase of the investigation, McCarthy said, involves political protection. The inspector said it appeared obvious that the ring must be paying for political aid in order to operate so extensively.

Operate Four Types of Lotteries.

Four different types of lottery tickets have been used to line the gang treasury. These are Derby race horse pools, baseball pools, treasury balance figures, and the policy game [popular among colored people].

Tickets for the larger pools sold for $1. But the gang was not fussy about small change. They sold tickets on other lotteries for quarters and half dollars, and in the policy racket did not scorn the pennies, nickels, and dimes of their suckers.

Tickets were printed here in a printing plant not yet located, said McCarthy. Under the general agent in Chicago were fifteen to twenty subagents, and 2,000 ticket peddlers in every large city from beyond the Mississippi river to the eastern seaboard, north of the Ohio river.

Never Paid Off Big Winners.

Tickets were sold on the Kentucky Derby, the Arlington Classic, the Anita handicap, and the Pimlico Futurity. Big winners were never paid. The gang paid off only on smaller winnings.

And the odds against winning the treasury balance lottery were 1 in 999,999 on the large six figure pools. This operates on the principle that a sucker must guess correctly the exact treasury balance on any given day, as published in the newspapers.

McCarthy said the operators would be prosecuted on four federal charges: Interstate transportation of lottery tickets; sending them through the mail; mail fraud, and conspiracy. The prosecution will be conducted in Boston, where the investigation began.

U. S. QUIZ RECALLS PRO-RED MEETING DR. WIRT EXPOSED

Miss Alice Barrows, one of eight government officials accused of communistic leanings, was hostess at the meeting where the late Dr. William A. Wirt said he learned of a Red plot to overthrow the government, it was recalled here yesterday. The gathering took place in 1933 at Miss Barrows' Virginia farm home.

Dr. Wirt, noted Gary, Ind., educator and head of the Gary school system, testifying before a congressional committee, accused certain members of the New Deal brain trust of fomenting a revolution. His charges were subsequently denied by Miss Barrows and others who attended the gathering.

On Wednesday Representative Noah M. Mason [R. Ill.] named Miss Barrows, of the United States office of education, and seven other federal officials as members of the Washington chapter of the American League for Peace and Democracy. The organization, he charged, is Red.

Moving Forward

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve.

"STEP THIS WAY—"

By CALEB

LATE August and early September bring the celebration of a custom and an institution as old as our country itself, as American as the soil it represents—for this is the time of county fairs.

East or west, north or south—they are of the same cloth. Cars are parked in long rows outside the whitewashed ticket booth hard by the ornate gateway that leads through creaking turnstiles to the Midway. The jagged arc of a Ferris wheel marks the hot, blue autumn sky. From a distance comes the wheezing, off-key waltz of the merry-go-round, the strident call of the barker, the endless, monotonous plea of the man who spins a wheel of fortune.

The tantalizing odor of golden-brown fried chicken mingles with the pungent smell of popcorn. A chattering tractor in roped arena goes round and round endlessly by itself, while sun-bronzed farmers, hands in hip pockets, watch its noisy progress.

The Hall of Horticulture looms tall and gaunt, resplendent in new white paint. Inside, the honey-sweet smell of apples takes the breath away. Great decks of polished spheres—deep mahogany red, golden yellow, translucent green and bright crimson—line the walls on either side.

Beyond is the Women's Building—with vari-colored quilts, each intricate pattern stitched by hand in materials made from last year's dress, an old pair of trousers and bits of cloth hoarded painstakingly through the years. Grape jelly, rich brown preserves, luscious pies and fair round cakes.

Animal husbandry — the sleek flanks and braided manes of great stallions; the nervous bleating of carefully groomed sheep; the sad-eyed rumination of cows with coats as shiny as a chestnut. Timid, pink-eyed rabbits; fussing, clucking hens and strutting roosters; the surfeited, sleepy swine that must be prodded into a standing position for the judging.

Here is the heart of America—here the essence that marks it apart from any other nation. The plentiful, gracious Earth, the lavish reward of a kindly native soil wrested from a wilderness by courage, preserved by enterprise and industry.

If you have country relatives, call on them during Fair Week. If not, then drive to some nearby county seat. Get both feet on the ground, absorb the virile fragrance of the countryside—and renew your confidence in America's future.

ORDER ARRESTS TO SPEED AUTO SAFETY TESTING

100 Summonses Issued; More to Go Out Daily.

BY HAL FOUST.

A hundred summonses were issued yesterday for the first arrests under the compulsory automobile inspection ordinance since the deadlines for tests were arranged serially, according to city license numbers. Edward J. Gorman, deputy commissioner of the vehicle license bureau, said about seventy-five tickets will be issued daily hereafter. He added that the owners of approximately 54,000 vehicles are delinquent and subject to arrest under this safety law.

"Those subject to arrest," said Mr. Gorman, "are those who were due to have their cars tested in July but who either failed to appear at the testing lanes or failed to return for a second test when defects were noted in the first test."

Numbers Fix Dates.

The dates for inspection are fixed by the city wheel tax sticker numbers. In July the following vehicles were due for the tests: Passenger cars of less than 35 horse power with sticker numbers from 1 to 100,000; passenger cars of more than 35 horse power, from 1 to 3,000; trucks of less than one and one-half tons, 1 to 8,000, and trucks of more than one and one-half tons, 1 to 6,000.

"We do not want to make wholesale arrests," Mr. Gorman said. "We don't want to harrass the public or overburden the courts. We'll issue only enough summonses to keep the testing apparatus busy. We'll issue the tickets in the neighborhoods where apparatus is idle. For the last week business at most of the safety lanes has been lagging."

The summonses are returnable to the Cafeteria court with payment of a $2 fine.

This month the following machines are required to pass the city tests: Passenger cars under 35 horse power with windshield sticker numbers from 100,001 to 200,000; cars over 35 horse power with city license numbers 3,001 to 6,000; trucks under one and one-half tons, from 8,001 to 16,000; trucks over one and one-half tons from 6,001 to 12,000.

How to Tell Rating.

Cars rated at less than 35 horse power have an "A" appearing on the windshield sticker before the number. Those over 35 horse power have a "B." The smaller trucks have a "C" and the larger trucks a "D." Only automobiles registered in Chicago must be inspected.

The free city owned testing lanes are at the following ten locations: Berteau and Long avenues, 3638 Harrison street, 1805 North Mohawk street, east of outer drive between Lawrence and Wilson avenues, 2840 Calumet avenue, 1802 Humboldt boulevard, 67th street and California avenue, 5123 North Damen avenue, 20 North Carpenter street, and 6934 Cottage Grove avenue. All open at 7 o'clock in the morning. Three—those on Harrison, Carpenter, and Cottage Grove—remain open until 9:30 in the evening, while the others close at 7 p. m.

The boy, Luverne, fired two shots with a revolver, one of them splintering the hammer handle in the father's hand and the other piercing his chest.

COURTNEY SNUBS STATE FAIR RALLY OF DEMOCRATS

Rips Kelly-Nash Faction in Statement.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Fair Grounds, Springfield, Ill., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—Careful plans to make Democratic day at the state fair entirely harmonious went awry today. State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney of Cook county, was the discordant factor.

Although Courtney shares leadership of a faction with Gov. Henry Horner, he was not present at the celebration. But Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago, leader of the Chicago organization, came and made a rousing speech praising the governor and President Roosevelt and predicting unanimous Democratic victory in November.

Courtney Rips Nash Faction.

The mayor's presence kept Courtney away. In Chicago the prosecutor issued this statement:

"I called the governor on the telephone to pay my personal respects. I have consistently refused to take part in any political program which includes the Kelly-Nash leadership."

One sentence in the mayor's speech may have been directed at Courtney.

"Let the soreheads stay on the sidelines," he snapped.

It was the first occasion since their April primary battle that the mayor and the governor have been on the same platform at a political rally. Mr. Kelly was invited to attend and speak, and in his remarks he went the route for the governor.

The crowd chose to take it as a display of sportsmanship and gave the mayor a big hand.

Senator James Hamilton Lewis was the national keynoter but all the speakers made low bows in the direction of the White House. And all said confidently that this is another Democratic year.

Governor Attacks Lyons.

The governor made a blistering attack upon Richard J. Lyons, Republican senatorial nominee, repaying, in kind, the abuse Lyons gave him during the Republican ceremonies yesterday.

"You have seen a man, calling himself a Republican, conduct a strange campaign for United States senator," said the governor. "This irresponsible gentleman posed here yesterday in vapid vanity as he uttered his resounding piffle.

"Ever since last spring, this candidate has been rushing about the state substituting noise for principle and empty mouthings for common sense. He has no policy, no program and no plan. He has only promises, wild-brained promises, which he knows, and the people know, he never can fulfill. His tongue goes on wagging even when there is no grist to grind.

Calls It Vilifying Campaign.

"This man rushes, panting and perspiring, through the state vilifying all who have been working quietly and diligently to preserve the basic principle of our government.

"He promises everybody Utopia. If any practical, sober minded man asks him how this can be done, this usually verbose candidate hasn't time to answer. He only rushes off to other localities to windjam some more.

"If any business man asks him how he will work the miracle, he promises —he answers not, but leaps upon his trailer and dashes madly away in all directions. His hope is that no two citizens will compare notes, for whenever they do he has lost two more votes."

Mayor's Words Conciliatory.

The mayor's speech contained many conciliatory phrases.

"We [Democrats]," he said at one point, "have had our differences among ourselves--but that's water over the dam. The advocates of reprisal have no right of participation in the campaign we now are facing."

Then came the pointed sentences. "Let the soreheads stay on the sidelines."

"Harnessed together to eradicate every form of economic jitters and social unrest, teamed together against the vicious onslaughts of hatred and denunciation by the opposition, we can and will win an even more substantial victory than two years ago," the mayor declared.

"For this is another Roosevelt year and that's another way of saying 'the people's year.'

Praises President's Course.

"Where is the true Democrat who will seek to place his selfish hopes ahead of our united desires to uplift the nation's morale under such a gallant leader as Franklin D. Roosevelt?

"We have come down from Chicago not only to greet and honor our own Henry Horner but to tell him that we are behind the national, state and county slate to the last man—and that means straight down the line."

Senator Lewis' speech was taken as a plug for a third term for President Roosevelt. He declared that if the "influences" now working to displace the President were successful, they would revert to Hoover policies and practices.

"Within thirty days after the conspiracy had taken Washington," the senator said, "this nation would be in a foreign war, or in internal revolution to prevent it."

Lucas Dares G. O. P.

Congressman Scott W. Lucas, Democratic senatorial nominee, challenged the Republicans, when they meet in state convention in Peoria on Aug. 31, to produce a substitute for "the objectives of the New Deal."

Many of the Chicago leaders were on the platform with Mayor Kelly and ward delegation placards spotted the stands. Harry B. Hershey, state chairman, presided and introduced the state nominees. Lucas and Louie E. Lewis, for state treasurer, were the only two who spoke. The others took a bow. They included T. V. Smith and John C. Martin, for congressmen at large, and John A. Wieland, for superintendent of public instruction.

Telegrams from County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki of Cook county, Representative Benjamin S. Adamowski of Chicago, and Auditor Edward J. Barrett were read.

MRS. HARRIET VAN PELT.

Michigan City, Ind., Aug. 18—[Special.]—Mrs. Harriet Van Pelt, who saw Lincoln assassinated, died of a heart attack today at the age of 91. Mrs. Van Pelt was born on April 12, 1847, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Sherman.

Often interviewed, she described vividly the scene in the Ford theater when Lincoln was shot. In 1865 she was attending school in Washington, her father having been elected a senator. With her sister, Nancy, she attended a White House reception and shook hands with Lincoln. That night they saw John Wilkes Booth shoot the president.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 3 p.m. at Trinity church, which has a set of chimes she donated in 1929. Only close survivors are State Senator Ralph Jernegan, a nephew, and Mrs. May C. Ostrom, a niece, both of Mishawaka.

JAP BOMBS SEVER CANTON RAILWAY LINK TO HANKOW

Trafic of Passenger and Troop Trains Halted.

BULLETIN.

TOKIO, Aug. 19 (Friday).—(AP)—The Japanese war office today issued a "stand by" order to all members of the recruit division of the nation's fighting forces. A million men will be affected. They are recruits and constitute a special group between the ages of 24 and 34.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Aug. 19.—[Friday.]—Today it appeared that Japanese bombing planes had been successful—for a time at least—in cutting the vital railroad between Canton and Hankow.

Canton is the chief seaport of South China. Hankow is the inland temporary capital toward which the Japanese central armies are driving. The railroad has been the chief avenue of supplies for the defenders of Hankow.

There have been no passenger trains running between Canton and Hankow for ten days. Today no troop trains were getting through.

Air Battle Above Hengyang.

Japanese planes have bombed the railroad daily for months. They have bombed railway stations and power plants in Canton and the railway linking Canton with Hongkong, the British colony to the south.

A Japanese naval air fleet late yesterday invaded deep central China and reported destruction of thirty-two Chinese planes in an air battle over Hengyang airport, Hunan province. Hengyang is on the Hankow-Canton railway.

Another Japanese report said four Chinese planes were shot down over the Yangtze east of Wuchang when Japanese bombers raided near the tri-city area of Hankow, Wuchang and Hanyang.

Police Chief Assassinated.

Lo Liang-kwai, the chief of the Chinese section of the international settlement police in Shanghai, was assassinated yesterday as he stepped from his car in front of the Central hotel. His three assailants tossed away their pistols and escaped. Lo had been active in suppressing both Chinese and Japanese terrorists.

Col. Senruko Kusomoto, chief of the Japanese army's special service section in Shanghai, visited Col. Charles F. B. Price, the commander of United States marines to apologize for the conduct of his Japanese subordinates. Three Japanese last Saturday entered the American defense sector of the international settlement and brandished pistols. The marines disarmed them.

BRITISH AIRMEN AND TROOPS KILL 37 ARABS IN PALESTINE BATTLE

JERUSALEM, Aug. 18.—(AP)—The year's fiercest battle in the strife torn Palestine brought death to thirty-seven Arabs today in an engagment between British troops and planes and a band of Arabs on the outskirts of Acre. Swift planes swooping down to aid the troops machine-gunned twenty-seven Arabs to death. Infantry supported by armored cars killed ten others. Two British soldiers were killed and one officer and seven privates wounded.

HIT WITH A GOLF CLUB, WIFE SUES H. R. CURRAN JR.

Mrs. Janeanne Smyth Curran filed suit for divorce in the Circuit court yesterday against Harry Remington Curran Jr., son of the president of the Central Steel and Wire company. The bill, drawn by Attorney Joseph H. Green, charges cruelty.

On Sept. 18, 1937, Curran threw a deck of cards at his wife, and last May 27 he struck her on the legs with a golf club, the bill says. The couple were married on June 5, 1937, and separated Aug. 3 of this year.

Curran is sales manager of his father's concern at 4545 South Western boulevard. He has a monthly income of $540, according to the bill, and other property valued at $100,000. He is 27 years old and lives at the Exmoor Country club. Mrs. Curran, who is 26, lives at 3000 Sheridan road. She asks alimony.

MAKERS OF FACE CREAM SUE A.M.A. FOR 3 MILLIONS

The American Medical association and six individuals were sued for $3,000,000 damages in federal court yesterday by the Hirestra Laboratories, Inc., of New York. The Hirestra company, manufacturers and distributors of facial creams, charged the association and the other defendants with condemning their product and hindering its sale to the public. The company seeks an injunction to stop this action of the association. The individuals named in the bill are Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the Journal of the medical association; Prof. Carl R. Moore of the University of Chicago; Dr. Oliver S. Ormsby of Chicago, Bliss O. Hahing, director of the medical association's research bureau, Jule K. Lamar and Naomi Beck. The last two names were not identified in the suit.

THE PRESIDENT'S SONS.

James Roosevelt's income for 1933 and the years through 1937 was reported as $172,978, derived from writing insurance. These earnings for a young man starting business life in depression years which have been so bad as to create a youth problem and the Federal Youth administration were, in any way of looking at them, extraordinary.

Young Mr. Roosevelt has explained and has asked what a President's son should do. Any business he would have entered would have opened him to the suspicions of people who wanted to see wrong that he was using his father's name and political influence to further his interests. There is some truth in that, but is there enough?

There are few business undertakings outside of representing clients in governmental relations which have attracted more politicians than certain kinds of insurance business. Many politicians have made insurance their side line because it was so congenial to politics and could so easily be favored by insured persons wanting political connections and administrators wanting to place their favors in the right hands.

It might be said for both James Roosevelt and his brother, Elliott, that they could have been given more guidance by their father, whose sensitiveness to the use of unfair advantages or of opportunities better overlooked is so pronounced. Mr. Roosevelt has condemned a great many people in his day for using what he said were special privileges. He has been severe on economic royalists. He has created class feelings. He has divided the people of the country upon assumptions that some were taking advantage of their fellow men and others were suffering because of it.

He has hit at high salaries merely because they were high. He has condemned the glamor people of Hollywood because they made so much money. He has said that a great salary in itself raised questions of its fitness. He hasn't mentioned the fact that the government takes the larger part of every big salary and that he is spending it.

He has aroused ill feeling in the country because he has made success in itself iniquitous. The father has made the job of the President's son a really difficult one, and it does not appear that his own sons have been carefully disciplined in his ideas.

Furthermore, Mr. Roosevelt's high moral attitude and his criticism of money making have established standards of personal conduct which must either be applied to the family of the man who insists upon them for others or they must become ironic. It might have been tough on the boys, young men starting to make their way in the world and support their families, to lean over backward and avoid the imputation that their success would be based in part upon the influence their father and his administrators could bring to bear on the business enterprises of the United States.

There has never been before an administration to which the business of the country looked with such apprehension. Its fears are reflected in the continuing hard times. There were many occupations in which a President's son might not have made as high as $49,000 in a single year, but what he did make would have been entirely free from any suggestion that political fear or favor had anything to do with it.

One of Mr. Roosevelt's severest condemnations has been directed against the taxpayers who sought legal means to avoid any of the very heavy responsibility and burden which he places upon them. He sent a special message to congress in March, dealing with this subject, in which he urged the enactment of laws to make the present tax structure evasionproof. With his message he submitted a letter from the secretary of the treasury, Henry Morgenthau, citing the principal devices used by taxpayers to avoid levies.

One of these reprobated devices was the division of income between husband and wife. James Roosevelt, in his explanation of his earnings, says that when he became his father's secretary he resigned from the insurance firm of Roosevelt & Sargent and agreed with John Sargent that the salaries and bonuses he and his partner had enjoyed would be paid as dividends. He then discovered that the laws of Massachusetts considered dividends of any kind to be unearned income and taxed such income at a far higher rate than a straight salary.

"My lawyer assured me that it was perfectly proper to give my wife irrevocably—irrevocably, mind—no trick Indian giving or anything like that—to give her irrevocably one-half of my one-half interest in the Roosevelt & Sargent corporation, which would reduce my state tax and by a very small sum my federal income tax, too."

Inasmuch as the uncompromising ethics of the father as they are to be applied to other citizens of the United States have not had a great deal of effect upon members of the family, it might be the next best thing to hope that the experiences of the son would mellow the judgments of the father a little and teach him to see that all men engaged in the precarious hazards of business enterprises are not by nature and design necessarily crooks to be skinned alive every time there is a chance to send a message to congress or to talk over the radio.

ALL BUDDIES.

Governor's day at the Springfield state fair found those two old buddies, Gov. Horner and Mayor Kelly, on the same platform.

It will be recalled—indeed, it cannot be forgotten—that in the primary last spring Gov. Horner found it possible to restrain his expressions of admiration for Mayor Kelly. At the same time Mr. Kelly did not allow his affection for the governor to get the better of him. In the circumstances, the citizenry could hardly have realized how deep were the ties binding these statesmen together.

Their followers did not help matters. Mr. Courtney and Mr. Jarecki dissembled their love for Mr. Kelly and Mr. Igoe dissembled his for Gov. Horner. Etc. Some voters drew the erroneous conclusion that the governor and his friends didn't like the mayor and his.

But now all pretense of indifference has been dropped. Mr. Courtney yerns to clasp the hand of Mr. Kelly. Mr. Igoe dreams of the moment when he may announce to the world his deathless regard for Mr. Horner as a leader. All of them were looking forward to Governor's day and it was only the pressure of affairs of state which prevented Mr. Courtney, Mr. Igoe, Mr. Jarecki and the others from being on hand.

Even so it was a great day. The theme song was "O Love That Will Not Let Me Go." Mr. Courtney's rendering of the refrain would have been heard plainly in Springfield except for the static which sounded for all the world like axes smashing Hymie Levin's gambling furniture in Mayor Kelly's loop. Mr. Jarecki's obbligato, like Mr. Igoe's, suffered from similar interference. All that could be heard of their singing was "Let me go."

Peace, it's wonderful.

HITLER'S MOBILIZATION.

Hitler's mobilization for war maneuvers has the neighboring European governments sleeping fitfully and waking early. It is the time of the year when armies are put through their paces to test the intricate organization and the ability of the men who must work the machinery of command and supply when needed. Hitler's present movements have caused alarm because what he is doing is something like mobilizing the nation.

A ruler who could arrange the Austrian coup cannot be trusted. It was a part of his general show business. He believes that to do an audacious thing quickly is the certain way to success. To be bold and conquer has been his Napoleonic maxim. His reoccupation of the Rhine startled the allies, but there was nothing to be done about it. His overrunning of Austria and his appearance at the Brenner pass may have shocked Mussolini. But it was done.

The peacemakers in 1914 covered their eyes when the mobilizations began. People may still remember the word from Russia. "Mobilization has started. We can't stop it." Hitler will be in the field in full force. The presence of the British mediator, Viscount Runciman, in Czechoslovakia is regarded as a safeguard, a frail fortification, it will be admitted.

Europe is trying to hush the matter up, and probably with wisdom. There's a tough looking fellow across the street, half in the dark, just where the shadows come up to the street light. We'll pass along talking as if we didn't see him.

METHUSELAH COME TO JUDGMENT.

Baseball people have been noting with interest and amusement the return of the ancients to the major leagues. Some of them have been with the minors so long that they couldn't remember what a big city looked like. So this is Boston; so this is New York; so this is Chicago; so this is St. Louis; well, well. Rip Van Winkles, but without a crick in the back or a stitch in the side.

As a greater marvel they are pitchers—Fette, Turner, and Shoffner of Boston, Page of the Cubs, Johnson of the St. Louis Browns. Veterans of all sorts of activity will look around with brighter eyes. These are new times, are they? Too swift for the old folk, too full of ferment and new ideas which call old fogies stuff.

The truth is the old stuff is missing in the new breed. It hasn't got what it takes. It has been raised on spoon vittles. It is soft in the head. One side, kid. Gangway for your betters.

DESIGN FOR FLYING.

A great throng in Berlin greeted the arrival of the Brandenburg the other day after its nonstop flight from New York. The members of the crew which had just completed the round trip across the Atlantic deserved all the cheers they received. The achievement was a notable one and has its place in the history of aviation.

Americans can share the pride which Germans take in the success of the venture. The Brandenburg is a commercial ship whose lines are patterned closely after those of such American types as the Douglas DC-3, produced by American inventive genius for use on American airways. The engines were Pratt and Whitney Hornets, produced in Germany under license from the American owners. For all practical purposes the ship and its engines were American.

THE SOL SMITH COLLECTION.

[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.]

The extensive Sol Smith collection, which the Missouri Historical society has acquired from Mrs. Sheridan Smith of Clayton—there are some 800 pieces, including letters, diaries, documents and other papers—quite plainly is a storehouse of information not only for the historian of the theater on the frontier but for the student of the social history of St. Louis and the country as a whole.

Low comedian but upright citizen, Smith was, in a sense, a local figure with his pre-civil war playacting outpost in St. Louis, or at most a Mississippi valley figure by virtue of his connection with the theater in Mobile and New Orleans. But he was in close correspondence with actor folk of the Atlantic seaboard and England, and letters from the Booths and Keans, from Ellen Tree, Charlotte Cushman, Ben de Bow and P. T. Barnum throw light on the thought and action of people in the middle of the last century. Insight into our own times can be gained from a letter like that of the pessimistic Samuel Drake, writing from Louisville in 1842, to the effect that the depression would not lift and the theater would remain in the doldrums until a "reaction for the country's welfare shall awaken once more the present sleeping enterprise which has put a stop to business of every sort!"

The new collection provides a fortunate connecting supplement for the Missouri Historical society's extensive Gundlach theatrical collection, which covers earlier and later periods. This outstanding research library now possesses what is easily the most complete set of materials on the history of the theater in the Mississippi valley.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

Before the season for dirndls has closed it should be told that the former Mrs. Wallis Simpson, now wedded to England's King Over the Water, is believed to have started this fad in women's apparel. At any rate, she donned one of these peasant frocks while tripping with Davie and chaperons in the Austrian Tyrol and wore it long enough to get photographed for the newspaper syndicates. "Wally did it," say the merchants who have been selling millions of the durndl things.

The word dirndl is a dialect form of the German noun Dirne, which has two shades of meaning. The first, archaic and poetical, is merely girl, young lady, maiden, or damsel. The second is low woman, bad girl, hussy, or any other American equivalent that you may choose from the vulgar vocabulary.

A Hard-Boiled Troubadour.

James Thornton, famous vaudeville comedian and song writer of the past generation, who died this summer, may be remembered by the following ditties which are still popular among bathtub baritones: My Sweetheart's the Man in the Moon, When You Were Sweet Sixteen, She May Have Seen Better Days, and Two Little Girls in Blue. He also wrote the theme song of the Chicago World's Fair in 1893: The Streets of Cairo.

Thornton was a hair-trigger wit with a caustic tongue and a contempt for the conventions. Once he was rebuked in Chicago for suggestive remarks in his monolog. He listened to the complaint blandly and then asked:

"Who are you?"

"I am Mr. Kohl, the owner of this theater."

"Mr. Coal? Mr. Coal?" Thornton mused. "Your place, sir, is in the basement."

The Rev. Irwin St. John Tucker has published a book of poems, sacred and secular, under the title "Friar Tuck's Breviary." Several of these lyrics, including "Yule Song," "Unto the Hills," and "Twelfth Night," were first printed in the Line o' Type column when Richard Henry Little was its conductor.

Melancholy Portrait.

Have you seen the woman who has the upper half of her face painted BLACK?

She rides the Wells street car almost every day. A small woman, in her forties, she carries out her eccentricity of dress by wearing violent shades of red and pink.

Black greasepaint is applied over the entire upper half of her face, and fine white lines are drawn under the eyes. The lower half of the face is vividly rouged. This is topped by a red wig which protrudes out over the forehead, with a single curl hanging down between the eyes.

It all sounds too fantastic to be true, but only those who have seen her several times realize that this isn't a joke. The story goes that at one time she was an actress, with hopes of becoming a great tragedienne, and that failure to succeed on the stage has caused her present state of mind, to put it mildly.

Charlie McCarthy's Grandfather.

Fifteen years ago a ventriloquist called Lester the Great was showing at the Chicago theater. At rehersal one day he wrapped up Charlie McCarthy's grandfather in his usual cloth to preserve the varnish, and banged him back in the box. This caused Frank Cambria, director of art and production, to inquire:

"What's the matter, Lester?"

"The other dummy is the only one that has any personality," the temperamental Lester explained.

STOMACH ACHE AND SUCH.

THE occasional attack of indigestion goes under numerous names, such as biliousness, chill on the liver, wind of the bowels, water brash, heartburn, and stomach ache. Generally speaking, the episode is relatively insignificant, although the careful physician will make enough of an investigation to be certain that a more serious difficulty is not present. Should "dyspepsia" recur again and again, a thorough study may need to be made to rule out some trouble of greater portent. For the most part, however, indiscretions in diet may be blamed for these incidental upsets, and each of us probably has some personal food idiosyncrasy which we should not affront.

A bilious attack, as a rule, follows a restless night—one filled with nightmares—in which the patient is conscious of tossing about in an effort to find a comfortable position. While there may be no actual pain, nevertheless there is an awareness that something is wrong. Rousing finally out of a disturbed sleep, there may be considerable nausea and a severe headache. An attempt to eat, because one feels that one should, leads to vomiting. If the victim is a "tongue gazer" he will be astonished beyond measure at the amount of dark gray fur which has accumulated on that organ.

The wisest procedure is to spend the day in bed. Heat over the abdomen, an ice cap to the head, and hot or cold lemonade will generally terminate the incident within 24 hours. As soon as the irritation quiets down a saline laxative should be taken, aided by a generous amount of weak tea or carbonated water.

If the afflicted person thinks back to the cause he may recall that he filled the digestive tract of an overtired body with too much food. Furthermore, alcohol or some toxic disorder of the liver may be responsible. Now and then such seizures are the sequels of holidays when one plays too much, becomes overfatigued, and eats twice as much as he should. In other words, he places a greater burden on the organs of digestion than they can withstand.

But we should not forget that now and then these affairs mark the beginning of a bout with appendicitis. There is nearly always pain, particularly on pressure, low down on the right side of the abdomen. Temperature cannot always be depended on, but the feeling of malaise—"rotten" describes it unusually well—if accompanied by pain must not be passed over lightly. Food is out of the picture for at least 24 hours, perhaps longer, but water, salted or carbonated, may be used freely if nausea is not pronounced.

Heartburn [not related to the heart] usually means that the gastric pouch is secreting too much hydrochloric acid. There is a steady, boring distress beneath the lower portion of the breastbone, sometimes immediately over the stomach area. This is all too often mistaken for a heart ailment and may be carelessly diagnosed as a coronary accident. Such an interpretation is likely to be made if there is some interference with the heart rhythm, which is a frequent accompaniment of indigestion. True heartburn, however, rarely comes on until two or three hours after the meal and may be associated with the belching of sour tasting material which is forced upward into the mouth. The remedy is easy. A small amount of alkali will neutralize the acid and a mixture containing magnesium and soda is useful.

When pain develops in the stomach proper it may be quite marked. This is known as colic and requires not only heat, but even an opiate for relief. Every boy can remember his one and only siege of green apple cramps. He never risked another and no orchard thereafter could tempt him. Probably the mucous lining is actually inflamed and the application of packs wrung out of hot water, sprinkled with turpentine, and applied directly to the abdomen will be helpful.

Another valuable maneuver is to produce vomiting, and a half teaspoonful of mustard dissolved in a glass of lukewarm water will bring the desired result. With the gastric apparatus emptied, the pain usually disappears. Castor oil is never indicated because if the appendix is at fault this remedy may prove disastrous.

AVOID OVERDOSAGE.

C. W. writes: Will you please tell me what permanent effect benzedrine sulfate has on the system? My physician prescribed it for me for overweight. I have had good success, but want to know if it is likely to harm me later.

REPLY.

The drug in question is a powerful stimulant. Overdosage is to be guarded against as sleeplessness and other nervous manifestations may ensue. If your physician is watching its effects accurately there should be no danger.

TO CHANGE NAME.

Chicago, Aug. 11.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I wish to have my name changed legally. What procedure do I take? M. P.

"It is sufficient, in legal proceedings and elsewhere, that a person is designated by a name by which he is commonly known and called, even though it is not his true name. . . . A marriage by the name by which the individual is commonly known is valid. . . . Where it is not done for fraudulent purpose, and in the absence of statutory restriction, one may lawfully change his name without resort to any legal proceedings, and for all purposes the name thus assumed will constitute his legal name just as if he had borne it from birth." 45 C. J. 380, 381.

In Reinken vs. Reinken, 351 Ill. 409, these principles were applied in holding that a divorced woman can resume her maiden name without court permission.

Chapter 96 of the Illinois Revised Statutes provides that a person "may" file a petition and secure a court decree, but it is held that such states do not abrogate the common law right of an individual to change his name without application to the courts.

In adopting a new name, one should for convenience give notice of the change to those persons to whom the information may be material. In a series of transactions beginning under the old name, for example dealings with a real estate title, we suggest continuing to use the old name, or using both names coupled with such an expression as "formerly known as," to avoid confusion. If an additional showing is asked for, affidavits should suffice.

REVERTING TO JESSE JAMES.

Keokuk, Ia., Aug. 17.—As a boy, living near St. Joseph, Mo., the writer often talked with old neighbors of Jesse James and his one armed mother. In their appraisements Jesse was a hero; sympathy and kindness for the "down and outer" always, and how they did brag on his marksmanship in that day when "the cold steel made all men equal."

When the Denver train was robbed the passengers were commanded to hold their hands high, then higher, the "haul" netting $1,900, and, kindly though he was, Jesse had to shoot a commercial traveler who carried pockets full of his firm's money, and who let down his hands while the important work of "invoicing" the passengers was going on.

That was a time of action. Jesse told two weeping old ladies that if the $18 taken away from them was all they had he would give back to them the $18, and he forthwith made a "grant" of another $18 to show his heart was in the right place. A little girl and a little boy were each "allotted" a $5 bill for shoes, leaving only $1,854 in this generous man's treasury, and, strange to relate, these simple minded, half scared to death people went into ecstasy over this return to them of their own money, and the presents, and by word of mouth they and their neighbors blessed and opened their doors for the shelter of these men, to help them hide from "G-men" of that day. Uncle Sam's officers were never able to capture this gallant leader, but finally he was assassinated in his own home by a friend [?] who sought the "dead or alive" reward put on his head by the law. To quote from that famous Jesse James memorial song: "The dirty little coward that shot Mr. Howard—he laid Jesse James in his grave."

The philosophy of this Missouri outlaw was to take all the money he could get from those who worked and saved, then to return a small per cent to the needy as a "smoke screen" and to obtain shelter when needed.

Thus we had what seems to me the first working model of the New Deal: Money extracted in hidden taxes and the simple minded made happy by the 365 day Santa Claus. B. SUTLIVE.

ADVISES BELLOWING.

Chicago, Aug. 16.—THE TRIBUNE proclaims that it has no sacred cows; yet it is the only paper in town that has not commented on the shameful and annoying situation created by a smug, indifferent group of public servants—the civil service commission. With its bellowing voice the World's Greatest could do much to shock the commission into posting the patrolman's list. But no, the paper is content to keep its head in the clouds and forget what is going on at its feet.

BELLS FOR THE BICYCLES.

Chicago, Aug. 18.—I wish the city would demand that every bicycle have a bell so the rider could let the public know he or she is coming along. I am sure that would avoid many accidents. There is really no other path than the sidewalk for them, but that endangers life when they come along silently.

MAIL BOXES FOR THE MAILS.

RAILROAD PASSES.

Chicago, Aug. 16.—About free rides on railroads: According to the interstate commerce act—"No common carrier shall, after Jan. 1, 1907, issue or give any interstate free ticket, free pass, or free transportation for the passengers, except to its employés and their families, its officers, agents, surgeons, physicians, and attorneys; to ministers of religion, traveling secretaries of railroad Y. M. C. A.'s, inmates of hospitals and charitable and eleemosynary institutions, and persons exclusively engaged in charitable and eleemosynary work; to indigent, destitute, and homeless persons, and to such persons when transported by charitable societies or hospitals, and the necessary agents employed in such transportations, to inmates of the national homes or state homes for disabled volunteer soldiers, and of soldiers' and sailors' homes, including those about to enter and those returning home after discharge; to necessary caretakers of live stock, poultry, milk, and fruit; to employés on sleeping cars, and to linemen of telegraph and telephone companies; to railway mail service employés, postoffice inspectors; to newsboys on trains, baggage agents, witnesses attending any legal investigation in which the common carrier is interested, persons injured in wrecks, and physicians and nurses attending such persons."

The act further provides for reduced rates for National Guard organizations, officers of postoffice department, of federal coördinator of transportation, assistants, agents, and employés.

PAY IS IRREGULAR.

Chicago, Aug. 15.—A. L. Bowen's reply concerning the pay days of the employés of the Chicago State hospital is the typical indefinite answer of the politician "about the fifteenth of the month." To be paid on or before the fifteenth is a rare occurrence, to be paid after the twentieth and sometimes as late as the twenty-eighth is not nearly so rare.

Why can't the state set a certain day as pay day and then stick to that date? Making both ends meet on a salary of $85 is difficult for a family of six and well nigh impossible when the money is paid so irregularly. AN EMPLOYE.

A USEFUL FOUR DAYS.

Galesburg, Ill., Aug. 16.—During the last four days I have done four things, as follows: I have seen the motion picture "In Old Chicago"; have driven from the south edge of the city to Ogden avenue and Clark street; talked with Victor H. Stromquist, Chicago architect, who is familiar with Chicago's slum situation, and read Howard Wood's article in THE SUNDAY TRIBUNE, "Chicago Points New Way to Slum Clearance."

I think that if the "powers that be" could have these four experiences on four successive days "somebody would do something about it."

OLLIE W. GILCHRIST.

FEDERAL HOUSING LOBBYISTS.

Chicago, Aug. 18.—One Illinois representative who fought the housing act [forgoing taxes] in the last session of the legislature has reported to his constituents that the parties vitally interested in the building of the proposed federal housing for the colored had brought to Springfield a trainload of lobbyists from Chicago. He heard there was a carload of foreign looking men and women from the Jane Addams houses. They carried banners with inscriptions: "We like our new homes." "We want more federal housing."

These chosen tenants of subsidized homes were paraded all through the capitol, and were allowed to speak before the legislature. Along with the Jane Addams delegation came an ex-high school teacher. She, too, yelled loudly that unless the colored who are now on relief rolls get tile bathrooms there is a dark future in store for Chicago.

The representative reported that he could not discover who paid the train fare and for the meals of the delegation from the west side. Maybe Mr. Strauss, head of federal housing, can tell.

BEAUTY SPOT IN LINCOLN PARK.

Chicago, Aug. 16.—Ten years ago my friends were discussing the new Lincoln park improvement north of Belmont avenue. It was going to be very nice they said—a new golf course, baseball diamonds, play grounds, etc. I listened to their enthusiasms with the same skepticism that I had listened to the subway talk and many other dreams.

At that time this district looked like a dump yard, débris of all sorts—cans, garbage. To transform that unsightly spot seemed impossible, but a miracle happened.

A golf course now exists at Waveland that cannot be excelled anywhere in this country. There was no New Deal when this was started and WPA workers did almost nothing to aid. Just the hard work of a few young men, notably that of Mr. Jannes, head ground keeper. I am told he laid out these beautiful grounds and cares for it as a mother with her first born.

Chicagoans would do well to visit this beautiful spot and realize what hard work can really accomplish when joined with love and pride of creation.

DOGS AND DOG LAWS.

Chicago, Aug. 15.—Now that we've got the weed situation on the southwest side pretty well in hand let us turn our attention to dangerous dogs, and all dogs are dangerous in the hot weather. Like many laws, the muzzling and other dog laws are not enforced. So many youngsters are being bitten out our way. Two have come under my observation the last few days. Something should be done at once to protect the kids from this abatable menace to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. EFFAREJAY.

GERMANS FLAUNT WAR MACHINE IN FRONT OF FRENCH

Seek to Dazzle General with Air Strength.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 18.—Gen. Joseph Vuillemin, chief of staf of the French air force, and his aids probably know more about the actual strength of Germany's air force than any other foreign officers in the world.

The French general and his entourage are dazzled by the friendliness of their reception in Germany and by the frank display of new Nazi war planes and aircraft factories.

The French aviation mission, which is making a courtesy visit to Germany, today flew to Magdeburg, hub of the nation's arm industries.

French Get Birdseye View.

From their plane the French officers got a birdseye view of huge military centers and arms factories which stretch along a triangle from Berlin to Leipzig, Halle, and Braunschweig. In Magdeburg the French inspected the Junkers airplane motors factory and aviation school. Gen. Vuillemin met Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler on his return to Berlin.

The candor with which the Germans are exhibiting their air force and aviation plants convinces foreign observers that Hitler's government is eager to impress France with the reich's military might.

It is a timely exhibition because it comes during a crisis in which the Nazis are demanding a reorganization of central Europe. Germany, too, has warned Europe she intends to support and protect the 3,250,000 Sudeten Germans in Czechoslovakia—one of France's allies.

British Are Invited.

Gen. Vuillemin is the first foreign guest attending Germany's military maneuvers this year, but more are expected before the mock war ends in October. A British delegation of aviation officers has been invited to witness the same sights.

Among the new German planes which Gen. Vuillemin has inspected is the pursuit plane BF 110. It is armed with two cannons and four machine guns. The twin-motored plane is manufactured by the Bavarian airplane works in Augsburg. The Germans said Gen. Vuillemin "was much impressed by the efficiency and marksmanship displayed by the gun crews."

Germany's eagerness to exhibit her military preparedness is also disclosed in the way German aviation circles stress "the military demonstration value" of the Brandenburg's recent nonstop flight from Berlin to New York and return.

The Germans argue that a plane of the Focke-Wulf Condor type, which was used in the record breaking flight, is able to reach the Ural mountains with a load of bombs and still have enough fuel left to return to Germany. Some of soviet Russia's armaments works are located along the Urals, which separate European Russia from Siberia. The Russians believe this area is out of striking distance of enemy planes.

INSIST BRITISH FOREIGN CHIEF WILL STAY ON JOB

LONDON, Aug. 18.—(AP)—British government spokesmen today issued official denials of reports that Viscount Halifax, foreign secretary, might resign because of differences with Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain over dealings with Europe's dictators.

Reports in diplomatic circles yesterday said that Halifax had veered to the belief of his predecessor, Anthony Eden. This belief was that the time had come to deal sternly with the dictators. Eden resigned Feb. 20 because he differed with Chamberlain's "realistic" policy of seeking understanding with the rulers of Italy and Germany.

Two-Gun Bandit Robs Two Taverns Within 5 Minutes

Two-gun bandits have been pretty scarce in Chicago, but one made two appearances within five minutes this morning. A man between 30 and 35 years old, he first appeared in Louis Bednar's tavern at 2519 59th street. He menaced a dozen customers, took $4 from the till, and fled. In no time at all he was in John Klein's tavern at 5952 South Western avenue. He got $30 there.

INDIANA TO ESTABLISH A FOREST RESERVE IN NORTH CENTRAL AREA

Peru, Ind., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—North central Indiana is to have a 1,200 acre state forest preserve to be established soon at historic points along the Mississinewa river in Miami, Wabash, and Grant counties.

Arrow points to site of new forest preserve.

Fred W. Eley, state deputy attorney general, was in Peru today to obtain deeds on 750 acres of land between Pimyotomie Ford, near here, and the grave of Frances Slocum, famous in Indian history as the "white rose of the Miamis." Options on 450 additional acres are held by John W. Bossard, Peru banker, purchasing agent representing the state. This latter tract will extend the proposed reserve near Red Bridge, in Wabash county.

The park tract will be known as the Frances Slocum forest reserve, and will be a monument to the white woman who figured prominently in early Indiana history. As a child, she was stolen from Pennsylvania by the Miamis and grew up among them as an Indian. Late in life she was found by George W. Ewing, a founder of Peru.

CAUSES ARREST AS THIEF AFTER 5 MONTHS' HUNT

Miss Ada Mills, 25 years old, remembers her clothes. Last February she took Miss Marge Miller, 30, into her home at 6501 Yale avenue, on hearing the latter's story of being homeless. Miss Miller left on March 22. Two days later some one broke into Miss Mills' home and took a fur coat valued at $200 and other articles of clothing—including a white satin waist—valued at $150. Not long afterward Miss Mills saw Miss Miller on the street wearing the coat. So she told police in getting a warant out for Miss Miller. Since then Miss Mills has been looking for Miss Miller. She saw her last night in a 63d street tavern. She was wearing the satin waist. Miss Mills called Policemen Joseph O'Brien and Arthur Tighe of Englewood, who had been holding the warant for Miss Miller since last March. They arrested her.

SEEK TWO MICHIGAN FUGITIVES.

Nazi Leader Stands Pat on Self-Rule Demand.

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Aug. 18.—Viscount Runciman of Great Britain and Konrad Henlein met today for the first time. Runciman is mediator and unofficial peacemaker in the conflict between Sudeten Germans and the Czechoslovak government. Henlein is leader of the Sudeten German [Nazi] party which is demanding self government for 3,250,000 Germans living in this republic.

The two conferred secretly at Rothenhaus castle about 13 miles from the German border. They were the guests of Prince Max von Hohenlohe-Langenburg. Runciman and two assistants talked with Henlein and two Sudeten German party deputies, Ernst Kundt and Karl Hermann Franck, for two hours. Afterwards Runciman and Henlein met privately for another two hours.

Henlein Stands Firm.

The mediator tried to induce the leader to soften his demands to a point where there would be a greater possibility of reaching an agreement with the Prague government. Henlein refused to alter his stand. He said he was in complete agreement with what Deputy Kundt told the government yesterday.

[Kundt on Wednesday said the gap between the stands of the Prague government and the Sudeten Germans was so wide it could not be bridged.]

If anything, Henlein said, he thought Kundt had been too reasonable in denouncing the government's propositions for solving the minorities problem.

The Sudeten German party leader told Runciman that his organization would not break off negotiations. He said, however, that his party would not negotiate on details until some agreement had been reached on the basis of his Carlsbad eight point demand. Self-government was one of the points.

Demands Swing to Nazi View.

Henlein indicated he insists upon the Czechs accepting the German viewpoint that Czechoslovakia is a "nationalities state"—that is, a mixture of different peoples all of whom must get a voice in the government. He argued that the republic is not a "national state" created for the exclusive benefit of the Czechs and dominated by them.

An associate of Runciman tonight said the mediator was astounded at the complexity and apparent hopelessness of the situation.

LINDBERGH SEES REDS' AIR FORCE DROP AN ARMY BY PARACHUTES

MOSCOW, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Airmen of soviet Russia today performed for three hours in celebration of the soviet "aviation day." The several hundred thousands of spectators included Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh. The American flying couple were seated with high soviet officials at some distance from other foreigners.

The program began with the ascension of a gigantic portrait of Dictator Josef Stalin lifted by a globe-shaped balloon on which was painted a map of the world. Portraits of other soviet leaders followed, towed by plain balloons. The most picturesque feature of the show was the mass jumping of several hundred men, using parachutes. For a moment opening parachutes seemed to fill completely the sky in front of the spectators.

FACES COURT ON CHARGE OF OIL ROYALTIES SALE

John Williams of New York City will be arraigned today before County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki on a charge of violating the state securities laws. He was arrested Wednesday by Eugene O'Connor of the state's attorney's blue sky division on the complaint of William Holroyd, 4041 Ellis avenue. Holroyd said he had not received a deed for oil royalties he purchased from Williams last July 28. The sale of oil royalties is forbidden in Illinois, O'Connor said. According to Frederick Young, investigator for the Securities and Exchange commission, Williams is under state and federal indictments in New York for the sale of oil royalties there.

DUCE INSPECTS ISLAND BASE TO WARN ENGLAND

Flies to Stronghold on British Lifeline.

ROME, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini today made a flying inspection of Italy's new Mediterranean stronghold, Pantelleria Island, which flanks Great Britain's empire lifeline. Foreign circles believed the flight was intended to impress Great Britain and France with Italy's armed strength in the Mediterranean.

Arrow indicates Italian base visited by Mussolini.

The Italian press admitted the visit "could not be a more significant gesture." It was made at a time when Italy's relations with France and Great Britain are impaired by continued Italian activity in the Spanish civil war.

Mussolini took off at dawn from an airport near Rome, flying his own trimotor bombing plane. He made the 700 mile round trip at 180 miles an hour and was back in Rome for lunch.

During his short stay he "closely inspected the works of the base," it was announced. He saluted cheering islanders from the balcony of Pantelleria's City hall. He ordered workmen's pay doubled for the day and the distribution of 10,000 lire [about $526] among large families.

Lies in 100 Mile Bottle Neck.

The premier's presence was the first public indication of Pantelleria's further development since the Ethiopian war. Its fortification as an air base, it was said then, would tend to offset Britain's control from the powerful British base on the island of Malta.

Pantelleria Island is between the Italian island of Sicily and French Tunisia. It is near the center of a bottle neck, 100 miles wide, through which Mediterranean shipping must pass. A large part of this shipping is British, en route between Britain and British possessions in the near and far east.

"Powerful Stronghold" Built.

In an editorial on Il Duce's flight, said to have been his longest, the newspaper La Tribuna said of Pantelleria:

"A powerful stronghold has been constituted where so often has been concentrated the curiosity of those who fear our indomitable Mediterranean power."

Mussolini's wife, Rachele Mussolini, departed today aboard the yacht Aurora for a cruise in the Adriatic sea. Romano, 11 years old, and Anna Maria, 9 years old, the premier's youngest children, were with their mother. The cruise will take Signora Mussolini outside Italy for the first time. She may go ashore in Jugo-Slavia.

Story of Wasp Down Back Takes Sting Out of a Court

George Nellessen of 1219 Leon place, Evanston, a cab driver, appeared before Judge James M. Corcoran of the Evanston Municipal court for driving through a stop sign. He said:

"I felt something crawling down my back and I thought it was a wasp. I got so excited trying to get it out I didn't see the sign."

The judge freed him.

THIEF RETURNED TO JAIL AFTER 4 YEAR ABSENCE

Charles Carroll Terry, who broke out of the McHenry county jail four years ago, was back inside yesterday. He is being held for trial on a charge of stealing $10,000 worth of jewelry from the summer home of John L. Barrett, retired International Harvester official, at Crystal Lake four years ago.

Arrested in Milwaukee Monday on a vagrancy charge, Terry confessed the robbery. He said he confessed because he wanted to be able to write to his wife, Emma. She is serving a one to ten year term in the women's prison at Dwight, Ill., for the theft. The couple were employed by the Barretts for ten days.

Terry told Sherif Henry C. Nulle, who returned him from Milwaukee, that he supported himself by tailoring and selling magazines. And, he said, he was afraid to write Emma.

KICKS AT WRONG DOOR; FINED.

John Guedel paid a $15 fine in Stockyards court yesterday for kicking at the back door of the home of Stephen B. Savage, 6342 South Ashland avenue. Guedel, of 6533 South Seeley avenue, was charged with disorderly conduct.

I BEEN WASHIN' CLOTHES FOR 30 YEARS
AN' AMERICAN FAMILY SOAP IS THE BEST I EVER FOUND!

says MRS. HENRIETTA ODELL
1237 W. 112th STREET

WHAT an amazing difference American Family Soap makes on washday. For, without boiling, scrubbing, or ruinous rubbing—without using strong bleaches—clothes come out sweet smelling, sparkling white.

The reason for this startling difference is this. Laboratory tests have proved that American Family contains as much as ⅓ more suds-making material than other bar soaps tested—including soaps containing naphtha. This extra suds-making material gives American Family Soap greater washing power. Produces rich, creamy, active suds. Even grimiest spots are removed without back-breaking rubbing—and with utmost safety to clothes.

Colored fabrics retain their gay brilliance. White clothes come out snowy white. All washables last unbelievably longer. American Family Soap has been used by countless thousands of women for over 90 years. These women have found beyond the slightest doubt that—It's cheaper to buy good soap than new clothes! Made by Procter & Gamble.

NORTH SHORE LINE REFUSES TO MEET UNIONS ON STRIKE

Says NLRB Must Decide on Bargainer First.

Representatives of the North Shore line refused yesterday to meet with rival union officials representing the 1,300 employés who went on strike Tuesday to protest a 15 per cent wage cut. The company officials said a meeting would be impossible under the law until the National Labor Relations board designates the collective bargaining agent.

Harry E. Scheck.

Negotiations to end the strike and its discomfort for thousands of commuters thus remained deadlocked. Harry E. Scheck, federal labor conciliator, said nothing further could be accomplished until the NLRB meets Monday to hear the conflicting union claims.

Second Conciliator to Arrive.

Because of the serious nature of the tie-up, Scheck asked Washington for aid in conducting the negotiations. Robert M. Pilkington, a conciliator now in Detroit, Mich., was ordered to Chicago. He is expected to arrive today.

"We intend to pursue our efforts at conciliation," Scheck declared, "until we arrive at a settlement. We will not be satisfied with any arrangement short of one which covers all affected employés."

The strike was called by division 900 of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employés of America, which had held a contract with the company for nineteen years. When the union refused to accept the cut, Col. A. A. Sprague, the federal receiver, abrogated the contract on a thirty day cancelation clause.

Unions Dispute Representation.

Representation of the employés by the Amalgamated is now disputed by four craft unions who have asked the NLRB to hear their claims. These unions are the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, the Order of Railroad Telegraphers, and the International Association of Machinists.

Scheck met yesterday with Col. Sprague, Bernard J. Fallon, executive officer for the receiver, and Ralph B. Bradley, the company counsel. Scheck suggested that they make a substitute offer for the pay cut or agree to a truce pending the NLRB hearing. Both pleas were rejected.

"There is now no contract between the line and any union," said Bradley. "If we negotiated with one union and not the others, it would violate the labor law. We must wait until the NLRB has acted."

All Unions United on Strike.

All five of the unions stand together on the strike. They insist their men will not work without a contract and they demand that the pay cut issue be settled by arbitration.

At the request of an independent bondholders' committee the Wisconsin public service commission has begun an investigation of the strike. The committee contends Col. Sprague had no authority to stop the service when the employés ceased work. The receiver insisted he acted with full legal authority, after conferring with the judge who appointed him.

JURY WILL PROBE CHARGE OF UNION BUILDER BOYCOTT

Study Alleged Threat to Supply Men.

Six representatives of lumber and building material companies in Du Page county were subpenaed yesterday to appear before the grand jury in Wheaton on Monday. State's Attorney Russell W. Keeney said they will be questioned about a threatened union boycott against them if they sold supplies to a nonunion contractor in Lombard.

The contractor is William Wallace. He is a member of the Landis Award association, which employs nonunion labor. Early this month he resumed construction of a house at Ash and Martha streets in Lombard after the project had been tied up for seven weeks by labor terrorism.

Wallace complained yesterday that the Du Page County Building Trades council had warned the six lumber and material companies that no supplies for union jobs would be purchased from them unless the companies refused supplies to Wallace. These concerns, therefore, have refrained from selling him supplies for fear of the reprisals, Wallace said. This will necessitate his buying material in Chicago and other places outside of Du Page county at greater cost, he added.

The six company officials subpenaed are: George Staiger of the Lord Lumber company, La Grange; Ernest Hammerschmidt of the Lombard Brick and Tile company; Burton Skemp of the Westmore Lumber and Supply company, Lombard; H. V. Watts of the Du Page Lumber company, Wheaton; Montell Stephens of the Berglund-Stephens Lumber company, Glen Ellyn, and Roy Schwartz of the Alexander Lumber company, Lombard. Wallace and Gustave Hansen, a Landis Award association official, also were summoned to appear before the jury.

Prosecutor Keeney also said he will question Sam Passarelli, a subcontractor. When Passarelli failed to appear Monday as complaining witness against Charles Crider, Justice of the Peace William H. Johnson dismissed a charge of malicious mischief against Crider. Passarelli had previously identified Crider as the man who smashed a window of his automobile on July 26. Crider was arrested while picketing Wallace's building project. Keeney said he wanted to learn why Passarelli wasn't in court.

Judge William J. Fulton yesterday allowed Otto Jaburek, counsel for Wallace, to file an amended complaint in the contractor's injunction suit. Wallace seeks to restrain interference and violence by the trades council pickets. The union has denied his charges and has filed a counter plea for an injunction to prevent Wallace from interfering with the pickets.

IOWA GOVERNOR LIFTS MARTIAL LAW IN NEWTON

Newton, Ia., Aug. 18.—(AP)—Gov. Nelson G. Kraschel tonight ordered the immediate withdrawal of national guard troops from the scene of the Maytag washing machine strike at Newton, Ia.

The 125 guardsmen and eight officers, all that remained on duty of the 250 originally sent into the strike zone July 20, probably will move out of Newton tomorrow, the governor said.

Withdrawal of the troops is designed to facilitate a settlement of the three month labor controversy between the company and the C. I. O., the governor added.

Coney Island Excursion Boat and Navy Tug Collide

The collision occurred as both vessels were about to dock. None of the 100 passengers aboard the Deepwater was injured. The next trip of the excursion boat was canceled so that repairs could be made.

U. S. LABOR BOARD HAS SECRET FILE, A. F. L. AID SAYS

Amendments to Reduce Powers Urged.

BY THORNTON SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—A complaint that the National Labor Relations board makes its decisions from a secret informal file which it keeps in addition to its formal records was made here today. Joseph A. Padway, general counsel for the American Federation of Labor, made the charge. Padway has written a series of proposed amendments to the Wagner act designed to strip the board of judicial powers and to curb it in many of its activities.

The amendments will be offered as a step in the A. F. of L.'s fight against the labor board which it accuses of discrimination in favor of the C. I. O. They were written at the direction of William Green, federation president, will be submitted to him this week-end. The final drafts will be presented Monday to the executive council of the federation when it begins a ten day conference in Atlantic City.

Called Star Chamber Action.

"The use of a secret file by the labor board is tantamount to star chamber proceedings," Padway said. "The use of secret evidence which interested parties cannot see is contrary to the basic principles of justice in our democracy."

Padway's amendments are designed to transfer judicial powers now held by the board to an independent tribunal, leaving most administrative duties with the board. An Appellate court which now can review only the questions of law and is bound by the board's findings of fact would have jurisdiction under the amendments to review both facts and law in every labor board decision.

Urges Rights for Employers.

An amendment also will be proposed to permit employers to express their views to employés on the relative merits of labor organizations.

While this would enable employers to seek to influence their workers in the choice of a bargaining agent, it does not contemplate letting down the bars against company unions, Padway said.

"In fact we will seek more stringent means to outlaw company unions," the federation counsel said. "In the eyes of the American Federation of Labor, the company union is not and can never be a bona fide bargaining agent.

"The amendments would make it mandatory upon the board to set aside craft organizations as separate unions in deciding cases. That would make it impossible for the board to consider a whole plant as an industrial unit."

Objects of Amendments.

Objects which the amendments will seek to achieve are:

To restrict the power of the board to issue and deny subpenas.

To grant courts power to review the facts and decisions of the board and to determine whether it was justified by the evidence in its findings.

To limit the board's power to invalidate union employer contracts.

To limit the board's power to lump craft workers with others in determining collective bargaining units.

To permit employers to express views to employés on the relative merits of bona fide labor organizations.

To compel the board to open its documents and files to all interested parties.

Accused of Prejudice.

The American Federation of Labor has accused the labor board of prejudice in favor of the C. I. O. and of using the C. I. O. as a means of fostering secession in the labor movement.

Padway, who was in Milwaukee to attend the wedding of his daughter, will return to Washington tomorrow.

FRESH FRUITS AND ICE CREAM UNITE FLAVORS

BY MARY MEADE.

No dessert is more welcome than ice cream at the end of a dinner. Now when grocers' windows are gaudy with huge, rosy peaches, plump nectarines, deep dark plums, green and purple grapes, yellow pears and other beautiful fresh fruits, ice cream holds its greatest charm. For, dressed with sliced or crushed fresh fruits, or sauces made from them, this frozen dessert is most palatable.

Every woman knows how to arrange a fruit sundae or parfait, so I shall not repeat anything that elementary here. But I do want to suggest a few attractive desserts which may be prepared from commercial or home made ice creams for those occasions which demand that inevitable "something different."

Peach-Peanut Brittle Brick: Line refrigerator freezing tray with waxed paper. Pack into it a quart of chocolate ice cream. Cover the cream with a single layer of thinly sliced peaches, which have been sprinkled with lemon juice to prevent discoloration. Over the fruit spread ½ pint cream, whipped, into which has been folded ½ cup crushed peanut brittle. Leave in the freezing tray until firm. Cut in squares to serve. These amounts will make eight servings.

Sometimes peanut brittle is a bit hard to come by in the summer. Many candy shops carry it only in cooler weather, when it won't become sticky. In case it's hard to find, substitute crushed peppermint candy, or crushed chocolate chip candy. Crushed macaroons may serve the purpose, too. If they are used, sweeten the whipped cream somewhat.

Ice Cream Cake Loaf: Line freezing tray with waxed paper. Cut a thin layer of chocolate or sponge cake to fit the tray, and place it in the tray. Over this spread a pint of ice cream [lemon custard for chocolate cake, chocolate for sponge cake, as examples]. Put a layer of sliced bananas, sprinkled with lemon juice to prevent discoloration, over the ice cream, and cover with stiffly beaten, sweetened whipped cream. Sprinkle the top with chocolate shot or grated sweet or unsweetened chocolate, and leave in the tray until firm. Slice to serve. These proportions make enough of the dessert to serve six persons.

Frozen Fruit Pudding: This dessert is made with candied fruits, currants and raisins. Let a quart of chocolate ice cream stand until it is warm enough to be stirred vigorously, but not until it melts. Stir into it ¾ cup finely chopped or ground candied fruits, such as orange peel, cherry and pineapple, with currants and raisins. The total amount of fruit should measure ¾ cup. Cover the bottom of a wax paper-lined freezing tray with crushed macaroon crums and spread the chocolate ice cream and fruit mixture over it. Top with another layer of crums and leave until the cream has frozen solidly again. Cut in slices to serve. Six to eight persons may be served.

Ice Cream Flowerpots: Cut brick ice cream into cubes about three inches to a side. Press thin chocolate wafers around the sides of each cube, making the "flowerpot." There should be a wafer on the bottom of each cube, too, but leave the top open. Sprinkle top with chocolate shot and stick into the top of each flowerpot a tiny twig upon which small gumdrops have been impaled. These represent flowers. A tiny spray of artificial flowers may be used instead.

FRESH VEGETABLE BARGAINS OFFSET FOOD PRICE GAINS

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Cooler weather following the recent rains has kept vegetables fresh and enabled truck gardeners to continue shipping an abundance of high grade products to Chicago during the last week. With generous supplies of fresh garden products still arriving daily, retail grocers are able to offer bargains today and tomorrow to offset in some measure the advances on other items.

The up and down lists of foods are just about balanced this week in the different departments of retail food stores. Butchers failed to reduce their prices on most cuts of fresh meats, although lower prices on beef, pork, and lamb were expected to follow the marked slump in the prices paid farmers for live stock and packers for wholesale carcasses last week.

Lower retail meat prices were checked by the tendency of prices on animals and wholesale meats to climb higher at Union Stockyards.

Flour Prices Show Decline.

Flour is on sale in many sections of the city and suburbs at 4 to 10 cents a 24½ pound sack below the regular price. Smaller packages of flour also have been put on bargain counters in some stores for today and tomorrow. Lard and sugar are slightly higher than last week-end in many places.

More fresh fruits and vegetables are up than down, compared to prices asked a week ago, although most of them still are considered reasonable.

Green beans are much higher, the price having been doubled in most stores. Fresh peas are up about 2 cents a pound. Spinach is 1 to 4 cents a pound higher. Radishes, green onions, carrots, and roasting ears are higher in some cases. Dry onions are up in some stores and down in others.

Peaches are going up. They are about 50 to 75 cents a bushel higher than last week-end. The peak of the season's peach harvest is past and prices are expected to continue to go higher.

Lemons 8 to 12c Lower.

Lemons are down 8 to 12 cents a dozen in many places. Bartlett pears are cheaper. Celery, rutabagas, fresh tomatoes, and head lettuce are lower in some stores. White potatoes are down about 2 cents a 15 pound sack. Various kinds of canned fruits and vegetables are being featured here and there, some in dozen lots.

It retail meat cuts are about the same as last week-end. Pot roasts of beef and frying chickens are 6 cents a pound less in some shops and cured hams are down 1 cent in a few places. Round steaks are off 2 cents a pound in some butcher shops.

The recent downward trend in live stock and wholesale meat prices has been halted, according to official reports from the stockyards. Farmers were paid 25 to 50 cents a hundred pounds more this week than last for hogs, the top price reaching $9.15 a hundred. Most wholesale cuts of pork loins went up $2 to $3 a hundred.

Spring lamb is up 4 cents a pound in many places, and loin lamb chops have been raised an equal amount in some. Pork spareribs are 1 cent a pound higher in a few places.

Fresh fish, including halibut, herring, trout, whitefish, and pike are being featured at 2 to 10 cents a pound less in several shops.

RECTOR GIVES SECRETS OF PREPARING TASTY REFRIGERATOR FOOD

When one reads of places celebrated for good food, the instinctive thought is of cooking. Actually, the great restaurants of the day are as much concerned with freezing and chilling as with broiling and baking.

Novel among refrigerator delicacies is frozen watercress salad. Mr. Rector will present a recipe for this tempter which, if cheese is one of the ingredients, can constitute a complete meal.

SPAGHETTI WINS AS SUMMER DISH; IT'S EASY TO FIX

Maybe Italian spaghetti doesn't sound like a summery dish to you, but considering that it is cooked on top of the stove, requires little last minute preparation, and is almost a complete meal in itself the dish rates as a hot weather disposition saver.

This recipe is a good spicy one. Serve a salad bowl of greens, crusty yeast rolls, dessert, and beverage with it and then you have a full meal.

ITALIAN SPAGHETTI.
[Serves Eight.]

1 No. 2½ can [3½ cups] tomatoes
1½ teaspoons cinnamon
1¼ teaspoons cloves
1½ teaspoons nutmeg
1 tablespoon celery salt
1 medium onion, finely minced
1 clove garlic, finely minced
1 small can tomato paste
½ pound mushrooms, chopped
⅓ cup fat
½ pound round steak, ground
2 8-ounce packages spaghetti

Cook tomatoes, spices, chopped onion, and garlic together, simmering for about one hour. Add tomato paste. Sauté mushrooms in fat. Skim out mushrooms and add to tomatoes. Brown meat in the same fat. Add meat and fat to tomatoes. Simmer for another one-half to three-quarters hour. Pour hot sauce over cooked spaghetti and serve with grated Italian cheese.

To cook spaghetti in long pieces: Have a kettle of boiling salted water ready. Place ends of spaghetti in water and as spaghetti begins to soften coil it around into the kettle. Cook until tender, about 20 minutes. Drain through colander. Let cold water run over spaghetti. Reheat by pouring boiling water over spaghetti and steaming over hot water, about 15 minutes.

Lemons 8 to 12c Lower.

Lemons are down 8 to 12 cents a dozen in many places. Bartlett pears are cheaper. Celery, rutabagas, fresh tomatoes, and head lettuce are lower in some stores. White potatoes are down about 2 cents a 15 pound sack. Various kinds of canned fruits and vegetables are being featured here and there, some in dozen lots.

Most retail meat cuts are about the same as last week-end. Pot roasts of beef and frying chickens are 6 cents a pound less in some shops and cured hams are down 1 cent in a few places. Round steaks are off 2 cents a pound in some butcher shops.

The recent downward trend in live stock and wholesale meat prices has been halted, according to official reports from the stockyards. Farmers were paid 25 to 50 cents a hundred pounds more this week than last for hogs, the top price reaching $9.15 a hundred. Most wholesale cuts of pork loins went up $2 to $3 a hundred.

Leg of lamb is up 4 cents a pound in many places, and loin lamb chops have been raised an equal amount in some. Pork spareribs are 1 cent a pound higher in a few places.

Fresh fish, including halibut, herring, trout, whitefish, and pike are being featured at 2 to 10 cents a pound less in several shops.

RECTOR GIVES SECRETS OF PREPARING TASTY REFRIGERATOR FOOD

When one reads of places celebrated for good food, the instinctive thought is of cooking. Actually, the great restaurants of the day are as much concerned with freezing and chilling as with broiling and baking.

Novel among refrigerator delicacies is frozen watercress salad. Mr. Rector will present a recipe for this tempter which, if cheese is one of the ingredients, can constitute a complete meal.

SPAGHETTI WINS AS SUMMER DISH; IT'S EASY TO FIX

Maybe Italian spaghetti doesn't scund like a summery dish to you, but considering that it is cooked on top of the stove, requires little last minute preparation, and is almost a complete meal in itself the dish rates as a hot weather disposition saver.

This recipe is a good spicy one. Serve a salad bowl of greens, crusty yeast rolls, dessert, and beverage with it and then you have a full meal.

ITALIAN SPAGHETTI.
[Serves Eight.]

1 No. 2½ can [3½ cups] tomatoes
1½ teaspoons cinnamon
1½ teaspoons cloves
1½ teaspoons nutmeg
1 tablespoon celery salt
1 medium onion, finely minced
1 clove garlic, finely minced
1 small can tomato paste
½ pound mushrooms, chopped
½ cup fat
½ pound round steak, ground
2 8-ounce packages spaghetti

Cook tomatoes, spices, chopped onion, and garlic together, simmering for about one hour. Add tomato paste. Sauté mushrooms in fat. Skim out mushrooms and add to tomatoes. Brown meat in the same fat. Add meat and fat to tomatoes. Simmer for another one-half to three-quarters hour. Pour hot sauce over cooked spaghetti and serve with grated Italian cheese.

To cook spaghetti in long pieces: Have a kettle of boiling salted water ready. Place ends of spaghetti in water and as spaghetti begins to soften coil it around into the kettle. Cook until tender, about 20 minutes. Drain through colander. Let cold water run over spaghetti. Reheat by pouring boiling water over spaghetti and steaming over hot water, about 15 minutes.

The Story of OD and AD and the TOMATOES

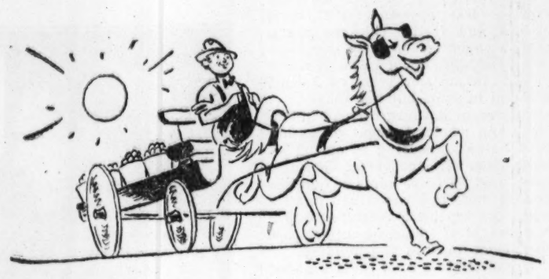
OD and AD owned neighboring farms. Both decided to grow tomatoes. But when their tomatoes were ripe, OD and AD had different ideas as to how they would sell them. This is the story of what happened.

How OD and AD Sold Their Tomatoes



OD filled baskets with his tomatoes and put them in a wagon and drove to town. He went up and down the streets looking for people who wanted to buy tomatoes. Some days he sold all. Some days he sold only a few. When the season was over, he found he had made just enough to live on.

AD thought there must be a better way to sell his tomatoes. He knew he must tell people about them, but he decided he could never sell very many tomatoes if he talked to people one at a time. So he used one of the simplest forms of ADVERTISING. He built a stand by the side of the road where many people passed. He put up a sign that said: "AD's big, red, ripe, juicy tomatoes." Because so many people saw the sign, enough people stopped to buy so that he sold all his ripe tomatoes every day. Many who bought, remembering his name on the sign, came back again and again. When the season was over, he had money in the bank.

• • •

One day AD heard that tomato juice was healthful and good to drink. He thought it would also be convenient to handle, to sell, and to serve in the home. He told OD about it. The next year both decided to make and sell tomato juice.

How OD and AD Sold Their Tomato Juice

OD'S wife squeezed tomatoes all day and put the juice in bottles. OD took it to town and went from door to door, looking for people who wanted to buy tomato juice. In a whole day he could call at only about 50 homes. As most people had never heard of tomato juice and did not know how good it was, he sold only a few bottles each day.

AD felt sure there was a better way to make and sell his tomato juice. He took some money from the bank and bought a shiny new press that squeezed out juice easily and quickly. He put the juice in bottles that could be tightly sealed. He had labels printed for the bottles, reading:

AD'S PURE TOMATO JUICE.

He went to the grocery stores in town, where many people came every day, and asked the grocers to put a few of his bottles on their counters. Then he put an advertisement in newspapers read by thousands of people. The advertisement said:

> "Enjoy the refreshing taste of AD's PURE TOMATO JUICE, pressed from big, red, vine-ripened Tomatoes. Good to drink and good for you. At your favorite grocery store."

Because so many people read about it, enough people asked for it to exhaust the supply quickly. And remembering AD's name on the label they came back and asked for it again. So AD bought tomatoes from his neighbors and made more tomato juice to supply the demand.

What OD and AD Did The Next Year

OD and his wife decided that if they were going to make any money, they would have to work harder. So she got up earlier in the morning and picked tomatoes and squeezed and bottled juice all day. OD spent a longer day in town trying to see more people in order to sell more bottles. But, even though OD and his wife worked long and hard, they could not make any money.

AD now saw how true it was that the more people he told about his tomato juice, the more he sold. So he advertised in other cities, telling women how good tomato juice was for their families to drink. He also sent salesmen to call on grocers. He got so many orders that he arranged to buy tomatoes from hundreds of other farmers, built a bigger building, bought more equipment, more bottles and labels, and employed more people. AD knew that, because his name was on every bottle, he must always maintain the high quality of his product. And, because he did this, women soon insisted on AD's PURE TOMATO JUICE.

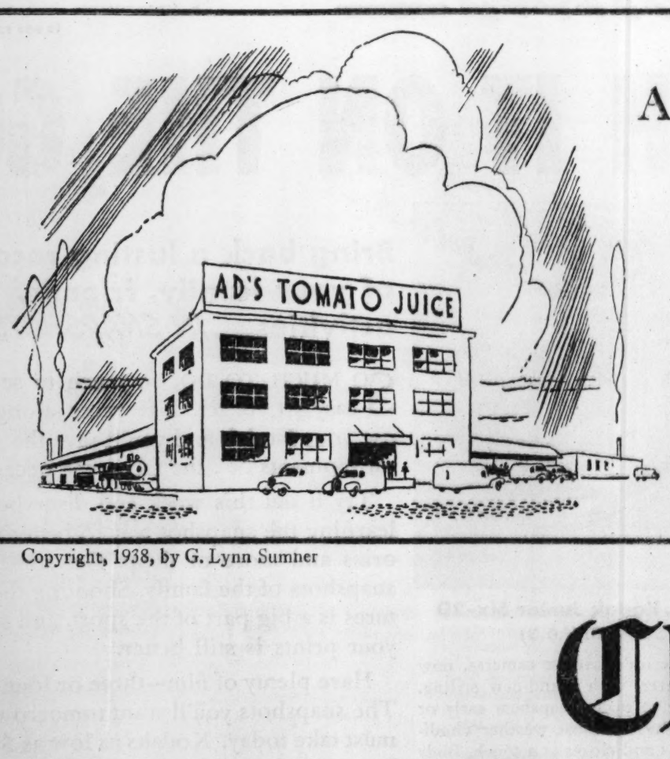
AD already had found that the more he advertised and the more bottles he sold, the less it cost him to put up each bottle. Therefore, as his advertising was extended all over the country and his sales increased, he reduced the price. Thus more and more people could afford to enjoy tomato juice, and, although his profit per bottle was now very small indeed, he sold so many bottles that he had a very fine business. So both AD and his customers were benefited.



AD tells OD how an Idea Became an Industry—through ADVERTISING

ONE DAY, years later, OD called on his old neighbor AD. He said "It's remarkable how your business has grown since you got that idea about selling tomato juice."

"Yes," said AD, "but even more important have been the benefits to other people. We are now only one out of many producers of tomato juice. Yet we take all the tomatoes grown by more than a thousand farmers who have here an assured market for their crops. We give steady employment the year round to several hundred people and employ hundreds more on part-time. We pay more than half a million dollars a year to manufacturers of cans, bottles, labels, supplies, and equipment.

"The entire industry now sells more than twenty million dollars worth of tomato juice a year and the public enjoys its healthful benefits—at the lowest price at which it ever has been sold. Yes, tomato juice was a great idea, but that idea would have benefited very few —without ADVERTISING to tell the story."

Famous Music Visitors to Be Greeted Today

BY CECIL SMITH.

Chicago's professional musicians, musical laymen and enthusiasts for music are to play host this noon to a large group of nationally celebrated visitors. The occasion is the second annual Chicagoland Music Festival luncheon, held as curtain raiser to the ninth annual Chicagoland Music Festival in Soldiers' field tomorrow night. The place is the grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel. The time is 1 o'clock; at 2 o'clock the doors will be thrown open to music students desiring to hear the after-luncheon festivities. A throng of 1,700 is expected to attend.

Olin Downes.

Jessica Dragonette, recently voted the most popular star in radio in an important nation-wide magazine poll, has graciously consented to hurry from a rehersal for her Grant park concert tonight, in order to sing a song for the special delectation of luncheon guests. This will be her first public appearance in Chicago, though she has been a favorite of radio listeners for a full decade.

From the east comes Olin Downes, chairman of the music committee for the 1939 New York World's fair. He will address his first Chicago audience since coming here three seasons ago as commentator on Northwestern university's "History and Enjoyment of Music" concert series.

Many of the honored guests will be introduced to the tune of appropriate music. Miss Dragonette's theme song will announce her.

Another visitor who will make his bow to a musical accompaniment is Geoffrey O'Hara, American composer. From the list of his popular compositions the luncheon committee has picked out "K-K-K-Katy," the stuttering song that swept the country during the world war.

Alec Templeton, well known Welsh pianist, will be heralded, aptly enough, by a potpourri of more or less improvised music, in anticipation of the witty improvisations he is to contribute to the festival program tomorrow night.

Headed by David Mayer Jr., their president, and Wendell Hall, red-headed composer of their theme song, a delegation of thirty from the State street council will enter to "The Rhythm of State Street." The hit tune "Chicago" will herald the welcoming address of Mayor Kelly.

Other features will be a festival ballet to be given by students of Mayblossom Macdonald of the Ideal studio; duets by the 1937 festival vocal winners, Louisa Hoe and Richard Schreiber; community singing led by Carl Craven.

Costume Party at Bar Harbor Is Gay Affair

BY JUDITH CASS.

A WIRE from our correspondent in Bar Harbor, Me., brings word that several young Chicagoans won honorable mention for their "get-up" in the annual costume ball of the Bar Harbor club Wednesday night. William McCormick Blair Jr., and his brother, Bowen, both of whom are college students, were a nursemaid and baby, Bill being the nurse in an all white starched uniform, Bowen went o the party in a perambulator, sucking a stick of candy.

Miss Pauline Palmer was an attractive Tyrolean peasant and her brother, Gordon, was a study of futuristic styles. The invitations had asked guests to be "anything from characters of the Arabian knights to the coming style of 1950." Young Mr. Palmer was garbed in gray flannels, an artist's silk shirt and a halo of small electric bulbs atop his head, which was controlled for an on-and-off flicker effect with a pocket battery.

The young Robert Hall McCormicks were there, dressed as a farmer and farmerette. They are visiting his mother, Mrs. Robert H. McCormick at Burnmouth, her estate at Bar Harbor. The senior Mrs. McCormick and Mrs. Potter Palmer wore conventional evening gowns. Both were on the committee that planned the party, which was for the benefit of the Mount Desert Island hospital.

Brooks McCormick, who is spending the summer with his parents, the Chauncey McCormicks, at Seal Harbor, was a green matador. Miss Mary Ryerson, who will make her debut in Chicago this fall, appeared as a little girl in a short skirt, blue suspenders and a red blouse. She and her parents, the Joseph T. Ryersons, are at Northeast Harbor for the summer.

Miss Ryerson gave a dinner party at Harleigh, the Ryerson home, before the ball. Among her guests were Miss Helen Dick and Charles Wacker, both of Lake Forest. Mrs. Oakleigh Thorne, the Potter Palmers' elder daughter, who lives in Mount Kisco, N. Y., was a judge at the ball.

Stillman-Holbrook Nuptials to Be Soon.

Miss Nancy Holbrook, who is only 17, and Guy Stillman, who is only two years older, are going to be married within 10 days instead of waiting three years as they planned to do when their engagement was announced last winter. The wedding will be a quiet one with only the immediate families at the ceremony.

Miss Holbrook is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Holbrook of Barrington and Mr. Stillman is the youngest son of Mrs. Fowler McCormick of Chicago and Barrington, and of James A. Stillman of New York. Mr. Stillman will come west for the wedding. Young Mr. Stillman and his bride will go to Niagara-on-the-Lake in Canada for their honeymoon and early next month they will be at home in Troy, N. Y. Mr. Stillman will be a sophomore at the Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute this year.

Miss Harriet Dallas Will Be Bride Today.

The wedding of Miss Harriet Louise Dallas, to Stanley J. Keyes Jr., which takes place in New York today, is of interest in Chicago. Miss Dallas is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Donald Dallas of New York, formerly of Chicago and Winetka. Mr. Keyes is the son of Mrs. Stanley J. Keyes of New York City and Rye, N. Y., and the late Dr. Keyes. The ceremony will be performed at 4:30 o'clock at St. Matthew's church in Bedford Village, N. Y. Immediately following the ceremony a reception will be given at the Bedford Golf and Tennis club.

Mr. Keyes and his bride will be at home at Blind Brook Lodge, Rye, N. Y., after Oct. 1. Miss Dallas was graduated from the Baldwin school and later attended the Finch school and the New York School of Fine and Applied Arts. Mr. Keyes was graduated from Lawrenceville and attended Yale university.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

The Mirror.

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 18.—When he was on the Broadway stage Bert Lahr was known as a "Button Yanker," stage slang for a worrier. . . . After a performance which tore off the roof Lahr would go back to his dressing room and say: "I did something wrong tonight. The laughs last night were much bigger."

Bert Lahr worries no more.

California has changed him so radically that his friends are astounded. . . . On the "Zaza" set yesterday he was telling Claudette Colbert about the ostrich who came upon five other ostriches with their heads buried in the sand. . . . He who never told a funny story offstage now has become a raconteur.

"I'll tell you what happened," Lahr explained. "When I came to Hollywood I found that compared to the real worriers of this town I was only a minor league fretter. I tried to match them and failed, because they were worrying about $2,000,000 pictures. So I decided to become a jester. I'm even thinking of changing my name to Basil—Basil Lahr. It has a happier ring to it."

Tony and Renée De Marco kissing and making up in room 505 at Cedars of Lebanon hospital. . . . He'll dance with Joan Crawford in "Shining Hour"; she is being considered by Mervyn Le Roy for the femme lead opposite Fernard Gravet. . . . Jimmy Durante and Lou Clayton. . . . Clayton had his nose bobbed and looks like a juvenile. . . . Nick the Greek telling faro-dealer stories to junior Laemmle over the luncheon plates.

Sam Katz, M-G-M. biggie, with Marty [Universal] Fox at the Beverly Brown Derby. . . . Katz looks better than he's looked in years and traces it to five mile walks he takes every morning. . . . Jackie Cooper flirting with Adrienne Ames and Inez Courtney. . . . Myron Kirk training out for the east. . . . Sari Maritza with a young foreigner. . . . Wallace Beery signing an autograph book for a white haired old lady. . . . I like Jack Durant's line about Clark Gable: "What's he got that I'd love to have?"

Oddity: The Warner prop department assembling tons of dates to be carted to Indio, Cal. . . . They will be hung on the trees for outdoor shots in "They Made Me a Criminal," as date trees are fruitless at this time of year. . . . John Payne bicycling on Sunset. . . . Maxie Rosenbloom in a green and white plaid sport coat. . . . Ouch!

The husky with Rosemary Lane is her bodyguard; she hired him while Priscilla and her mother are out of town. . . . Say, that's a nice job. . . . Basil Rathbone coaching his son Rodion in his lines for "Dawn Patrol," first picture in which they've ever appeared together. . . . "Bullets" for the air thriller are made of cork! . . . Jean Negulesco with Anatole Litvak and Miriam Hopkins. . . . Bert Frohman, a smash hit at the Troc, sitting at a rear table with Benny Fields and Blossom Seeley. . . . Marion Martin, in the same show, is big-timey.

The reason that stars are being dropped from studio pay rolls is because eastern financiers' orders are being obeyed by the major studios. . . . Heretofore, suggestions from the east have been shelved and forgotten. . . . Not now! . . . Bette Davis and Kay Francis in a huddle with Baron Renekow. . . . Margaret Lindsay with Howard Shoup. . . . Janet Gaynor and Adrian holding hands at a preview, embarrassed when the lights come up suddenly.

Phil Berle excited about the 6 pound son. . . . Spencer Tracy wrestling with Mickey Rooney: "Remember my operation, roughneck," says Spence. . . . The Archie Mayos getting ready to shove off Sunday for a three month tour of Europe. . . . Walter Huston, poring over a script while he eats scrambled eggs. . . . Fay Bainter, with a run in her stocking.

Groucho Marx going backstage to congratulate the colored performers of "Run, Little Chillun." . . . "It's one of the five greatest plays I've ever seen," Groucho tells Clarence Muse and the cast. . . . But they are more interested in getting his autograph. . . . Ginger Rogers buying slacks at a shop on Sunset.

Aside to Pan Berman, at RKO: If you're going to film the life of Vernon and Irene Castle, get Norman McLeod to direct it. . . McLeod and Castle were bunkmates in the Royal Flying Corps, and roomed together when they were assigned to flyers. . .

Castle, a great flyer, always had a terrific yen to fly his ship through a hangar; that is, dip down and fly through one door of a hangar and out the other. . . as result, the flight commander had a strict order. . . One door of each hangar on the field had to be kept locked at all times, so Castle wouldn't yield to his urge.

He was killed accidentally. . . He was coming in to make a landing, when another plane overshot the landing field and started to climb. . . . They met head-on. . . . Castle was killed. . . . The other pilot, a youngster, became so overwrought that he screamed whenever he'd hear the roar of an airplane motor. . . So he was transferred to the infantry.

Robert Young and Allan Jones hosting the opening of their Bel-Air stables on Stone canyon. . . They have thirty horses, but after sampling the hot dogs, I have a terrible suspicion that they only have twenty-nine horses left this morning. . . Well, Young and Jones gave us fair warning. . . The invitation read: "It is our honest opinion that you should eat dinner at your own home" . . . How did I know they weren't clowning?

Miss Margot Reid's engagement to Alanson Donald was announced at a tea yesterday by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bryan S. Reid. Miss Reid went to the Girls' Latin school in Chicago and then to Miss Nixon's in Florence. She made her debut at a dinner-dance at the Casino in December, 1936. Shops Feature Fur Accents in August Shows

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The fur hunters are out bagging their next winter fur outfit. They also have the tempting chance to snag a snappy fur hat to match. August not only is the month for ordering and buying furs at special prices but the milliners get in some featherweight confections to match the fur coats.

Mink makes some of the best headlines. Some such are mere bands of the luscious, spicy brown fur anchored to a chenille snood. Other concoctions come in a pointed tricorne effect in front and a bit of brown ribbon, silk, or velvet at the back.

Persian lamb is swanky in arrogantly high cossack turbans, in sleek little pill boxes, and in some exceptionally effective turbans. Veils, glittering pins, and bows of the fur trim some other less trying models for the more conservative shopper.

One silver fox beauty is made with two intertwining tails, achieving a slick Daniel Boone swagger. The tails are massed toward the front. They are sewed to a black felt band and there's a couple of yards of fine black veiling fluttering down the back. Cross fox, blue fox, and red fox can be used in the same manner, to wear with gloves with matching fur cuffs. August is time to buy fur accents for suits, such accents include the ascots, the plastrons to use for the front facings of either coat or suit jacket, the wide dramatic cuffs, the smart big fur buttons and the deep cuffs for slipon gloves. Beaver, kidskin, caracul, krimmer and all kinds of flat fur are just as high fashion as the fluffy furs. There are plenty of pelts from which to choose during the special August sales.

Fashion photograph . . . three piece ensemble in diagonal tweed. The simple swagger coat of the tweed is banded in dark contrast color to accent the snappy two piece suit. The suit jacket nips in at the waistline, has a wide buttoned belt and a gently curved neckline. Each piece of the outfit can be worn with other suits and coats, such suits are on display in the college collections.

For College or Business

A three piece tweed costume for street and daytime wear featured in the college wardrobes, but also a good find for the business girl. The slim well tailored suit has a straight skirt of diagonal two toned tweed, nipped in waistline jacket with a wide belt, a curved neckline and flat bone buttons. The topcoat has bands of contrast color and satin lining.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

Are you, like us, getting just a little tired of the sweet, romantic school of perfumes and colognes? They're getting us down a bit; we're just in the mood for something different and something sophisticated. One more cloying cologne would have finished us.

So we went over our stock the other day and picked up a bottle we'd been meaning to get at for a long time. Nothing sweet and sticky about this. And we loved it. You will too, we're sure, especially if your tastes run to fragrances that have a dusky depth and a sophisticated tang.

It's the perfect cologne for that mood that strikes us all as summer ends and we begin thinking about knock-out clothes again.

First there was a perfume, with Russian in its name. It's one of those perfumes known and worn by a rather small group of sophisticated women. It's tremendously popular in Europe. Then the French makers incorporated this scent in a cologne. It's one of the most wonderful fragrances to be blended with cologne.

It's not sweet, you see—and it is sweetness on top of the scent of citrus that gives so many colognes that sugary fragrance we're getting weary of. Women—and men too—are taking to this cologne with the greatest enthusiasm, and we can see why.

This scent in cologne has a rounded, warm spiciness that sets it apart. You know the lovely smell of lovely lether; there is just a breath of it here and it makes a fragrance perfect for late summer and fall and winter.

Strangely enough, we had always thought of this as a scent to be worn with sports clothes. We're proved wrong. Its sophistication gives it a note of—we hate to use the word "glamor" but we must—that makes it enchanting for your best dressed moments. You try it and see.

Warren Williams' Hand Is Lacerated by Shark

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 18.—(AP)—Warren Williams, screen actor, was under treatment at his Encino home tonight for a lacerated hand. A shark nipped him as he attempted to remove the hook. Dr. Stanley Gordon took seven stitches in the index finger and treated other gashes. Dr. Gordon said the only danger is from infection.

'Second Hand' Beau Should Assert Himself

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

"Tormented Herb" says that his girls are all secondhand. He always has plenty of competition, he says, in spite of the fact that he is good looking and popular. People tell him that he is lots of fun. So, Herb's quandary is why, with all his assets, he can't get a girl firsthand.

We think you could change your status, Herb, if you really want to. But, first, we'd suggest that you go in for a little self-analysis, and straight comparing of yourself with the boys who, you believe, rate higher with the girls.

Are they so much better looking? You appear to have a good opinion of yourself in this regard, which is all right if it is true. We think it better for any individual to be armed with a fair modicum of conceit than to be bowed down with an inferiority complex.

But, if you average up on looks with the best of them, then you'd better, next, look into your manner with girls.

You're sure, behind that front of yours, you aren't a person willing to concede that other fellows have much more to offer girls? Else, why assume that you are merely being used for a purpose?

You must be fair enough competition in the eyes of the girls who use you. Can't you extract courage from that?

When one of the girls has taken you on for the jealousy-stirring rôle, why don't you play the more manly rôle of potential captor? Charge down on the fair one with all your romantic artillery.

GASOLINE ALLEY—UN-PEP TALK

I DON'T OBJECT TO YOU KIDS TAKING THIS TRIP BUT I WANT YOU TO OBSERVE THE RULES OF THE ROAD. YOU KNOW WHAT THEY ARE. DISOBEYING THEM IS WHERE THE TROUBLE STARTS.
WE'RE GOING TO LIVE UP TO 'EM, UNCLE WALT.
I REMEMBER A ROAD SIGN OUT IN THE BLACK HILLS YEARS AGO— "DRIVE CAREFULLY. YOU MAY MEET A FOOL!"
THAT TAKES CARE OF ABOUT EVERYTHING.
AND DON'T BE TOO PROUD TO LET SOMEBODY PASS YOU OR BEAT YOU TO A CORNER.
ALL RIGHT. WE CAN QUALIFY, UNCLE WALT.
WE'VE PLANNED IT THAT WAY.

Tenderfoot's Inheritance

By Marie De Nervaud

SYNOPSIS.

Anne Claxon arrives from New York at the Wyoming ranch she has inherited, after refusing the last minute proposal of her city beau, Gerald. She meets Steve Hayward a neighbor ranch owner, who tells her that Jake Collins, who owns the adjoining ranch, expects to buy her heavily mortgaged ranch, but her uncle never would sell to him. Anne determines to stay and fight. She is immediately attracted to Steve, but Gwen Collins, Jake's daughter, shows a proprietary attitude toward him. She wins over old Tim Salter, her uncle's foreman, and Whitey, a handsome ranch hand. She finds the house in disorder and a gun missing from the rack. Tim thinks Collins has been there and threatened her uncle with the gun, and that her uncle died from a heart attack. Whitey gives Anne a riding lesson. She tries riding alone and is thrown just as Jake Collins, Gwen, and Lawyer Bill Jennings arrive. Collins turns ugly when she refuses to sell. When Steve calls and advises her to sell she is cool to him. Steve is offended and jealous of Whitey.

INSTALMENT XI.

PAYING GUESTS WANTED.

"How nice everything looks!" Anne sensed at once the special effort that had been made in her honor. She flashed Tim and Whitey a smile of appreciation. Her heart warmed to their clumsy attempts. Suddenly the world seemed less bleak.

Even if she had lost Steve she had gained the loyalty of these two. Instinctively she knew that once having accepted her they'd stand by her through thick and thin.

"I never tasted anything so good!" Anne held out her plate for a second helping.

Realizing that conversation was the least important part of a ranch meal, Anne waited until the inner man was satisfied before bringing out the ideas that had been seething in her head all the afternoon.

"One good thing about scrubbing is that you can think at the same time," she announced, drawing over gratefully to the warmth of the stove while Whitey cleared the dishes away. "How much chance is there, Tim, of getting some of our cattle into shape to sell before the interest on the mortgage comes due?"

"Not any chance, the way things are now," Tim answered with discouraging finality. "Whitey and I have been bringin' a few of the cows who are going to have calves down to the ranch pastures, but we're too short handed to take time goin' up into the mountains for 'em. There's no money to buy extra feed when we do get 'em here. It looks like it's goin' to be a dry spring, and that means a heap of extra feeding. No use bringin' 'em in if we haven't any feed for 'em. They'll have to drop their calves on the range, and if any of 'em come through that's lucky."

Anne's chin was cupped in her hand, her eyes fixed on Tim with the intent expression of a person listening to a foreign language.

"You mean the calves will just die out there?" she asked in horrified tones.

"How much money would it take to pick things up?"

"Twelve or fifteen hundred, perhaps. But I couldn't guarantee it. We'd need a cook and two extra hands, anyway. Money for feed and a lot of repairs to fence and general equipment. Yuh got any notion where yuh could lay yore hands on some cash?"

Anna hesitated before answering. "If selling some land is out of the question—and you seem to think it is, in view of Jack Collins' threat—there's just one other way I can think of. Before my boss retired I remember he used to say he'd like to take his wife and four children for a whole summer on a real ranch. He was all off the idea of dude ranches, he wanted the real thing or nothing. My idea was to make him a proposition to come out here. The usual price for a dude ranch is $50 a week, including the use of a horse. For a family of six for eight weeks that would be $2,400.

"Fifty dollars a week!" Tim exclaimed. "Yuh mean $50 a month!"

"I do not," Anne laughed. 'Believe it or not, that's what they pay. My plan was to offer to take them for $1,700, if they advance the money now. Of course I'll have to sell them the idea, but Mr. Trainor loves the thought of a bargain. It might just strike him the right way. There's good fishing back in the mountains, isn't there?"

"I'll say there is." Tim's expression was a comical mixture of hope and dismay, "but dudes take a heap of ridin' herd on, and they're plumb contagious. Once get 'em started and they spread like locusts. I've seen many a fine ranch spoiled by goin' dude."

"But that's just what we wouldn't do, Tim," Anne explained eagerly. "I'd have to promise there wouldn't be anybody but themselves to get them to come. There are two boys, 14 and 16. They could help you working cattle sometimes and get an idea of an honest to goodness ranch. They'd be here, probably, for July and August—that gives us three months to get the place in shape. You'd like Mr. Trainor, Tim. You and he'd get on like a streak."

"Yeah?" Tim sounded anything but convinced.

"You know, you're something alike," Anne mused. "You both know what you want and go straight to the point. Mr. Trainor always said he would retire when he was 55, and he did. He was the president of a manufacturing concern, and made a lot. He had the luck or foresight to get out in time to keep it.

"His wife is fifteen years younger than he is, and he's devoted to her. She's not very strong, but if I can make him think this air would be good for her there's a good chance he'll come.

"I must start a garden right away, and get some chickens. Milk and butter won't be any problem, and goodness knows we must have plenty of beef!"

"What train yuh meetin' them on?" Tim inquired mildly.

Anne laughed, but refused to have her enthusiasm dampened.

"You're right, I'm counting my chickens before they're hatched, Tim! But the Trainors just have to come! I'm going back to write the letter this minute!" She sprang impulsively to her feet and reached for her hat, suppressing an involuntary groan as her stiff muscles protested this sudden action.

"I know it's funny to be a tenderfoot!" Anne answered the amused look that passed between Tim and Whitey, "but I won't be one for long. I'm going to learn to ride if it breaks every bone in my body."

"You'll learn all right," Whitey predicted.

"Thanks ever so much for the dinner"—she paused before stepping out into the starlit night—"after tomorrow I'll set up my own housekeeping. Then you'll both have to come and have dinner with me."

Anne paused a moment at the ranchhouse door. A rush of dread at the memory of her first sight of its rough hewn living room sent an involuntary shiver over her.

Bracing her shoulders, she pushed the door open and felt her way to the table. She lit the brass lamp she had carefully filled and polished that afternoon.

A soft yellow light flooded the room. Its warm glow dispelled the nameless terror that had gripped her. The big stone fireplace, the heavy shadowed beams, and the rough, home made furniture suddenly seemed to her the most satisfying things she had ever known in her whole life. In one grateful flash she recognized it as home.

For days this feeling of possession—of belonging—persisted, growing stronger and stronger as time went on.

The morning after Anne's momentous decision to carry on she had routed Whitey out at dawn. Together they had driven in to Red Butte in the dilapidated buckboard that had served her uncle.

Anne had had a short and decisive interview with Bill Jennings, in which she definitly refused to sell the X Bar Nine to Jake Collins.

To her suggestion that he try to sell part of her land to Collins or any one else who might be interested Jennings gave a derisive laugh.

"I ain't dealing in high explosives, thanks," he commented. "You heard what Jake Collins said on that subject?" he went on to remind her, "well, believe me, no one in this country is goin' to run foul of him for a few acres of land."

Anne took the papers he handed her without further comment. She looked them over, thanked him for having attended to the legal formalities of delivering her inheritance to her, and left with the fervent inner hope that she might never see him again.

Crocheted Edging for Bed Linen Is Simple to Make

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

The days of snowy white bed linen have not passed, but delicate pastels have been added to the linen cabinets, and upon all the sheets and pillow slips are delicate laces and insertions. These edgings usually are crocheted in a variety of designs. Illustrated today is a popular edging which is simple and easy to do, and all the material required for a set of sheets and pillow slips for a full sized bed is six balls of mercerized crochet cotton No. 30. These threads, although as fine as silk, have great strength and durability, and the crocheted laces made for these bed sets far outlast the fine linen on which they are used.

For instructions for crocheting the edgings for the bed linen, No. X40, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

Chic Blouse and Jacket

WOMAN'S AND MISS' BLOUSE.

A versatile pattern is our offering today. It fashions a feminine, tailored blouse and an unusual little jacket to go with your simple frocks.

The blouse has a shirtwaist collar, a row of buttons, puffed sleeves, long or short, two pockets, one with a monogram, and a nipped-in waistline. It makes up beautifully in silks, cottons and sheer woolens. The monogram pattern is No. E-11179, and is available for ten cents extra. You will like this blouse to wear to the office all autumn and winter, and it goes beautifully with suits, too.

The jacket is a crisp model with stand-up military collarline. The garment reaches just to the waistline and flies open revealing your frock beneath. Its squared shoulderline is attractive and flattering. Pockets may, if you wish, adorn the garment, and we recommend stitching as the only finish required. If you have a gray, beige or pastel crêpe or sheer woolen frock, make this jacket in a harmonizing dark shade. It will convert your simple little dress into a nice ensemble.

Style No. 2118 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18 and 20 years, and 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 2 yards of 39 inch material for either blouse or jacket.

Eyeglasses Are No Detriment to Loveliness

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

A correspondent writes of her self-consciousness over the glasses she is now ordered to wear. She wants to know if there is any way of wearing the hair, or any particular use of makeup, that would make her "specs" appear less conspicuous. She hates them, she concludes, but she has to wear them.

We suppose there is little use in trying to convince women that glasses are not a beauty liability. But when so many, many women have to wear them, it seems about time to adopt a different attitude.

Do you honestly believe, correspondent, that your friend Mrs. Jones or Brown or Smith has so utterly ruined her appearance with her specs? You probably never thought of her specs at all. She was still the Mrs. Jones with the charming manner and the well groomed person. You probably never heard any one else say either that Mrs. Jones' looks are ruined with the specs.

One can adopt a few little tricks, as other smart women have done, such as arranging hair and choosing hats to effect a softness. A brimless hat, or one that turns up abruptly, projects the glasses, while a soft brim would make them inconspicuous.

Hair pulled back tightly off the forehead and over ears would do the same emphasizing of the eyeglasses. One mistake noted sometimes is the wearing of earrings and much fussy jewelry around the neck which gives a too "busy" impression of the woman at first glance.

Women who wear glasses should try makeup on the eyelids and lashes so that the eyes aren't lost behind the lenses.

Rappard Declares Complex Government Threatens Democracy

Complicated and wide-spread social legislation, control of industrial, commercial and banking enterprises and the growth of public indebtedness are everywhere challenging democratic rule.

This declaration was made yesterday by Dr. William E. Rappard, director of the Graduate Institute of International Studies in Geneva, Switzerland. He spoke on "The Future of Democracy" before the fourteenth institute of the Norman Wait Harris foundation at the University of Chicago.

Although calling democracy a "child of peace," Dr. Rappard expressed the belief that in any war with non-democratic nations democracy would surely win.

"Not only are the natural resources of the self-governing states far greater, but the courage and endurance of their peoples, struggling for their liberty, could hardly in the long run fail to prove superior to those of their opponents, led to slaughter by their dictatorial masters."

Sally Says Good-By to Young Friends at Theater Party

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Tribune Charities, Inc.]

We had our farewell party yesterday afternoon. Perhaps because it was the last, it seemed to be one of the best.

Fifty boys and fifty girls were entertained at the Palace theater. They had a wonderful time watching the antics of Charlie McCarthy and his new rival, Mortimer, in "Letter of Introduction."

The stage show was loads of fun, and just the kind that children enjoy. Mrs. Snyder gave candy to all the youngsters. Finally it was time to say good-by, and we all parted reluctantly with many good wishes and promises to meet again next year.

'By, boys and girls!

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: In a recent rubber game of bridge the following hand was dealt:

"West, dealer.

"East-West vulnerable.

	NORTH ♠ 7 ♥ K 9 5 4 ♦ A K Q 8 5 3 ♣ Q 8
WEST ♠ K Q 10 8 6 4 3 2 ♥ 6 ♦ None ♣ 10 7 5 2		EAST ♠ None ♥ J 8 ♦ J 10 7 6 4 2 ♣ J 9 6 4 3
	SOUTH ♠ A J 9 5 ♥ A Q 10 7 3 2 ♦ 9 ♣ A K

"The bidding:

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 heart
1 spade	3 diamonds	Pass	3 hearts
Pass	5 hearts	Pass	6 hearts
Pass	Pass	Pass

"I sat East. My partner led the king of spades. As soon as the dummy went down, declarer remarked: 'We should have bid seven.' Whereupon I trumped the king of spades and led a small diamond, which my partner trumped, thus setting the hand one trick.

"I should like to ask if you think I was justified in taking advantage of declarer's remark. Was it ethical of me to do so? Yours truly,

"Mrs. C. H. H."

Before answering this specific question, let me generalize a bit on the subject of "taking advantage of remarks." Ethically speaking, it makes a vast difference whether information is elicited from one's own partner or from an opponent. After all, this is a simple question of logic. If one's partner conveys information in unauthorized fashion, it is manifestly unfair and unsportsmanlike to attempt to benefit by it. We are bound by the acts of our own partner, whether in bridge or in life.

However, if an opponent, an enemy, so to speak, gratuitously gives us information, we would be a plain darned fool if we didn't use it! Of course, I am not referring to such accidental things as a card dropping on the floor. But, if the opponent suffers from a looseness of the tongue, surely it is not our province to cure him, or to stuff cotton in our ears. This may be taken as an answer to my correspondent's question.

Thus, it was completely sportsmanlike for her to take advantage of the remark made by the declarer, and to ruff the opening lead. Of course, on this particular hand, if the declarer had been as mum as an oyster, East should have made the same play. With only a singleton spade in dummy, it could do no harm for East to ruff and it might do untold good. Declarer was marked with a solid heart suit, and surely held at least the club ace. East could count twelve diamonds in his own hand and dummy, and this left an excellent chance that West would be void of the suit. In any event, it could do no harm to ruff the opening lead and return a diamond.

Actually, it was too bad that any remark was made, because it would have been more satisfying to East to put up the proper defense without help or guidance.

Tomorrow's Hand

Be Tactful to Children as Well as Adults

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

We use a lot of judgment, of self-control, of watching a mood or a response in our day by day relations with the grownup members of our family and with our grownup friends and relatives. In a word, we use a great deal of tact in order to get along pleasantly and smoothly with adults. But many of us omit that valuable trick in dealing with our children. There's where we make a mistake.

Tact is the quality which helps a mother to know when to avoid making an issue of things, when to change the subject, when to divert a child's attention instead of giving direct commands. It is an important quality for any one to possess who deals intimately with children.

What are some of the other tricks a mother needs?

She must be able to judge when is the time to talk and when to be silent.

She must know how to gain a child's confidence and keep it.

She must master the trick of correcting without crossness.

She must be able to make a promise and keep it.

She must learn the trick of putting on a mask, of not showing emotion when it would be bad for her child if she did, such as letting him know she is shocked or disapproving when he is telling her things she needs to know, or letting him see her worry when he is ill.

O, there should be more tricks in a mother's bag than in that of any conjurer.

"Is Tact in Your Bag of Tricks?" is the name of a booklet sent on request. Address Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill., enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Yesterday, she was advised her 600 word essay had won her the first prize of $100 in the state elementary school essay contest sponsored by the constitution sesquicentennial commission. Her theme? That the Constitution of the United States holds all persons equal.

HUBBELL INJURED; FEAR LOSS FOR SEASON

FILCHOCK MAY REJOIN ALL-STARS NEXT WEEK

INDIANA BACK'S RIB NOT BROKEN, COACHES TOLD

Squad to Play Game Tomorrow.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Under the broiling sun yesterday afternoon the All-Americans completed another two a day program of work to condition themselves for the battle with Washington's Redskins in Soldiers' field on Aug. 31. The enthusiasm of the first few workouts still holds the squad, however, which now is pointing toward the immediate objective of scrimmage under game conditions tomorrow afternoon.

"We hope the boys will show considerable improvement Saturday," Bo McMillin said yesterday in discussing the observations of the coaching staf on Wednesday's initial game. "They have a long way to go. Our blocking is ragged and defensively Washington will give us a lot of trouble, not only with passing but also in plays our tackles and ends must stop."

Yesterday morning the players showed the effects of their scrimmage the evening before. They were slow afoot and several complained of bruises and sore muscles. All of which was expected.

Gmitro's Leg Bruised.

Rudy Gmitro, who scored two touchdowns in the Wednesday scrimmage, is taking heat treatments for his bruised left leg. He will not be able to work for several days. Neither will Corby Davis, Indiana full back, who is nursing a pulled muscle.

Marty Schreyer, Purdue tackle, may need a week before he can play again. He hurt his left knee in scrimmage. Andy Puplis, Notre Dame quarter back; Inmon Blackaby of Butler, and Maurice Carroll of Catholic university also have minor injuries. Puplis was the only one of the trio able to work yesterday.

The coaches had better news, however, when Carl Erickson, the All-Stars' trainer, reported that Frank Filchock might be able to return to practice late next week. Examination of Filchock's side, injured in blocking practice Monday, revealed that the muscle and cartilage were torn, but no bones were broken.

First Two Elevens Changed.

As result of the first scrimmage, the All-Star coaches made several revisions in the personnel of the first two elevens. Changes undoubtedly will result after the game tomorrow, which will be played on the Dyche stadium gridiron.

The first and second elevens that finished blocking practice yesterday were:

ENDS — Pete Smith, Oklahoma; Perry Schwartz, California; Jim Benton, Arkansas; Jim Zachary, Purdue.
CENTERS—Ralph Wolf, Ohio State; Pat McCarty, Notre Dame.
QUARTER BACKS—Andy Puplis, Notre Dame; Jim McDonald, Ohio State.
HALF BACKS—Cecil Isbell, Purdue; Andy Uram, Minnesota; Pinky Rohm, Louisiana State; Jack Robbins, Arkansas.
FULL BACKS—Frank Patrick, Pittsburgh; Vic Spadaccini, Minnesota.

From now on the coaches indicated there will be few changes in the assignments. Players will continue to drill at one position. Pursuing this policy, it is definite now that Isbell will be at the No. 1, or left half back position, when he is in the game and that Andy Uram will be at the right half back.

Popovich at Full Back.

After experimenting with Milton Popovich of Montana, at both half back positions, the coaches have assigned him to the full back or No. 2 back job. He now is in competition with Patrick, Davis, and Gary Famiglietti, the Boston university full back.

The list of field generals now includes six men. This group is composed of Puplis, McDonald, Don Heap,

It's Cooler, and Redskins Really Make Weather Count

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Ballston, Va., Aug. 18.—Moderate temperatures, following yesterday's severe storm, spurred the world champion Washington Redskins through two more intensive drills today for their engagement with the flower of collegiate football in THE TRIBUNE'S annual All-Star game Aug. 31.

Long sessions of passing, ball handling, and signals occupied the squad of forty in the morning. In the afternoon two against one scrimmage for linemen and blocking and tackling for the backs and ends preceded a protracted workout for the punters, Riley Smith, Sammy Baugh, and George Karamatic. Karamatic, a short, thick limbed half back from Gonzaga, again surpassed the veterans, Smith and Baugh.

Coach Has Stiff Neck.

A checkup today disclosed that Assistant Coach Roy Baker was the only casualty in yesterday's scrimmage and electrical storm. Baker was suffering from a stiff neck, traced to a strain suffered when he was knocked down by the lightning bolt which struck near the clubhouse and shocked the entire squad. The charge, coming down a shower pipe, hit Baker on the head and sent him sprawling.

A number of players emerged from the abbreviated scrimmage vastly enriched in prestige. Chief among these is Wee Willie Wilkin. His performance indicated that Coach Ray Flaherty can stop where he started in his quest for reserve strength at tackle. Flaherty, a confirmed conservative, was quite extravagant in his praise of Wilkin.

"He is green yet," Flaherty said, "but in another season or two he will be the outstanding tackle in football. We will attempt to polish him up by using him frequently as relief for Turk Edwards at left tackle."

He's Talk of the Camp.

Wilkin was the talk of the camp today. Players were as pleased as Flaherty. Wee Willie is extremely popular with veteran and rookie alike. He gives promise of becoming as noted a sports character as Dizzy Dean and Chuck Wiggins. Six feet 4 inches tall and 245 pounds, he ambles about the hotel with all the enthusiasm of a playful mastif puppy. His idea of dressing up is buttoning his shirt.

Wilkin, who left St. Mary's last winter to join the Redskins on their California and Florida barnstorming trip, possesses resourcefulness and extraordinary strength. He found prices high in Miami during the winter season and shortly after the squad's arrival there, Wee Willie was down to a dime or thereabouts. Undaunted, he scoured the alleys for a paving brick. Wrapping it carefully, he dispatched it C. O. D., via Western Union messenger, to Owner George Marshall's hotel, and waited outside the door while the boy collected $17.76 from the clerk. The mystery of the brick only recently was cleared up. Marshall will deduct $17.76 from Wee Willie's first check.

Holds Strong Man Title.

Two feats of prodigious strength during emergencies the first week he joined the squad established Wee Willie's claim to the team's strong man championship. One involved a little rapid calculating in a Miami cocktail lounge by a bartender who overestimated Wee Willie's gullibility. Unable to arrive at a peaceable settlement, in which he even went so far as to suggest a compromise, Wee Willie grasped the bar and threw it out into the middle of the lounge.

On the return trip from Florida Owner Marshall insisted on having the window of his drawing room opened. Such stalwarts among the linemen as the 260 pound Edwards, 245 pound Swede Olsson, and 240 pound Bill Young, tried.

"Open that window, freshman!" Edwards, who had given up in despair, shouted to Wee Willie. Wee Willie ambled over, took a firm grip, and pulled the window, sash and all, out of the side of the car.

Redskins Have Six Tackles.

Wilkin's showing gives the Redskins six capable men for the tackle positions, fortifying them amply for the rigorous season ahead. A seventh man, Vic Carroll, also is a seasoned tackle, but will confine his play to center and guard, positions at which he also is adept. Jim Barber of San Francisco university, a member of the All-Star team in 1936, and Edwards will have the starting assignments again. Wilkin will relieve Edwards and Chuck Bond of Washington will share Barber's right tackle duties. Bill Young, a former Alabama star, who played his first year of professional football last season, and Henry Bartos, a 215 pound rookie from North Carolina, will round out the sextet in the All-Star game.

TIGERS WALK TO 5 TO 1 TRIUMPH OVER WHITE SOX

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 18.—The first division ideas of the White Sox were jolted again today. Their hitting efforts were futile, their fielding broke down in a couple of spots, and portly John Henderson Whitehead had pitching troubles. The upshot of all this was a 5 to 1 victory for the new broom Tigers, also second division occupants.

While engaged in the futile effort to dodge their fourth successive defeat, the tourists from Chicago were able to produce only eight hits off the pitching of George Gill.

They Score at Last.

Gill tossed in two passes, but even with these added ingredients the Sox couldn't get a runner to the plate until the last inning. Prior to this noteworthy achievement they had sent only one man as far as third base.

If the hit yield meant anything, Whitehead could credit himself with a victory. He yielded only six, but these were well seasoned with eleven passes, and some of these gratuities caused trouble because of the Tigers' ability to explode a hit at the proper moment. Whitehead was additionally embarrassed by an error on the part of Marvin Owen, this fielding blunder opening a deluge of four unearned runs in the fourth inning.

Five of the Whitehead gifts went to Billy Rogell, who scored twice.

Because Whitehead was slightly wild in the first inning the Tigers got a run on one hit. Morgan opened with an easy out to Kuhel, whereupon Whitehead suffered an attack of confusion, during which Rogell and Gehringer walked. Greenberg rammed a single through short and Rogell registered.

Wide Throw Starts Trouble.

Whitehead's four run troubles in the fourth started when Owen threw wide on Ross' grounder, which should have been the second out. Gill bunted and Owen offended again. He thought he could force Ross at second but the throw was late. Morgan forced Gill and this was followed by a base loading pass to Rogell. Gehringer dumped a phoney two bagger in short right, Ross and Morgan scor-

CUBS SUCCUMB TO DERRINGER INFLUENCE, 9-1

Hartnett's Record .500 After Red Victory.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Cubs yesterday succumbed to the Cincinnati Reds, 9 to 1. They burrowed deeper into fourth place under a prod of an eighteen hit Red attack, but found comfort in the fact they still were six games out of the second division.

Paul Derringer pitched all the way for his sixteenth victory of the season. To keep himself from getting bored with his soft touch, Paul did some batting. He scored the run which broke a 1 all tie in the fifth after singling, and in the next inning knocked one of the longest homers which have whizzed out of Wrigley field this year. The homer was made with one gent on base and accelerated a rally which caused Charley Root to bow out of the panorama.

McCormick Enjoys Self.

Frank McCormick, the Reds' highly skilled freshman first baseman, made four hits to lift his league leading total for the season to 157. No member of the Reds has made 200 hits in a season since Jake Daubert got 205 in 1922. Frank has 46 games in which to distinguish himself as the manufacturer of 200 hits in his rookie year.

Schnoz Lombardi continued on his way to the National league batting championship by rapping three singles.

The sad outcome was another severe blow to Manager Gabby Hartnett. With yesterday's defeat Gabby's new broom dreams were leveled to a .500 status. The fighting but inadequate Cubs have won 14 and lost 14 under Hartnett's management. Also, the Cubs have lost five out of their last six games.

Reds Get Unearned Run.

The afternoon's scoring got under way in the second inning when the Reds negotiated an unearned run. McCormick opened with a single to deep short and went on to second when Jurges threw into the Cincinnati dugout. McCormick reached third while Herman was tossing out Lombardi and trotted home on Craft's double to left. Riggs lined to Jurges and Myers struck out.

Ol' Man Root made a great uphill run on a double by Bill Herman to tie the score in the third. Jurges led off with a single through McCormick, but was forced at second on

PITCHING ARM FAILS; GIANTS' HOPES SHAKEN

May Operate on Star at Once.

New York, Aug. 18.—[Special.]—The Giants' pennant chances for 1938, already considered in serious jeopardy, suffered another crushing blow tonight when it was learned that Carl Hubbell, 35 year old star lefthander, was suffering from an arm ailment which may put him out of action for the balance of the season.

Carl Hubbell.

Hubbell, routed in five innings by the Dodgers, who beat the Giants, 5 to 3, in the Polo grounds today, made known his complaint to Manager Bill Terry in the clubhouse after the game. Terry announced he would take immediate steps to determine the extent of Hubbell's injury, which has settled in his left elbow.

Terry said he would notify Dr. J. Spencer Speed, noted Memphis surgeon, to go to Chicago, where the Giants will open their final western trip next Tuesday. Dr. Speed, who in the past has performed numerous operations on ball players, notably Terry himself and Travis Jackson, will examine Hubbell's elbow, and whatever recommendations he makes will be followed.

Immediate Operation.

"If the trouble is a bone growth or something like that which an operation can correct," Terry said, "I'll let Hubbell be operated on at once, because at his age it would be silly to delay.

"If it is something a brief rest can't cure, he would be of no use to us anyway for the rest of the season; and, if it is something an operation can remedy, the sooner it is done the better his chances would be for a successful comeback next year."

Never of a complaining sort and up to now remarkably free from the ordinary run of pitchers' arm complaints, Hubbell, the Giants' famous "meal ticket" for the last ten years, admitted to Terry that his elbow had been troubling for some time. But, because it had always "worked itself loose after a while," he did not consider it serious.

Pains Intensify.

Recently, however, the pains became more severe, occurring with greater frequency, and in today's game, he told Terry, the elbow felt "as though knives were cutting through it" every time he tried to put anything on the ball.

The loss of Hubbell for the balance of the season, it is generally felt, virtually would wreck whatever chances still remain for the Giants to win their third straight pennant. They now are five games behind the league leading Pirates. Hubbell has been the Giants' star pitcher ever since his arrival on the club in 1928, when he was purchased from Beaumont after the Detroit Tigers had given up on him and after five years of seasoning with various minor league clubs.

Scores 200th Victory.

During the course of the current season he scored his 200th victory for the Giants, and though at present his record is not as impressive as in former years he still was conceded an excellent chance of reaching the twenty victory mark for the sixth successive season. To date Hubbell has won thirteen games and lost ten.

Tuck Stainback, a former Cub, was the immediate cause of Hubbell's collapse today. With the bases full in the fifth inning Stainback smashed out a triple that scored three runs and made a Dodger victory almost certain. The box score of today's game:

Operation Removes Tumor from Vander Meer's Ear

ARMSTRONG OUT SEVERAL MONTHS WITH CUT ON LIP

But Another Bout Against Ambers Is Assured.

New York, Aug. 18.—(AP)—A repetition of the fifteen round thriller Henry Armstrong and Lou Ambers unreeled in Madison Square Garden last night was promised New Yorkers today, but they're going to have to wait some time to see it. Both Al Weill, manager of the defeated Ambers, and Eddie Mead, who pilots Armstrong, first man in ring history to wear three crowns at one time, agreed to do an encore for Mike Jacobs as soon as Armstrong recovers from the cutting up Ambers gave him.

Dr. Alexander Schiff, who took more than ten stitches in Armstrong's lip, told Mead it will require two and maybe three months for the lip to mend properly. Armstrong will need an additional month to get into condition.

Pack for Trip West.

The holder of the featherweight, welterweight, and lightweight titles spent today crating up his collection for shipment to California. Armstrong and Mead go west tomorrow. Later Armstrong will take a trip to Honolulu with his wife.

Mead made it plain Armstrong has no intention of surrendering the featherweight title he won from Petey Sarron last October.

Ambers Takes It Easy.

Ambers, who came out of the hectic battle in much better physical trim than his conqueror, took it easy around town today. He leaves tomorrow on a fishing trip and then he will go to Quebec for a visit.

"The first thing Lou said to me when he woke up this morning was to make another Armstrong match for him," said Weill. "Mead is willing and we'll fight as soon as his boy is in shape. Ambers will be ready after a month's rest."

Ambers collected $33,860.22 for his beating. Armstrong's end was $20,766.13. Revised figures show the gross gate was $107,280.94 and the total attendance 19,216.

Bass Produce a Lively Show in Lake Corral

BY BOB BECKER.

When you can find both small and large mouthed black bass in an opening in a weed bed you're going to have a lot of fun for an hour or two. We located one of these open "corrals" in Ike Walton lake on the Flambeau Indian reservation a few days ago. The bass put on quite a party.

This lake is a pretty good sized body of water. The lower part of it has a broad, sandy flat leading up to a sand bar where at times one can pick up some good sized bass. When Joe Vetternack, our guide on many fishing trips in the last twelve years, took us over this flat and close to the drop off at the sand bar we were disappointed in not getting a strike. So we headed for the weed beds. Joe scouted around until he found what he was looking for . . . a small opening with no bottom weeds coming to the top.

It was around 10:30, time for a minor feeding period. A bright sun was in the sky and it was hot. We first put out our "scouting" outfit. This consists of a hollow tubular steel fly rod, a hook to which a gut leader is attached, a minnow for bait, and a small float to keep the minnow about four feet from the surface.

This is a noisy and most amusing outfit. If a bass will hit the lure you can be sure that the fish will run.

Then we turned to our five foot bait casting rod in order to cast into that opening among the weeds. The bass were right on the bottom among the weeds and they would take nothing but a minnow. We soon learned that both large and small mouths were in this weed "corral." They hit pretty well until about 12:20 p. m. Then they quit just as though a whistle had blown and told them all to stop. But before it quit our fishing party of three had taken both kinds of bass from this hole. Some of the small mouths weighed between 2 and 3 pounds.

FILCHOCK MAY BE ABLE TO JOIN ALL-STARS SOON

Jack Robbins, John Meek, and Elmore Hackney.

Isbell and Robbins continue to be the best of the forward passers, but if you listen to the coaches, neither is as accurate as a Sammy Baugh.

If fierce sounding nicknames mean anything, the All-Stars will throw a scare into the Washington Redskins the night of Aug. 31. A few nicknames acquired by the collegians during three years of football follow: Perry [Tiger] Schwartz, California, end; Jim [Crash] Birr, Indiana, end; Frank [Bruiser] Kinard, Mississippi, tackle; Pete [Sherif] Smith, Oklahoma, end; Clay [Ripper] Calhoun, Loyola, full back; Andy [Anvil] Farkas, Detroit, half back; Fred [Chopper] Vanzo, Northwestern, quarter back; Mike [Iron Mike] Calvano, Northwestern, guard; Nick [Bamb] Dragash, South Dakota State, guard; Andy [Lug] Puplis, Notre Dame, half back.

There are so many players named Joe on the All-Star squad that if Coach Bo McMillin should call out for Joe to go in the game, almost a whole team would respond. Players by that name are Joe Gray, Oregon State, half; Joe Gustitus, St. Ambrose, tackle; Joe Kilgrow, Alabama, half; Joe Kuharich and Joe Ruetz, Notre Dame, guards, and Joe Routt, Texas, guard.

Chicago will get its first peak at Gary Famiglietti, Boston university full back, in the All-Star game, but it probably will not be the last one. Immediately after the game Famiglietti — pronounced "Fam-il-yetti" — will report to the Chicago Bears. He will be a candidate for the full back position vacated by the retirement of Bronko Nagurski.

Joe Routt, a Texas Aggie, Has Date to Face Mr. Baugh Again

BY HOWARD BARRY.

The speaker was Joe Routt of the College All-Star football squad and the Sam to whom he referred was Slingin' Sammy Baugh, Washington Redskin pass tosser. These two old rivals are to meet again on Aug. 31, when the college boys face the professional champions on Soldiers' field.

That afterthought "if Ah make the team" is typical of the unassuming ways of this young lineman from Texas A. and M. who drew a bigger vote than any other guard in the country in the recent All-Star poll, thereby assuring himself of a place on the starting lineup. Moreover the nation's football experts made him their unanimous choice as the greatest guard of the 1937 season.

A Grown-up Youngster.

But you'd never know it to talk to him. You'd think he was just a pleasant young fellow from Texas enjoying a visit to Chicago with the mental reservation that he'll be glad to get back to the ranch after it's all over. You'd think an athlete, with his prestige might be too much of a prima donna to pay any attention to anybody else's ability but you'd be wrong. When he refers to his teammates he talks like a youngster who is glad of the opportunity of seeing some celebrities. He'll lean back and drawl:

"Ah sure enjoy gettin' up here to meet all these boys Ah've heard about and read about. It sure is a pleasure to play on the same squad with them."

He has a great respect for Baugh, having faced him in the last two years of Slingin' Sam's career at Texas Christian. In the season of 1936, Routt's team was the only one to defeat Baugh's outfit. Routt likes to recall that battle, but he doesn't do any gloating over the victory. On the other hand he gives Baugh the credit of being a great opponent and digs up excuses for his failure on that day.

"Sam wasn't quite himself that day we beat him," Routt said. "His leg was hurt, so we knew that every time he got ahold of the ball he was going to pass rather than run. We ganged up on him. All five of us linemen would go after him every time he tried to throw. Sometimes we nailed him and sometimes we didn't, but he sure can take a lot of pounding. He's plenty tough."

"Ah like it to visit, but Ah wouldn't like to live here. There's too many people. Ah walk along the street and nobody speaks to me. Back home Ah know everybody. No, sir, I wouldn't like to stay. You can take the boy out of the country, but you can't take the country out of the boy."

He Rides at the Rodeos.

Joe's home is on a ranch near Brenham, Tex., which is about halfway between Houston and Austin. Seventeen hundred acres are devoted to cotton raising and the remainder is grazing ground for a herd of 1,200 white faced Hereford cattle.

Joe spends his summers working on the ranch and in nearby oil fields. Now that school is over he expects to spend a couple of years at the oil business and then go back to the ranch.

One of his favorite pastimes is competing in rodeos. They have one nearly every week during the late summer at the various towns near his home. Joe rides bucking broncos and ropes calves. He's particularly proud of his pony, Dilly, a 4 year old thoroughbred. "The best ropin' hawse in Texas" is his description of the animal, which happens to be a half brother of one of Tommy Hitchcock's polo ponies.

BUDGE DEFEATS ALLISON AFTER A TOUGH BATTLE

Newport, R. I., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—Donald Budge advanced to the semi-finals of the Newport Casino tennis tournament today, but he had to play one of the hardest matches of the season before he conquered Wilmer Allison, Austin, Tex., veteran. The scores were 7-9, 8-6, 6-4, 9-7.

Frank Parker, Milwaukee; Joe Hunt, Los Angeles, and Sidney Wood, New York veteran, also reached the semi-finals. Hunt eliminated Yvon Petra, France, last of the seven foreign entries, 9-7, 6-0, 9-7, and Wood defeated Elwood Cooke, Portland, Ore., 4-6, 7-5, 6-3, 6-4. Parker beat Bryan Grant of Atlanta, 7-5, 6-8, 6-4, 6-1.

The first upset in the doubles competition occurred when Lewis Wetherell, Los Angeles, and Bob Kamrath, Austin, Tex., defeated the favored English team of G. Patrick Hughes and Charles Hare, England, 10-8, 11-9, in a third round match.

Eloise Briese's hopes of winning a third straight Illinois women's public parks championship were thwarted in the semi-final round at the Waveland avenue course yesterday by Mrs. C. E. Epstein of Lincolnshire. The latter put out the champion, 1 up. Today Mrs. Epstein will meet Mrs. Evelyn Moore of Navajo Fields, the tournament medalist, in the thirty-six hole championship match. Mrs. Moore reached the final by defeating Mrs. William Scott Stewart of Nordic, 2 and 1.

Miss Briese, the Kenosha girl who has won the title the last two years, was 2 down at the turn. Mrs. Epstein finished with a medal of 90 against her opponent's 92. Mrs. Moore had a card of 88 to Mrs. Stewart's 89.

In the first flight final today, set for eighteen holes, Mrs. Gwen Fischer of Lincoln park will meet Betty Johnson of Shore Acres. Mrs. Fischer defeated Mrs. Beulah Hurst, a club mate, 1 up, yesterday, while Miss Johnson scored a similar victory over Ann Chenoweth, also of Lincoln park.

The Glen Oak Country club's annual roundup tournament will be held today and tomorrow. Also on today's program are the Chicago District Golf association's one day handicap event at Midlothian, the Midwest Men's Apparel Golf association tourney at Butterfield, and the Northwestern University Club of Chicago's event at Briergate.

CABON, NUGENT, ENNIS, GINKUS IN GOLF SEMI-FINAL

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The semi-final of the thirty-fourth Chicago city amateur golf tournament this morning finds itself with the strangest foursome ever to enter the penultimate round. Each of the four is a stranger to this point in the bracket, all of the favorites having vanished—as far back as Monday's first round.

The first of the two thirty-six hole semi-finals at Jackson park today brings together Joe Cabon of Evergreen, a 33 year old steel clerk, and Bert Nugent, of Jackson park, a construction company clerk who at 30, has played golf only six years and is now playing in the second tournament of his life.

Ennis vs. Ginkus.

The second match involves Pat Ennis, also of Jackson park, who manages his mother's restaurant in the stockyards section, and Vincent Ginkus of Lansing airport, a young man who has deported himself favorably in local caddy tournaments. Ennis is in the position of carrying on a family tradition, for his younger brother Bill, who was eliminated in the second round of the show on Tuesday, is a member of Chicago's 1938 national public links team.

Cabon entered the semi-finals by putting out Norm Mahoney, one of Jackson park's better shooters, 4 and 3, in the morning round, and then defeating Woody Johnson, another home club artist, 2 and 1, in the quarter finals. Nugent advanced with a 5 and 4 conquest of Jean Barnes of Bon-Air and a similar victory over John Boden of Jackson park.

Ortyl Extends Ennis.

Ennis shot the best nine of the day, a one under par 33, in defeating Ernie Bones, Jackson park veteran, 8 and 7, but had to go to the eighteenth to win his quarter final bout with John Ortyl of Westgate Valley, 2 up. Ginkus put out Harold Wymer of Glen Eagles in the morning, and then disposed of Frank McNamara, Lincolnshire's policeman-golfer, 4 and 3, in the afternoon. Results:

FOURTH ROUND.

Joe Cabon, Evergreen, defeated Norman Mahoney, Jackson, 4 and 3; W. Johnson, Jackson, defeated Frank Wisler Jr., Jackson, 3 and 1; M. B. Nugent, Jackson, defeated Jean Barnes, Bon-Air, 5 and 4; John Bodevin, Jackson, defeated Maurice Moran, Jackson, 5 and 4; Pat Ennis, Jackson, defeated Ernie Bones, Jackson, 8 and 7; John Ortyl, Westgate, defeated Al Zgorka, Burnham, 3 and 1; Vincent Ginkus, Lansing, defeated Harold Wymer, Glen Eagles, 5 and 3; Frank McNamara, Lincolnshire, defeated Joe Conrad, Cog Hill, 4 and 3.

QUARTER FINALS.

Cabon defeated Johnson, 2 and 1; Nugent defeated Bodevin, 4 and 3; Ennis defeated Ortyl, 2 up; Ginkus defeated McNamara, 4 and 3.

YANKEES, SENATORS SPLIT.

Washington, D. C., Aug 18.—The New York Yankees' winning streak reached seven straight in the opening game of a double-header today, but it was snapped at that point as the Senators came back to win with a 14 hit attack. Wes Ferrell, making his Yankee debut after his recent release by Washington, beat his former mates in the opener in which Joe DiMaggio's triple and Lou Gehrig's double produced a run in the eleventh inning for a 6 to 5 Yankee victory. In the second game, Harry Kelley pitched a six hitter for a 6 to 3 triumph for the Senators.

Root's bunt. After Hack had flied to Berger Herman lined a double to left, Root scoring. Myers robbed the Cubs of a run by knocking down Collins' single back of second, forcing Herman to stop at third. Galan forced Collins.

Reds Rout Root.

The Reds made three runs after two were out in the fifth. After Myers had flied to Reynolds, Derringer singled to center and Frey doubled to left. The runners held on while Berger bounced out to Collins, then Goodman was given an intentional pass. McCormick smacked the first pitch for a single to center, scoring Derringer and Frey and putting Goodman on third. Lombardi's single to right scored Goodman. Craft lined to Jurges.

There was more grief in the Reds' sixth. Riggs pushed off with a single and advanced on Myers' sacrifice. Derringer drove his No. 2 homer just to the left of the center field bleacher pyramid, scoring behind Riggs. Frey dropped a double in front of Galan, bringing about Root's replacement by French. Berger singled to left, scoring Frey. Goodman forced Berger after which McCormick singled to right, putting Goodman on third. Lombardi tapped to French, whose toss to O'Dea retired Goodman at the plate.

They Break Out Again.

In the ninth, the Reds resumed run making. McCormick opened with his fourth hit and went to third on Lombardi's single to left. Craft flied to Galan, McCormick scoring. Riggs doubled to left, Lombardi stopping at third. Russell replaced French and gave an intentional pass to Myers, loading the bases. Russell then cast a wild pitch, Lombardi scoring. Derringer and Frey grounded out.

The Cubs will not work this afternoon. An open date on their calendar will give them a chance to rest for their do or die series with the Pirates which begins with a single game tomorrow. There will be a double header Sunday and a single game Monday.

Dizzy Dean will be unveiled again tomorrow. He has not been unveiled in Wrigley Field since July 23.

Tigers Defeat Sox, 5 to 1, for Series Sweep

The seventh was an important inning for the Sox. They didn't score, but they did pair their hits for the first time. Rensa and Whitehead singled after two were gone, and Berger closed the incident with a tap to Gehringer. The Sox came through with another pair of hits in the ninth and thus escaped a shutout. Kreevich and Kuhel singled with none out and eventually Kreevich got to the plate on an infield out and a fly ball.

LEE FACES INDIANS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 18.—The White Sox hurried out of here this evening for Cleveland, where they'll open a five game series tomorrow. Thornton [Lefty] Lee will pitch in the first battle. The Indians have promised to start Earl Whitehill, also left-handed.

Charles Comiskey Jr., who is making his first extensive trip with his dad's ball club, donned a uniform today and chased fly balls, some of which he caught. He expects to be playing first base for the Sox about 1945.

Weiland Halts Pirates; Cards Triumph, 5 to 1

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 18.—(AP)—Bob Weiland was invincible after his first pitch today as the Cardinals beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 5 to 1. It was the first ball thrown that saved the league leading Pirates from a shutout. Lee Handley slapped it for a home run.

The Cardinal attack was concentrated in the fourth and fifth innings. Johnny Mize belted out his seventeenth homer of the year with Stu Martin and Joe Medwick on base to account for the three runs scored in the fifth. Don Gutteridge's single after Don Padgett had hit safely and Medwick doubled gave the Cards a one run lead in the fourth.

AUSTRALIAN GIRL ACHIEVES THIRD UPSET IN TENNIS

Manchester, Mass., Aug. 18.—(AP)—Nancye Wynne, Australia's 21-year-old tennis slugger, scored her third upset victory today when she beat Sarah Palfrey Fabyan of Brookline, 6-4, 6-4, to enter the final round of the Essex invitation women's tournament.

One of the hardest hitters in women's tennis, Miss Wynne will oppose for the title either Alice Marble, of Beverly Hills, Cal., or Kay Stammers, pretty English southpaw, second seeded foreigner, who play tomorrow for the right to meet Miss Wynne Saturday.

Miss Marble was idle in singles today, but Miss Stammers won her semi-final berth by eliminating Thelma Coyne, of Australia, 6-4, 7-5.

CHARLESTON AND COOPER TO LEAD COLORED STARS

Andy Cooper of the Kansas City Monarchs will manage the west and Oscar Charleston will lead the east in the sixth annual colored all-star baseball game Sunday afternoon in Comiskey park. They were the winners of a poll which broke all records for balloting in the annual contest to name managers for the all-star battle.

On the strength of managing two previous winners of all-star games, Charleston received 38,470 votes.

AUSTRALIAN CUP PLAYERS LEAD GERMANY, 2 TO 0

Need One More Victory to Play for Trophy.

Brookline, Mass., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—Victories by Adrian Quist and Jack Bromwich today gave Australia a 2 to 0 lead over Germany in the Davis cup interzone tennis series. Australia now needs only one victory in the three remaining matches to oppose the United States at Germantown, Pa., for the international trophy.

Quist, 25 year old star, disposed of Georg von Metaxa, 6-3, 6-2, 6-1, and Bromwich, 17 year old player, defeated Henner Henkel, ranked No. 1 in Germany, 6-2, 6-3, 6-3. Quist required only 50 minutes to defeat Von Metaxa, former Austrian star.

Henkel failed to display his usual form. He complained of an ailing elbow and he was caught flat-footed many times in the back court in the first two sets. Bromwich, who previously had defeated Henkel several times in Australia, sent powerful, accurate drives across the net and made one drop shot after another to score the easy triumph.

RIGGS' STATUS UNCERTAIN

New York, Aug. 18.—(AP)—In the face of persistent reports that Bobby Riggs has clinched the No. 2 singles spot on the defending United States Davis cup team, Walter Pate, team captain, today said no player would be sure of a spot alongside Don Budge and Gene Mako until the team selection committee met in official session next Monday evening.

"At that time," said Pate, who is committee chairman, "I will submit my recommendations. Chances are they will be accepted, and chances are strong that Riggs will be one of the players I name for the two vacancies."

Announcement of the team's makeup probably will not be made until Tuesday, when the American captain also will send his nominations to the captain of the winning team in the current interzone final between Germany and Australia.

It Takes two to make a KISS
Smokers' Test showed Vintage Tobacco was EASIER ON YOUR BREATH
WHITE OWLS are definitely easier on your breath—scientific tests proved it. And there's a good reason why, too. Every White Owl always has a Vintage-tobacco filler. Nature—not artificial factory processing—made this tobacco exceptionally mild.
We maintain a vast crop-inspection system—the only known organization of its kind—to locate Vintage tobacco. Even in Vintage years we classify all filler tobaccos into at least seven grades—and use only tobacco of the quality of the top three grades for the filler of our WHITE OWL cigars.
Have you tried a White Owl lately? It's refreshing to find a cigar that tastes so good . . . and to have it approved by the ladies, too. Light up a Vintage cigar . . . taste the difference.
THE METALLIC NOSE KNOWS
Scientists use a sensitive osmoscope to measure odor . . . to record its intensity and lasting power. Ten popular brands of 5¢ cigars were tested by this machine. White Owl was easier on the breath than all the others. After 30 minutes, all trace of tobacco odor disappeared from the breath of White Owl smokers.

HOPE DIAMOND'S BAD LUCK ENDS IN MIXED UP RACE

BY FRENCH LANE.

Evidence to support the contention that all horse speculators, if they live long enough, must make the last trip west free from anything that looks like money was presented in the running of the featured Joliet purse for 2 year old fillies at Washington Park yesterday afternoon.

Favorite in the race was Burgoo Miss. Stoutly backed was Flying Lill from the stable of Charley Cleary of Chicago. Also the medium of quite a plunge was the Texas filly Chicharra. So here they were—the three favorites—but unlooked for misfortune overtook them all.

First, out of the starting gate dashed Flying Lill in such fast stride that she stumbled and lost her rider, Charley Rollins.

Burgoo Miss Finishes Last.

Then up jumped Burgoo Miss, one of the fastest juvenile tricks to run in Chicago this year, to take the lead. She was sailing right out there until they hit the turn. Burgoo Miss instead of clinging to the inside rail emulated Corrigan and went in the other direction to the outside rail. She finished last.

Chicharra got excited about these goings on, but it didn't prevent her from flying into the lead for a while after Burgoo Miss went the Corrigan route. Nevertheless, the excitement eventually was too much. She suddenly quite running. Then along moved Hope Diamond, which has been trying since last May to win a race, to realize her ambition. At better than 27 to 1 in the betting she steamed home a length and a half in front of Chicharra.

Wafer, another Texas filly was third and Montsin was fourth. But nearly all the money had been bet on Burgoo Miss, Flying Lill, and Chicharra.

Olney Wins First Start.

Even though Burgoo Miss did go haywire, a son of the Kentucky Derby winner, Burgoo King, did turn in a brilliant performance during the afternoon. This was the colt Olney, which races for the Walmac Farm stable of Kentucky. He was making his first start.

He ran the fastest 5½ furlongs yet clocked at Washington Park this season when he galloped home an easy winner by three lengths over Matchup in the third race. Irvana, owned by Mrs. John Marsch of Chicago, was third.

Olney was at 8 to 1 in the morning betting, but his speedy training trials were well known to most of the railbirds, so at the final payoff he rewarded his backers at $7.20 for a $2 ticket.

Two more jockies were injured in a spill that took place during the running of yesterday's first race at Washington Park. At the head of the stretch Jocky Earl Steffen attempted to drive Bien Chance through next to the rail. The filly fell and Stepladder sprawled over her. Steffen suffered a broken collar bone. Jocky Bob Finnerty on Stepladder sustained a wrenched back. It was the second serious spill of the week.

Charley Rollins, who fell from Flying Lill in the fifth race, was severely shaken up and will be out of action for three or four days.

HULL, WALLACE CLASH ON WHEAT SUBSIDY HINTED

Secretary of State Opposes Policy.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 18.—(AP)—Secretary of State Hull today declared against export subsidies. He had been questioned about the agriculture department's proposal to subsidize the export of 100,000,000 bushels of wheat. The capital speculated that Hull and Secretary of Agriculture Wallace may clash over the export subsidy project.

Hull referred inquirers to his speeches over a period of many years. He told them he would let them know if any material change occurred in his ideas. His speeches, from the time he entered the house of representatives, through his years in the senate and finally in the state department, include many expressions of opposition to the export subsidy policy.

See Way Out for Wallace.

Some experts said that Wallace may be able to obviate the clash by reducing the amount of the subsidy so that it would not interfere substantially with Hull's program of eliminating artificial trade barriers, or by reaching an agreement with other agricultural exporting nations so that all would apply a subsidy and none would regard it as grounds for retaliatory trade measures.

In the house of representatives in 1919, Hull declared:

"Another class of commercial practices and methods which has been the source of much unfairness and the cause of much retaliation and consequent ill-feeling relates to subsidies, bonuses, drawbacks, rebates, etc. These policies are generally utilized for the encouragement of export business."

Cause Serious Complications.

Speeches of the same tenor were made in the senate when Hull represented Tennessee in that body. On May 2, 1935, speaking as secretary of state before the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, he declared:

"I have had presented to me time and again schemes for expanding exports of our agricultural products by means of preferential arrangements, dumping devices, and other measures which involve serious complications of our general trade relations."

Assistant Secretary of State Francis B. Sayre said in July, during a speech at the University of Virginia:

"The illusory remedy of export subsidies would be foredoomed to failure from the very outset. Once we embark in a wholesale way upon export subsidies we are drifting down a perilous current . . ."

ONLY TWO WAYS TO END 'GAS' WAR, RAGAN ASSERTS

C. E. Ragan, president of the Gasoline Retailers' association told 500 retail dealers last night that only two practical means remain to end the gasoline price war. He spoke at Electricians' hall. Efforts to end the war by voluntary dealer coöperation failed early this week.

One method, Ragan said, is "below cost" legislation, which would set a minimum dealer's gross profit margin and forbid selling below the cost plus the margin. The other means is setting of minimum resale prices by major oil companies under the state fair trade law. He said New York oil companies early this month had broken up a price war by setting prices under the fair trade law, which is similar to the Illinois law.

Dealers voted approval of Ragan's proposal to appoint one or two salaried officials in the association to work on these methods to end the struggle.

ERIE ASKS PART PAST PAYMENTS ON RFC LOANS

Cleveland, O., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—Trustees of the Erie railroad have filed a petition in federal court to permit partial payments on past due loan instalments to the Reconstruction Finance corporation. If the payments are permitted, it was said the RFC would wait 90 days before taking any action toward terminating leases on property covered or moving up the maturity dates of certificates.

The Erie trustees asked to be allowed to pay $350,000 before Aug. 25 and another $153,000 before Sept. 25 on a principal payment of $503,000 which became due last March 1. The maturity was part of an $11,833,000 issue of trust certificates issued under the Erie Railroad Equipment Trust of 1934. The certificates were pledged with the RFC as security for a loan to the Erie.

Berle Assails 'Shotgun' Rule Over Business

Washington, D. C., Aug. 18.—(AP)—One of the President's original "brain trusters" said today the administration could be criticized fairly for indulging in "shotgun imposition of regulation" on business without "adequate definition of standards." A. A. Berle Jr., who is assistant secretary of state, made the statement in a memorandum to the administration's monopoly investigating committee.

A. A. Berle Jr.

Government regulation of business "is always inherently dangerous," he said, because "it is often unsound to have government boards making regulations without assuming responsibility for the results."

Suggests Solution of Problems?

Berle outlined a three-point solution of monopoly problems and criticized other proposed approaches to the monopoly question. He suggested the government encourage competition in some industries, permit consolidations and economic planning in others, and foster direct production or "quasi-public ownership" in still others.

Berle told reporters the opinions and proposals were his own, not those of the state department or of the administration.

Senator O'Mahoney [D., Wyo.], chairman of the investigating committee, termed the memorandum an "excellent analysis" of the subject of monopoly. Yet, Berle questioned the wisdom of the proposed federal licensing of interstate corporations, urged by O'Mahoney and by Senator Borah [R., Idaho] as a monopoly remedy. He said any agency granting the licenses may become "an economic dictator."

The former Columbia university professor said general aims of any monopoly control should include more, better, and cheaper goods; more, better paying, and steadier jobs, and ready access to capital for all business.

Criticizes New Profits Tax.

Concerning administration economic theories, Berle said the undistributed profits tax gave giant corporations a "perpetual franchise" to be the only large corporations, because it prevented small businesses from becoming large.

He charged the federal communications commission had used its licensing power to maintain "a cable monopoly" and to prevent commercial short-wave radio transmission.

Berle said the government could foster competition in some fields by establishing a system of capital credit banks and a capital reserve system; revising patent laws so anyone could use a new invention by payment of royalty, and surveying direct and indirect subsidies such as tax preferences, tarifs, and relief.

He contended competition did not work in the transportation, power, and some natural resources industries, and that industry-wide planning could stabilize production of automobiles, oil, and possibly copper.

$4,500,000 BRIDGE BONDS TO GO ON MARKET SOON

A banking syndicate is being formed to market an issue of $4,500,000 of bonds to help finance the new bridge over the Mississippi river between East St. Louis and St. Louis.

The bonds will be issued by St. Clair county, Illinois. The project is financed in part by a PWA grant of $2,475,000. Construction is scheduled to begin this week. H. C. Speer & Co., Chicago, will head the syndicate distributing the bonds.

A block of 15,000 shares of International Shoe company was offered yesterday by a group headed by Blyth & Co. The offering was made at $34, the last quoted price on the New York Stock exchange.

The Virginia Electric and Power company announced that directors have authorized the management to make arrangements to refund $37,500,000 of first mortgage bonds due in 1952.

The Netherlands guilder rose in value on the foreign exchange market yesterday as British and French currencies declined. The guilder closed 0.07 cent higher at 54.73 cents. The pound declined ¼ cent to $4.87⅞ and the franc lost 0.003-16 cent, closing at 2.7275 cents.

The Federal Reserve bank of New York reported the engagement of $4,400,000 gold in Canada and $2,300,000 in England for shipment to the United States.

Demand for gold in the London market picked up somewhat compared with Wednesday but transactions were not large. The metal was quoted a half penny higher at 142 shillings 5½ pence an ounce, equal to $34.78 compared with $34.77 on the preceding day.

Magill Says 'Yes' and 'No' on Harmony

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 18.—Roswell Magill, acting secretary of the treasury, is apparently confused about harmony among treasury officials.

"All the sweetness in life exists in the inner council of the treasury," he said at his press conference today. A moment later he contradicted this by saying: "It would be very surprising if all treasury officials agreed about anything."

He had been asked to comment on a reported split in opinion among treasury officials on the matter of restoring the old undistributed profits tax with its high penalties.

Report Hanes Opposes.

Reports have said that John W. Hanes, assistant secretary of the treasury and known as a buffer for business, opposes restoration of the old rate, favored by President Roosevelt. Within the treasury, General Counsel Herman Oliphant is the leading proponent of the high tax rate.

"I do not know what Mr. Hanes' opinion is, but Mr. Oliphant has expressed his from time to time," Magill asserted.

He said no discussions have taken place recently on the tax, and that he did not know whether President Roosevelt will definitly ask for return to the 1936 rate.

The tax studies being made by the treasury department, Magill said, were reviewed at a White House luncheon before President Roosevelt left for Canada. The President had called for reports on progress in these studies.

Discuss New Bond Tax.

The President and the acting secretary at this meeting discussed the President's proposal for taxing income from future issues of bonds put out by federal, state, and local governments. Magill said that they did not talk about the proposal to get more taxes from persons with low or moderate incomes by reducing personal income tax exemptions.

Magill also said that Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Wayne C. Taylor had been in daily consultation with Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and his associates on proposals to subsidize exports of American wheat with federal funds. He added that he did not know what would be done on that plan.

BUILDING AWARDS TOTAL ABOVE 1937, UNDER WEEK AGO

New York, Aug. 18.—[Special.]—Engineering construction awards in the week ended Aug. 17 were 3 per cent above those of the year ago, but 42 per cent below the high level a week ago, Engineering News-Record reported today. Awards totaled $44,479,000 against $76,431,000 in the preceding week and $43,341,000 in the 1937 period.

Construction for the year to date totaled $1,656,628,000 against $1,638,159,000 last year, a gain of 1.1 per cent. Awards were:

Private	$ 8,117,000	$19,662,000
State and municipal	28,775,000	21,432,000
Federal	7,607,000	2,247,000

SEARS, ROEBUCK SALES NEAREST 1937 LEVEL SINCE LAST EASTER

Sears, Roebuck & Co. sales in the four weeks ended Aug. 13 climbed nearer to the 1937 level than did those of any similar period since Easter. Officers of the mail order house said yesterday that the sales reflected a modest improvement in retail buying throughout the country. Most noteworthy, they said, was a pickup in the industrial east, which earlier this year accounted for the severe lag in Sears sales.

Sales in the four weeks amounted to $33,146,451 compared with $36,266,551 in the similar weeks of 1937, a decline of 8.6 per cent. In the preceding four weeks, sales of the company were 14.6 per cent under those of the like 1937 period. The 8.6 per cent decline is the smallest drop from a year ago since the four weeks ended April 23, which included the Easter shopping days, when sales were only 7.5 per cent below those of the corresponding period last year.

In the 28 weeks ended Aug. 13, sales totaled $258,132,811 against $291,648,636 in the like 1937 weeks, a drop of 11.5 per cent.

NEW YORK TAKES STEP TO BUY AND UNIFY ALL TRANSIT LINES

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—The state constitutional convention, by a vote of 124 to 24, today approved the transit unification amendment. This will permit the New York City to issue up to $315,000,000 of bonds, without regard to its debt limit, for the purpose of buying out the privately operated transit lines in the city.

Bonds above the $315,000,000 limit would come out of the city's present unencumbered debt margin. It has been understood that the transit unification plan calls for the use of about $25,000,000 of bonds in that manner, as the total price contemplated for the Rapid Transit lines, plus the trolley and bus lines of the Brooklyn Manhattan Transit system in Brooklyn, is about $340,000,000.

The amendment voted today, if approved by the people, will for the first time open the way for the purchase of all private interests in the lines. In previous unification plans, the private interests retained representation both in ownership and management.

An attempt was made to write a 5 cent fare declaration into the constitution, but this failed. It was charged that the amendment was a definite attempt to establish a 7 cent fare after unification.

SEC BARS GROUP ASKING DEPOSIT OF UTILITY BONDS

Washington, D. C., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—The Securities and Exchange commission today refused to permit John A. Dawson, Clayton J. Howell, and George F. Manzelman to solicit the deposit of Utilities Elkhorn Coal company 6 per cent 20 year first mortgage sinking fund gold bonds. It also refused permission to solicit authority to act as a protective committee in connection with the reorganization of the Utilities Elkhorn Coal company.

Utilities Light and Power corporation owns all of the company's outstanding common stock. Both parent and subsidiary are undergoing reorganization under the bankruptcy act. The 6 per cent bonds are the only securities of Utilities Elkhorn in the hands of the public.

The commission's order was based largely upon the breadth of the deposit agreement under which the group sought to function for the security holders.

BANK WILL ENTER NEW LOAN FIELDS TO EMPLOY FUNDS

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 18.—(AP)—The Bank of America turned to new loan fields today to provide employment for idle funds.

The new loans take two general forms: "Long term" or five year amortized loans, and "accounts receivable" financing.

The first is designed to bridge the gap between ordinary short term loans advanced to commercial and industrial borrowers, and the permanent capital employed by corporations and private businesses of other forms.

The second marks the first entrance, so far as is known, of banks into a field formerly dominated by finance companies and private lenders.

BANK CLEARINGS RISE, BUT TOTAL IS BELOW 1937

New York, Aug. 18.—[Special.]—Bank clearings in 22 leading cities in the week ended Aug. 17 totaled $4,674,850,000, a decrease of 12.2 per cent from a year ago. However, the total was $525,794,000 above the preceding week, Dun & Bradstreet reported today.

New York City's volume increased to $2,765,232,000, but was 9.2 per cent under last year. Cities outside New York reported a total of $1,909,618,000, compared with $2,280,108,000 last year, a decline of 16.2 per cent. Chicago's volume of $267,200,000 was a drop of 22.3 per cent from $344,100,000 a year ago.

German-Turkish Trade Pact Goes Into Effect

BERLIN.—[By Mail.]—(AP)—A one-year German-Turkish trade agreement went into effect Aug. 15, incorporating the old Austro-Turkish conventions. Germany already claims control of about 50 per cent of southeastern Europe's trade.

Officials Sell Stocks Before Upturn in June

Further evidence that officials of large corporations failed to foresee the stock market climb which began June 20 was found in the second report of June transactions of the "insiders" made yesterday.

Joseph M. Schenck sells Twentieth Century-Fox shares.

The report, issued by the Securities and Exchange commission, showed more sales than purchases by officers, directors, and principal stockholders in securities of their own firms. The first June summary, issued two weeks ago, similarly showed more selling than buying. Many of the sales were made after June 20.

The scarcity of purchases reported by officials left still unanswered the question of who did the buying which started the rapid upturn late in June.

Substantial Sales Reported.

Substantial sales for June were reported by officials of United Air Lines Transport corporation, Union Carbide & Carbon corporation, Twentieth-Century Fox Film corporation, Greyhound corporation, and Coty, Inc.

Some sizable purchases were also reported, however. These included buying of stocks in the Colgate-Palmolive-Peet company, Commercial Solvents corporation, Century Shares Trust and the Edward G. Budd Manufacturing company.

William A. M. Burden, a director of United Air Lines, reported that he sold 3,000 common shares, of which 2,600 were disposed of after June 20. This left him 2,836 shares at the end of the month.

The sale of 19,200 shares of common stock of Twentieth Century-Fox was made by Joseph M. Schenck, chairman. He sold from June 24 to the end of the month, reducing holdings to 149,443 shares.

Sells Union Carbide Shares.

Matthew J. Carney, vice president of Union Carbide & Carbon, disposed of 3,000 common shares, leaving 21,700 to his account. He sold 2,000 of the shares before June 20.

Robert Driscoll, Chicago, vice president of the Greyhound corporation, sold 1,000 common shares on June 30. The sale was made through a holding company and left 27,711 shares indirectly held in the holding company and 38 shares directly held. He also indirectly sold 900 shares of 5½ per cent preference stock, leaving 535 shares.

Another Greyhound vice president, Arthur M. Hill, Charleston, W. Va., disposed of 2,000 common shares on June 30, leaving 66,953 shares.

French Woman Sells Stock.

From Paris, France, came the report by Yvonne [Mrs. Leon] Cotnareanu, vice chairman of Coty, Inc., that she had sold 10,678 capital shares, leaving 603,456 shares. The sale was made on June 29.

Gifts included 410 shares of Sears, Roebuck & Co., given away by Gen. Robert E. Wood, president, leaving 25,301 shares held. William F. O'Neil, president of the General Tire and Rubber company, Akron, O., gave away 2,625 common shares, leaving 22,060.

On the buying side, Robert B. Colgate, vice president of Colgate-Palmolive-Peet, purchased 1,000 common shares on June 20 and 21, increasing direct holdings to 4,184 shares, and leaving indirect holdings unchanged at 20,000 shares.

Trading Group Is Buyer.

A "trading group," of which Samuel M. Greer is a member, bought 1,500 common shares of Commercial Solvents corporation. Greer is a director of the company. All but sixty shares were bought before June 20.

Charles Francis Adams, a trustee of Century Shares Trust, reported a net increase of 13,109 shares in his indirect holdings from June 1 to June 30.

William P. Barba, director of Budd Manufacturing, bought 825 common shares on and before June 20. He also purchased on June 20 1,100 common shares of the Budd Wheel company, of which he is a director, and then sold 200 shares on June 22.

Other transactions reported to the commission included the following:

ALLIED MILLS' PROFITS SHOW BIG DIP IN YEAR

Equal to 64 Cents Per Share.

Allied Mills, Inc., Chicago, yesterday reported earnings for the fiscal year ended June 30 equal to 64 cents a share, compared with $2.66 a share in the preceding year.

Interim statements of other companies showed mixed results. Middle West corporation had higher earnings in the June quarter and the first six months than in corresponding 1937 periods.

American Locomotive company reported a substantial first half loss against a profit in the first six months of 1937. Lower profits for the first six months, compared with like 1937 earnings, were shown by American Chain and Cable company, and Mid-Continent Petroleum corporation.

Year's Net Profits Fall.

Net profit of Allied Mills for the fiscal year slumped to $606,771 from $2,354,954 in the preceding year. Net sales declined to $26,068,113 from $35,923,170.

H. G. Atwood, president, told stockholders in the annual report that the decline in grain prices in the fall of 1937 and the reduction of whisky prices were largely responsible for lower earnings. The company's three main divisions are live stock feed, soy beans, and whisky.

Atwood said that a new plant making live stock feeds started operations in January of this year in Memphis, Tenn. Increased live stock and grain production in the southern states made it "imperative" to have a plant there, he said.

"Despite the reduction in net earnings this year," Atwood said, "very definite encouragement for the future can be found in the fact that both in the feed and distilling divisions the sales of branded products have shown a satisfactory increase in volume during the last few months."

Middle West Earns More.

Middle West's consolidated net income in the June quarter amounted to $351,764, compared with $233,917 in the second quarter of last year. Operating revenues increased to $14,563,222 from $14,248,668. For the first six months Middle West's consolidated earnings amounted to $702,617, against $419,620 in the first half of 1937. Total operating revenues increased $939,559 to $29,337,755.

American Locomotive had a first half net loss of $841,657, against a profit of $2,088,000, or $1.11 a common share, in the first six months of 1937. Inventories on June 30 totaled $7,775,277, compared with $12,008,830 a year earlier.

Net profit of American Chain and Cable in the first half of the year was $155,193 or 1 cent a common share, compared with $1,920,247, or $1.83 a share, in the first six months of 1937.

Nets 56 Cents a Share.

Mid-Continent Petroleum showed a profit for the first half of $1,042,574, or 56 cents a share, compared with $3,093,761, or $1.66 a share, in the 1937 first half. The June quarter profit was $574,264 against $468,311 in the preceding quarter, and $1,860,735 in the second three months of last year.

"The corporation was most successful in the development of new oil reserves during the first six months of 1938," the statement said, "and its volume of sales also showed a substantial increase. But due to more drastic prorating regulations which caused a reduction in the allowable crude production, and to the lower prices received for refined products, the net profits were lower than for the same period in 1937."

Steel Industry Spends 260 Millions on Upkeep

New York, Aug. 18.—(AP)—The American steel industry in 1937 spent more than $260,000,000 on upkeep of physical equipment of plants, an increase of nearly 15 per cent over 1936, the American Iron and Steel institute reported today. Repair and maintenance expenditures, the institute said, equaled almost $8 per ton of finished steel produced in 1937, contrasted with around $7 in 1936.

Inland Steel Asks Dropping Labor Order

The Inland Steel company yesterday made another move in its fight against orders directed against it by the National Labor Relations board. The company, large Chicago independent steel concern, filed with the labor board at Washington a 173 page document in which it demands that the board set aside orders which would compel Inland to recognize a C. I. O. union as the sole bargaining agent for its employés.

Oral arguments on the Inland petition are scheduled to be started in Washington on Monday. The company in its petition reiterates its charges of unfairness and prejudice on the part of Examiner Charles A. Wood when he conducted a labor board hearing in Chicago last year. The hearing was started during a strike against Inland and other steel companies last year.

Company Appeals to Courts.

The labor board on April 5, 1938, issued its original order for Inland Steel to recognize the C. I. O. union and to make it the sole bargaining agent for employés. Inland Steel appealed the order in the United States Circuit Court of Appeals on May 4. After several court decisions against it, the labor board withdrew its original order against Inland Steel and this action was upheld by the court.

On June 7 the labor board issued a "tentative order" against Inland Steel which provided for the filing of exceptions to the order.

In the petition filed with the labor board the company's objections are set forth as being in four classes: "those relating to the trial examiner's in the conduct of the hearing, those prejudice, those relating to unfairness relating to rulings upon evidence, and those relating to defects in the procedure subsequent to the hearing."

Call Examiner Prejudiced.

"The trial examiner [Charles A. Wood] repeatedly evidenced his prejudice against respondent and its defence by conduct and language denoting hostility and animosity towards respondent's counsel and witnesses," the petition declares.

The document then gives in detail a number of incidents during the hearings in Chicago last year in which Wood was alleged to have shown prejudice against Inland Steel and its attorneys. On one occasion three of Inland Steel's attorneys walked out of the room in which the hearing was being held in protest against Wood's actions.

The petition also charges that the examiner bulldozed witnesses testifying in favor of Inland Steel. It charges that intimidation of witnesses belonging to an independent union took place when he questioned them on their union affiliation.

JULY EARNINGS OF KANSAS CITY SOUTHERN SAG

The Kansas City Southern railroad yesterday reported net operating income, before fixed charges, of $255,780 for July, compared with $335,607 in July, 1937. For the first seven months, net operating income was $1,715,930, against $1,746,160 in the corresponding period last year. Gross revenues for the seven months totaled $7,732,816, against $8,040,203.

The Pere Marquette reported a seven months' deficit of $2,551,776, after all charges, compared with a profit of $1,282,013 in the 1937 January-July period. July showed a $338,769 deficit, compared with a profit of $190,227 in July, 1937.

The New York, Chicago and St. Louis [Nickel Plate] had a July net loss after charges of $127,691, compared with net income in July, 1937, of $132,694.

Net income of the Alabama Great Southern for the first half of 1937 amounted to $456,743, against $604,801 in the first six months of last year.

R. E. CORP. PLANS BUSINESS BLOCK IN EVANSTON

The R. E. corporation will erect a one story business block if its offer of $220,000 for the old Evanston post office property is accepted by the United States treasury. This was disclosed yesterday by an official of the corporation which is owned by Albert D. Lasker, former president of Lord & Thomas. Two other bids were filed, both much lower than that of the R. E. corporation. The 800 Church Street corporation of Evanston submitted a bid of $160,100, and John F. Cuneo, of the Cuneo Press, bid $160,000.

The property is directly across from the Evanston store of Marshall Field & Co. It fronts 125 feet on Church street and 150 feet on Sherman avenue.

Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line Head Denies Stock Option

William G. Maguire, president of the Missouri Kansas Pipe Line company, said yesterday that directors were not considering employing him as general manager or granting him special options to buy stock. Directors considered only routine matters at their meeting yesterday, he said. Minority stockholders had sent letters to directors on Wednesday criticizing the reported plan to give Maguire $24,000 a year as general manager with special stock purchase rights.

FRANCE EXPELS ALIEN GAMBLERS IN ITS CURRENCY

Acts Drastically to Stop Speculation.

PARIS, Aug. 18.—[Special.]—The French government today took drastic steps to stop speculation in the franc. Officials disclosed that a number of "foreign" operators have been expelled from the country for conducting undercover operations in French currency.

Premier Daladier acts to "save" franc.

The government did not disclose the number or the identity of the persons ordered out of the country. It was stated that evidence had been gathered by the police on the operations of eighteen small private exchange offices. The directors of these firms were summoned to explain their operations before judicial committees.

Asks Support of Nation.

The steps to suppress speculative operations in the franc were taken as Premier Edouard Daladier made a new appeal to the nation to support the government in resisting attacks on the currency.

The gravity of the international situation, Daladier said, has been exaggerated. He said the government is strongly opposed to further devaluation of the currency.

"The government," he added "counts on all Frenchmen to be confident in the future of their country and to accomplish their duty as the government is determined to do its own."

Daladier said he would elaborate on his views in a week-end radio address to the nation.

It is expected he will announce a series of severe measures aimed to check the present run on the franc. These measures mainly will be of a police and judicial nature and will not include any form of direct exchange control such as is practiced in Germany and other countries, it is said.

Will Uphold Tri-Power Pact.

France, the premier declared, is determined to stand by the tri-power monetary accord, which it has effected with the United States and Great Britain. Devaluation, he asserted, would rupture that agreement.

Daladier recognized the new rush to hoard gold which has seized capitalists in France and other European countries.

"Purchases of gold," he said, "which had stopped for several months, have been resumed with intensity on most European markets."

Hoarding is an evil with which the country has to wrestle and is "an error for those who abandon themselves to it," he declared.

The franc has already fallen close to 179 to the pound, the level which the Daladier government set last May as to the minimum to which it would be permitted to fall. It was quoted today in the Paris market at 178.89 to the pound.

Currency Lowest Since 1928.

The May devaluation effected a reduction of about 9 per cent in the external value of the franc from the rates quoted on the "floating franc" in the preceding ten months. The cut brought the currency to the lowest figure since 1928. It was the third devaluation since the war.

The stock exchange and money market improved slightly after the premier's statement, but it was reported that the pound was being sold at a premium on the "black bourse."

New York Stocks.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 18.—The stock market moved in a narrow, mostly lower, range today. Trading was dullest in more than two months.

Sales totaled only 446,610 shares. Only 604 issues were traded of which 161 advanced, 295 declined, and 148 ended unchanged.

Business and political news of interest to the market had little influence. The damper on enthusiasm was the unsettled European political and foreign exchange situation.

Rubbers, motors, and steels performed better than the average. Most of the rubber group showed fractional advances, although Firestone eased.

Chrysler was one of the strongest of the leading stocks, advancing 1⅝. General Motors rose ¾. Other motors showed little change. Motor accessories, including Borg-Warner, Bendix, and Electric Autolite, moved up fractions.

Aviation shares finished lower. Douglas, down more than 2 points at one time, closed off 1⅜. Boeing, Martin, and United Aircraft slipped fractionally.

Among the rails Union Pacific fell 2 points and Santa Fe gained 1. New York Central, Pennsylvania, and Illinois Central were slightly lower.

New York Bonds.

New York, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Metropolitan transit issues advanced in the bond market today. The state constitutional convention approved an amendment to permit New York City to issue $300,000,000 of corporate bonds to finance unification.

Manhattan Railway [elevated] 4s closed 4 points higher and B.-M. T. [elevated and subway] 4½s climbed 3½ points. I. R. T. [subway] 7s, after showing some weakness, gained 1½, and other liens advanced ⅞ to 2½ points.

In the foreign dollar list Japanese loans showed strength, the 6½s rising 3⅛ and the 5½s gaining 1¼.

United States government obligations were quiet and irregular, closing 5-32 of a point higher to 5-32 lower.

Chicago Stocks.

Stocks on the Chicago exchange slipped a little yesterday as trading shrank to 12,000 shares, from 19,000 on the preceding day.

Although only thirteen of the sixty issues traded advanced, several volume leaders were among the gainers. Bendix Aviation rose ⅜ to 22¼. Borg-Warner was ⅛ higher at 31⅛. Great Lakes Dredge moved up ⅜ to 19. Commonwealth Edison lost ¼ at 26⅞. Noblitt Sparks declined ⅜ to 22. Middle West at 6 and Marshall Field at 12 were unchanged.

Stocks of American Telephone and Telegraph company, Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, and the Wayne Pump company will be admitted to trading today. This will add a total of more than 21 million shares to the exchange's listings.

Winthrop, Mitchell & Co. and Alfred E. Turner will be odd lot dealers and specialists in American Telephone and Goodyear stocks. Paul H. Davis & Co. will be the specialist and odd lot dealer for Wayne Pump.

Bank Stocks.

Only one of the leading Chicago bank stocks changed position yesterday. Shares of the American National Bank and Trust company closed $5 lower at $205 bid, $230 asked. Trading was light.

SAMUEL DAVIS ELECTED HEAD OF HUPP MOTOR

Two Other Chicagoans Named on Board.

Samuel L. Davis of Chicago yesterday was elected president of the Hupp Motor Car company at a meeting of the board of directors in Detroit. He succeeds Thomas Bradley, who resigned. Davis, who has been in the automobile business in Chicago since 1922, was in Detroit yesterday.

Norman De Vaux and Edward Rothbart of Chicago were elected to the board of directors. Davis announced the appointment of De Vaux, who for many years was active in the automobile business on the Pacific coast, as general manager in charge of operations.

Buy Cord Assets.

De Vaux said in Detroit that the company had purchased dies, tools, jigs, fixtures, and inventories representing an approximate value of more than a million dollars. It was indicated that this represents a part of the recent purchase of some of the assets of the Cord corporation which were made in the name of De Vaux.

De Vaux disclosed that in addition to its present line of six and eight cylinder cars which will be continued with improvements, Hupp plans to build two new lines of low priced cars for 1938.

Active in Auto Trade.

Davis has been active in retail automobile circles in Chicago. For many years he was asociated with C. E. Gambill, a former distributor for Hupp. In 1934 he became president of the Hupmobile Illinois company, which was distributor for the Hupp company in Chicago.

Davis has been one of the group which has staged the annual Chicago Automobile show since it was given up by the manufacturers.

Two Large Utilities Start to Obey Integration Rule

New York, Aug. 18.—(AP)—The first definite step by big utility systems to comply with the integration provisions of the federal public utility holding company act has been taken. The companies involved are Service Company, and Commonwealth & Southern corporation, well informed sources said today.

The two companies are negotiating a contract by which Cities Service would sell its Michigan properties to Commonwealth.

It was to be followed by negotiations—subject to prior blessing by the Securities and Exchange commission—for the sale of Cities service Ohio properties to Commonwealth.

Hints One May Quit Field.

The first step has double significance, observers said, indicating that Cities Service may withdraw from the utility field and that Commonwealth may set up a completely integrated electric system with Michigan as the hub, utilizing most of the northern properties of Commonwealth.

Such a step was expected to forestall a court test by Commonwealth of the so-called "death sentence" provision of the act.

The chief Cities Service subsidiary affected was the Citizens Light & Power Company, operating in and around Adrian, Mich., and supplying twenty-one townships in Lewanee and Monroe counties and twenty-eight communities with a population estimated under 50,000.

Serves Many Communities.

Commonwealth's Consumers Power company supplies electricity, and in many cases gas to approximately 1,000 Michigan communities with estimated population of more than 2,000,000. Commonwealth, chiefly operating in the southeast, has in addition to the "Adrian Division," operating utilities in Pennsylvainia, Ohio, Illinois, and Indiana.

The SEC is empowered to permit a holding company to operate more than one integrated system in the event each system cannot be operated as an independent system without loss.

EXPECT 30 CENT MINIMUM PAY FOR TEXTILES

Industry and Labor Agree on Basis.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 18.—[Special.]—A minimum wage of 30 cents an hour is expected to be established for the textile industry. Representatives of both labor and the industry have indicated their approval of this base.

The machinery of regulating hours and wages for textile workers will start operating tomorrow when Donald M. Nelson, newly appointed chairman of the textile industry board, presides over a conference of representatives of the textile industry, labor, and the public.

Five Cents Above Minimum.

The expected minimum wage of 30 cents an hour would be 5 cents more than the minimum for all industry as provided in the law. The act established a 25 cent minimum the first year, 30 cents the second year, and a goal of 40 cents by the end of seven years. Maximum hours are to be 44 a week for the first year, 42 hours a week in the second year, and a 40-hour week thereafter.

Dr. Claudius T. Muchison, president of the Cotton Textile institute, said recently that his organization had advised congressional committees when the act was under consideration that it considered 30 cents an hour a reasonable minimum for textile workers.

Labor Head Gives Approval.

Sidney Hillman, chairman of the Textile Workers Organizing committee, also said such a minimum should be established for the industry, which employes more than 690,000 persons. The Textile Workers Organizing committee is affiliated with the Committee for Industrial Organization.

Andrews has indicated that he will not attempt such wide scale organizing as was done under the NRA by Gen. Hugh S. Johnson. He said he will organize a few industries at a time. The first will be textiles, cotton garments, and tobacco.

U. S. LOSS FROM LABOR DISPUTES MORE THAN TOTAL OF 18 NATIONS

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

GENEVA, Aug. 18.—A total of 10,267 labor disputes in nineteen countries last year involved 4,223,994 workers and resulted in a loss of 50,755,454 working days. This was disclosed today in the 1938 edition of the labor statistics yearbook published by the International Labor office.

The United States, with 4,700 disputes involving 1,860,621 workers and a loss of 28,424,857 work days had more difficulty than the total of the other eighteen. Poland was next with 2,103 disputes involving 545,165 workers and a loss of 3,297,105 work days. Britain was third with 1,422 strikes involving 595,000 workers and a loss of 3,420,000 work days.

Czechoslovakia had 438 disputes involving 647,801 workers and a loss of 8,982,257 work days. Australia had 353 disputes involving 96,173 workers and a loss of 557,111 work days. Canada had 274 disputes involving 71,965 workers and a loss of 886,393 work days.

WHEAT FUTURES ARE BOUGHT BY MILL INTERESTS

CHICAGO GRAIN FUTURES

	Yesterday.	Wednesday.	Yr. ago.
Wheat	$0.63⅞	$0.63⅜	$1.07⅛
Corn	.52	.52	.98
Oats	.22⅝	.22⅝	.29¾
Rye	.42¼	.42	.80
*Soy beans	.78	.77⅝	.96¼

*October delivery.

Brokers who frequently act for mills were estimated yesterday to have purchased about 1,000,000 bushels of wheat futures on the Chicago Board of Trade. This was regarded by traders as reflecting a better domestic demand for flour. Mills also were credited with having bought wheat futures at Minneapolis and Kansas City.

American wheat markets yesterday showed a firm undertone. Closing trades on the Chicago Board of Trade were at gains of ¾ to ⅞ cent. Kansas City was ⅝ to 1⅛ cents higher and Minneapolis advanced ⅜ to ½ cent a bushel. Little attention was paid to weakness in Winnipeg prices, which closed ⅝ to 1 cent a bushel lower with the October contract leading the decline.

Other Grains Move Narrowly.

Trade in corn, oats, rye, and soy beans was light and price changes were largely confined to small fractions of a cent a bushel.

Buying of September wheat against sales of the December delivery, attributed to changing over hedges on cash grain into the deferred future, was under way yesterday. At one time the September contract showed an advance of about ¼ cent a bushel as compared with the December option.

There was an undertone of uneasiness in trade comment yesterday regarding the ultimate action of the September wheat contract. There have been unconfirmed rumors for several days that the government had been supporting the market.

U. S. Loses English Market.

As the result of the relative weakness in Winnipeg wheat futures during the last few days the United States has been practically eliminated as a seller of cash wheat to England. At the close yesterday October wheat at Winnipeg was 3½ cents a bushel above the September delivery at Chicago.

This difference, it was pointed out was more than offset by the duty of 6 cents a bushel imposed on imports of American wheat into England. Canadian wheat is admitted free of duty. Trade reports indicate that the British government has accumulated an emergency reserve of 16,000,000 bushels of wheat, or approximately four weeks' requirements.

The agriculture department reported stocks of old wheat in the United States on July 1 totaled 154,072,000 bushels. Similar stocks on the same date last year were reported at 83,214,000 bushels.

CANADIAN WHEAT CROP ESTIMATES CUT BY EXPERTS

The wheat crop in the Canadian northwest will be disappointing this year. B. W. Snow, crop expert, said in a report to the Bartlett-Frazier company from Yorkton, Sask. After personal observation covering eastern and northeastern Saskatchewan, and analyzing public and private reports from other parts of that province and Alberta and Manitoba, Snow expressed the belief that the three provinces would secure less than 295,000,000 bushels of millable wheat.

Black stem rust has taken a heavy toll of the spring wheat crop in Saskatchewan, said Snow.

Marquis wheat, a nonrust resistant variety, will prove almost a failure. A large acreage, he said, will not be cut and test weights as low as 40 to 50 pounds per bushel will be frequent over large areas.

C. C. Field, crop expert with the Norris Grain company, in a report covering part of the southern section of Saskatchewan, said nonrust resistant varieties of spring wheat in that area would probably grade No. 6 or feed. The Canadian guaranteed price for the latter grades ranges from 48 to 54½ cents a bushel belivered at Fort William.

INT. HARVESTER COMMON STOCK DIVIDEND CUT

Reduces Rate for Second Time This Year.

The International Harvester company's common stock dividend yesterday was reduced for the second time this year. Directors of the big farm implement corporation ordered a payment of 40 cents a share on Oct. 15 to stockholders of record at the close of business Sept. 20. The dividend is the final quarterly payment for the company's fiscal year, which ends Oct. 31.

A third quarter dividend of 50 cents was declared on July 15 on the 4,245,737 shares outstanding. In the first and second quarters of the current fiscal year payments of 62½ cents were made. The total of $2.15 paid in dividends on the common stock this year is a sharp drop from the 1937 fiscal year, when regular dividends of $2.50 and an extra of $1.50 were paid.

Paid $1.50 a Year Ago.

The 40 cent dividend ordered yesterday is in sharp contrast to International Harvester's fourth quarter action last year. Then a final dividend of $1.50 was ordered. In addition, the company paid bonuses totaling $1,400,000 to its 65,000 employés in the United States and Canada. Directors also appropriated 2½ million dollars from the 1937 fiscal year earnings for the workers' pension fund.

Executives of the corporation also disclosed yesterday that all employés receiving more than $2,000 a year took a 5 per cent cut in wages on Aug. 1. This was in addition to a 10 per cent reduction made earlier this year in the salaries of principal executives and a 5 per cent cut taken by the junior executive personnel.

The National Dairy Products company ordered a reduced dividend of 20 cents on the common stock, payable Oct. 1 to holders of record Sept. 1. In previous quarters the corporation, which has headquarters in New York, paid 30 cents a common share.

Germany to Adjust Debts of Nazi Party's Members

BERLIN, Aug. 8.--[Special.]--Partial cancellation or readjustment of private debts contracted before Jan. 1, 1934, was proclaimed by the German government today for persons "who suffered losses because of their allegiance to the Nazi party," or owing to the economic crisis. Jews are not allowed to profit from this moratorium, which is to be applied for in the regular German courts. Banking circles declare that the sums involved are small but they believe the propaganda value of the measures on the eve of the Nazi party rally in Nuremberg will be very great.
